3,000 Feared Dead As Slide Hits Peru Villages

HUARAZ, Peru (UPI) — A rumbling avalanche 40 feet high and half-a-mile wide crashed down towering Mt. Huascaran late yesterday, crushing a half-dozen villages and burying possibly 3,000 persons.

Police and army sources at the scene, 30 miles north of here, said the destroyed villages had a total population of about 3,100 persons. They feared all had perished.

A similar avalanche destroyed Huarez 20 years ago, killing 5,000 persons.

Col. Humberto Ampuero, directing rescue services, said the villages were buried in mud, ice and rocks, interlaced with uprooted trees.

Ampuero appealed for government aid. Relief planes stood by in Lima ready to take off as soon as the weather cleared.

An engineer battalion was en route to the scene to help clear away rubble. The threat of floods, however, added to the horror of the disaster area. The rain-swollen Santa River was lapping at its banks.

First reports of the disaster came from Dr. Leoncio Guzman, who may have been the only survivor. He saw the slide cascading down the mountain as he returned from a nearby hospital. He tried to reach his home to warn his family but he was too late.

Guzman said the hardest hit villages were Ranrahirca, Saccha, Huaraschuco and Uchucoto. They lie between Carhuaz and Yungay.

Huascaran, a 22,205-foot extinct volcano, is Peru's tallest mountain. It is one of the highest in the Andes range. Huaraz, capital of Ancash province, is 175 miles north-northwest of Lima, the capital.

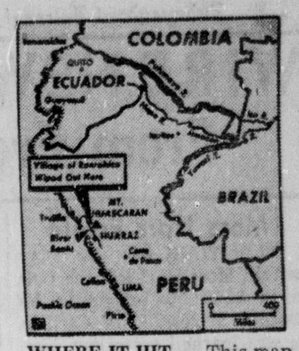
Guzman said he was driving barely a mile away from his home when he saw the slide start. At full speed he raced for the village but the landslide got there first.

"I was too late," he said. "Everyone was dead." He said he himself barely escaped. Guzman owed his life to the fact he practiced in Huaraz, although living in Ranrahirca, and was making the hospital call at the time of the slide.

The entire residential section of Huaraz was wiped out by the landslide of Dec. 13, 1941, which dumped a sea of mud, rocks and volvanic lava 150 feet high and half a mile wide into the city.

Landslides in November, 1946, killed at least 500 persons in north central Peru, including 300 miners entombed at their work. An earthquake in May, 1940, killed 249 persons and injured 3,000, most of them residents of Lima and its seaport, El Callao.

Avalanches are not unusual at this time of the year in Peru when the thaws of the spring and summer release the winter's accumulation of snow and ice from the Andes.



WHERE IT HIT — This map shows the location of the landslide in Peru where 3,000 persons are believed to have died.

NEW TRIAL ASKED

Two Found Guilty In Pitbulls Case; One Is Cleared

By CARLETON WILLIAMS

Two young members of the Sequeira family were found guilty last night of maiming and wounding animals at their Marinwood ranch.

A third members of the long-time Marin County family, Joseph Sequeira, 59, was cleared of any guilt of the crime of fighting or training pitbull terriers.

The jury of seven women and five men deliberated five hours and 40 minutes to find Clem Sequeira, 23, and George Sequeira, 21, guilty of the first of three charges, which could mean a maximum sentence of six months in jail, a $500 fine, or both.

The youths were found innocent of charges of training dogs as fighters and of staging dogfighting exhibitions for pleasure or gain. The elder Sequeira was found innocent on all three counts.

Defense attorney William O. Weissich immediately moved for arrest of judgment and a new trial.

Weissich based his demand on the omission of the word "malicious" from the prosecution's charge as given the jury by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Municipal Court.

"The maiming or wounding of another person's dog is not a crime in California unless it is done maliciously," Weissich said. "The judge was in error when he instructed the jury that no specific intent was required to find my clients guilty. A specific intent of malice is required."

Weissich also charged that insufficient evidence was offered by Deputy Dist. Atty. P. Roy Vallarino.

A time for a hearing on Weissich's motions was to be set this afternoon by Judge Wilson.

"If a new trial is not granted, we will appeal to the highest court in the land," Weissich said.

The two youths were impassive as the court clerk read the jury's decision. Joseph Sequeira, father of George and uncle of Clem, was not in the almost deserted courtroom when the verdict was handed down at 10:55 p.m. Present, however, was Patricia Neumann, 21-year-old neighbor of the Sequeiras who began the trial as the prosecution's star witness, then later switched her testimony in favor of the defendants.

Jury foreman H. Gordon Hawes, a retired engineer of 9 Bonita Avenue, Sausalito, said the testimony of Miss Neumann and that of Billy Newman, 15, another neighbor whose testimony contradicted a former statement he had made to a deputy sheriff, had no bearing on the decision of guilt.

"There was too much contradiction in their testimony to be of any value," Hawes said.

Because each of the three de-

Kennedy Asks Congress For Tax, Tariff Powers

Also Seeks Schools, Civil Rights Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy asked for unprecedented tax-cutting and tariff-slashing powers in laying before Congress today a massive legislative program he described as keyed to "fulfill the world's hope by fulfilling our own faith." (See also stories on page 7.)

And, in a 6,000-word State of the Union message, surprised many legislators by calling vigorously for multi-billion-dollar federal aid to public schools and for civil rights legislation. Many had developed the notion that the administration would soft-pedal these issues this year.

RIGHT TO VOTE

"The right to vote . . . should no longer be arbitrarily denied through such iniquitous local devices as literacy tests and poll taxes," Kennedy declared.

Wrapped up in his report on how the nation stands and what is needed were many well-anticipated requests — for creation of a new Cabinet-level Department of Urban Affairs, for higher postal rates, for a new farm program.

Sounding a note of urgency, Kennedy called for crucial decisions quickly — at this moment when he said a united Europe flourishes and Communist unity falters.

'TALK, FIGHT'

He pledged America to "talk when appropriate, and to fight, if necessary," to preserve a free Berlin, and he hinted at a coming reorganization of the fighting forces to bolster a military stance which he said has steadily improved in the past year.

Kennedy proposed "a bold new instrument of American trade policy"—a rewriting of the trade agreements act to let him gradually wipe out some tariffs entirely and reduce others by 50 per cent.

Anticipating the age-old debate between protectionists and proponents of free trade, Kennedy said: "Our decision could well affect the unity of the West, the course of the cold war and the growth of our nation for a generation or more to come."

The chief executive, beginning his second year in office in a world still beset with the hazard of catastrophic war, pitched U.S. foreign policy to "the goal of a peaceful world of free and independent states."

Bomber Breaks Long Distance Flight Record

MADRID, Spain — A new U.S. B-52-H superbomber roared into the Torrejon airbase near Madrid today after a record-smashing 12,519-mile flight from Okinawa without refueling.

The plane and its eight-man Air Force crew headed by Maj. Clyde T. Evely, 39, of Petersburg, Va., broke the old world distance mark of 11,235.6 miles without refueling. It had been held through the first 15 years of the jet age by a propeller-driven U.S. Navy plane named the "Truculent Turtle."

Aviation experts here called the flight a potent example of the new plane's ability to deliver a cargo of nucelar-armed missiles almost anywhere in the world.

The huge Boeing superbomber had been in the air 22 hours and 9 minutes and had spanned two oceans and the North American continent when Evely set it down on the base's 15,000-foot runway, the longest in Western Europe.

Waiting on the runway to pin Distinguished Flying Crosses on Evely and members of his crew for their achievement was Maj. Gen. David Wade, commander of the U.S. 16th Air Force with headquarters at Torrejon.

The Air Force claimed the new mark subject to confirmation by the International Aeronautics Federation.

Federation representatives checked the Okinawa-Madrid flight both from the plane itself and from other checkpoints.

The old mark, set by the Truculent Turtle and its crew in 1946, was from a flight from Perth, Australia, to Columbus, Ohio

TRIED SUICIDE

Slayer, 31, Dies In Gas Chamber

Rudolph Wright, 31, who killed twice and drew the death penalty for his second murder, was executed in the San Quentin Prison gas chamber today after trying unsuccessfully to cheat the state by suicide late yesterday.

Wright swallowed a three-week supply of tranquilizers in his Death Row cell yesterday afternoon, then called a guard just before 3 p.m. to tell what he had done, reported Warden Fred R. Dickson.

His stomach was pumped and he was returned to his cell at 4:30 p.m. — in time to be moved to the overnight holding cell in the death house to await execution this morning.

Promptly at 10 a.m. he entered the execution chamber. The pellets which emit the lethal gas were released at 10:02. Ten minutes later, Wright was pronounced dead.

Warden Dickson said Wright had been given three tranquilizer pills each day for the past three weeks. Instead of swallowing them, apparently, he saved them. Yesterday he called a guard to say he had "taken some pills" — the entire three weeks' supply.

"I saw him at 9 p.m.," said the warden. "He was groggy and sleepy but rational. I asked him why he did it. All he said was, 'I don't really know. I just took the pills and thought I'd wait and see what happened.' "

Wright was sentenced to death for the knife slaying of fellow prisoner Robert L. Grayson in Soledad Prison in 1959. He had served 10 years of a life sentence in Soledad for kidnaping and murder of a

Method Of Teaching Reading Is Assailed

Public school teachers naturally resist any method of teaching reading except "look-say," because that is the only method they know, Mrs. Henrietta Koch of Berkeley told a public meeting on the teaching of reading in San Rafael last night.

Evidence that there is something wrong with the "look-say" method, said Dr. Grace Brown, remedial reading teacher at City College of San Francisco, is found in the fact that 71 per cent of freshmen tested at her college guessed at unfamiliar words — and often guessed wrong — because they were unable to sound them out.

The lack of reading comprehension among these students closely followed the number of wrong guesses.

The two women were speakers at a meeting called by the San Rafael Citizens Curriculum Committee, which attracted a crowd that nearly filled the San Rafael High School Little Theater.

Dr. Brown said she was concerned with "the end product" of the present methods of teaching reading: the student entering college.

A test which she helped devise was given to large groups of freshmen at City College, San Jose State College, and Stanford University. Seventy-one per cent of the City College freshmen were "severely handicapped in their reading" by inability to cope with unfamiliar words, she said. Sixty per cent at San Jose State and 21 per cent at Stanford showed similar difficulty.

"From where I sit, there's something wrong," said Dr. Brown.

Mrs. Koch, a former teacher,

Snow Flurries Flutter On Ski Resorts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—There were snow flurries this morning on Sierra winter resorts north of the Tahoe area.

All roads to sprots areas were open, under normal winter conditions and chains were not required.

Outside of the zones of snow showers, skies were clear and temperatures moderate, except at Mt. Rose in Nevada where a reading of four degrees was reported.

The resorts reported these snow conditions:

VANDALS PUT OUT THE SCHOOL GRASS

Vandals used a fire extinguisher to spray the lawn at Sleepy Hollow School, causing the grass to die, Principal Donald Wallace reported to the sheriff yesterday.

Wallace told Deputy Sheriff John Harris he found a yellow fire extinguisher at the school about noon last Sunday.

1 Reported Dead In Yugoslav Quake

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) —A strong earthquake shook Yugoslavia today, tumbling buildings and touching off landslides. The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said at least one person was killed and several injured.

Reports of shocks in short intervals lasting for an hour came from all parts of the country, Tanjug said.

It said the center of the tremors was at Makarska, a resort on the Adriatic about 200 miles southwest of Belgrade.

3,000 Feared Dead As Slide Hits Peru Villages

HUARAZ, Peru (UPI) — A rumbling avalanche 40 feet high and half-a-mile wide crashed down towering Mt. Huascaran late yesterday, crushing a half-dozen villages and burying possibly 3,000 persons.

NEW TRIAL ASKED

Two Found Guilty In Pitbulls Case; One Is Cleared

By CARLETON WILLIAMS

Two young members of the Sequeira family were found guilty last night of maiming and wounding animals at their Marinwood ranch.

A third members of the long-time Marin County family, Joseph Sequeira, 59, was cleared of any guilt of the crime of fighting or training pitbull terriers.

The jury of seven women and five men deliberated five hours and 40 minutes to find Clem Sequeira, 23, and George Sequeira, 21, guilty of the first of three charges, which could mean a maximum sentence of six months in jail, a $500 fine, or both.

Dr. Brown said she was concerned with "the end product" of the present methods of teaching reading: the student entering college.

A test which she helped devise was given to large groups of freshmen at City College, San Jose State College, and Stanford University. Seventy-one per cent of the City College freshmen were "severely handicapped in their reading" by inability to cope with unfamiliar words, she said. Sixty per cent at San Jose State and 21 per cent at Stanford showed similar difficulty.

"From where I sit, there's something wrong," said Dr. Brown.

Snow Flurries Flutter On Ski Resorts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—There were snow flurries this morning on Sierra winter resorts north of the Tahoe area.

All roads to sprots areas were open, under normal winter conditions and chains were not required.

Outside of the zones of snow showers, skies were clear and temperatures moderate, except at Mt. Rose in Nevada where a reading of four degrees was reported.

The resorts reported these snow conditions:

U.S. 50, snowline at Strawberry. Edelweiss 15 in. Sierra Ski ranch, 11 to 23 in. Fair to good. Echo Summit, 10 to 22 in. Heavenly Valley 16 in. fair.

VANDALS PUT OUT THE SCHOOL GRASS

Vandals used a fire extinguisher to spray the lawn at Sleepy Hollow School, causing the grass to die, Principal Donald Wallace reported to the sheriff yesterday.

Wallace told Deputy Sheriff John Harris he found a yellow fire extinguisher at the school about noon last Sunday.

1 Reported Dead In Yugoslav Quake

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) —A strong earthquake shook Yugoslavia today, tumbling buildings and touching off landslides. The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said at least one person was killed and several injured.

Reports of shocks in short intervals lasting for an hour came from all parts of the country, Tanjug said.

It said the center of the tremors was at Makarska, a resort on the Adriatic about 200 miles southwest of Belgrade.

Moss Hart Estate

Trade Pact

HAVANA (UPI) — A trade agreement signed by Cuba with Russia envisions an exchange of more than 700 million dollars worth of goods between the two countries this year, it was announced last night.

Soviet foreign trade undersecretary Michael Kuzmin told a press conference that 1962 trade between Russia and Cuba will be more than four times as much as the 170 million dollars worth of goods the two countries exchanged in 1960.

Safety Conference

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown yesterday named Benjamin H. Swig, San Francisco businessman, to head the governor's traffic safety conference here Feb. 1 and 2.

Brown said he called the conference because California's eight million motorists face constantly increasing highway traffic problems.

"Mr. Swig is a member of President John F. Kennedy's committee for traffic safety, an outstanding San Francisco businessman and a long-time leader in civic affairs in his community," Brown said.

Swig promised to continue an organized attack on California's traffic problem and its high traffic death toll.

Gambling Profit

CARSON CITY (UPI) — Nevada's legalized gambling industry reported a record gross of $216,269,274 for 1961 — from which the state collected $10,693,309 in taxes and fees.

The state gaming commission said yesterday that gaming winnings and state taxes were up 8 per cent from the previous record in 1960, when gamblers grossed about 200 million dollars and paid the state nearly 10 million dollars.

Income for gamblers in Nevada's 17 counties during 1961 ranged from a gross of $115,161,044 in Clark County (Las Vegas) to $7,279 in mountainous Eureka County in the center of the state.

X-15 Failure

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE (UPI)—The puzzling first failure of an X-15 rocket ship's engine to ignite after launching from a B-52 mother-ship was under study today by engineers of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Cmdr. Forrest S. Petersen was at the controls of the research craft yesterday when it was launched at an altitude of 45,000 feet. Without power, he glided to an emergency landing at Mud Lake, Nev., some 200 miles northeast of his starting point.

Low Temperature

NEW YORK (UPI)—The lowest temperature reported to the U.S. weather bureau this morning was 39 below zero at Laramie, Wyo. The lowest reported at the U.S. south pole station yesterday was 20 below. The highest temperature reported yesterday was 81 degrees at Homestead, Fla.

Gale On Channel

LONDON (UPI) — A severe gale, with one gust of wind recorded at 104 miles per hour, swept Britain today and crippled shipping schedules in the English Channel.

Three persons were killed in two separate incidents when high winds felled huge trees inland.

Vaccinations

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI) — The army vaccinated 100,000 persons yesterday in an urgent door-to-door campaign to control a smallpox epidemic that is reported spreading from the slums to the better residential areas of this city.

Eleven persons died yesterday, bringing the official death toll to 200.

Goldwater Backing

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) announced his support today of the American Committee for Aid to Katanga Freedom Fighters.

Goldwater was the second senator to join the list of committee sponsors. The other is Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) chairman of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary.

The aid committee, which has come under criticism from top State Department officials, urges an investigation of U.S. foreign policy in the Congo and the United Nations.

Theft With An Air

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—A burglar stole an air conditioner from the home of Mrs. Scott Keeling yesterday. The temperature was 11 degrees, the coldest Jan. 10 in 46 years.

Gizenga Is Parliament Target

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — The Congo Parliament is expected to crack down on Antoine Gizenga for refusing to return to Leopoldville to answer charges of secession. The rebellious deputy premier may be ousted from the government and his arrest may be ordered.

Any arrest order, however, would be difficult to carry out as long as Gizenga remains at his headquarters in Stanleyville, the capital of Oriental Province, 775 miles northeast of Leopoldville.

Parliament by a vote of 66-10 Monday ordered Gizenga to return to Leopoldville within 48 hours to take up his post. During heated debate deputies accused the leftist political heir of the late Patrice Lumumba of secessionist activities in Stanleyville.

In a sarcastic telegram to Premier Cyrille Adoula, Gizenga said he would not return to the capital until Adoula's government "entirely and faithfully executed" a parliamentary resolution of last September calling for an end to the secession of Katanga Province and the arrest of three top Katanga ministers.

Adoula's office replied with a statement that Gizenga "was not entrusted with any mission in Stanleyville or any other part of the Congo" by the government and his activities were not in accord with the government.

Millions Of Americans Suffering As Winter Throws One-Two Punch

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter's longest and most bitter siege of cold weather held a tight grip over most of the eastern two-thirds of the nation today, causing much suffering and inconvenience to millions.

The cold, snowy, icy weather —which has plagued some sections of the country for a week —was blamed for more than 100 deaths.

Of the 104 storm-related fatalities reported in 24 states, 59 were attributed to overexertion in snow shoveling, pushing cars and similar activities. Fourteen persons died from exposure in the freezing and sub-zero weather and 31 were killed in traffic accidents on ice-coated and snow-covered highways and streets.

No general, immediate relief from the cold was indicated. But snow, which hit eastern and southern areas Wednesday, had tapered off in most sections.

But snow fell in Pensacola, in northwest Florida, and in the south, Miami reported a reading of 65.

It was below zero again in the central Rockies, the west central Plains and adjacent areas southward into northern Texas.

The mercury also plunged below zero again in the Upper Mississippi Valley, western Great Lakes region, the Ohio Valley and southward into northern parts of the middle Gulf States.

Temperatures, although in the below-zero range, were moderate over northern sections of the Rockies and Great Plaines as the frigid air penetrated farther into the South.

The icy cold threatened major damage to some vegetable and citrus crops in the Lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas.

The worst weather of the winter season also hit many segments of business and industry. Many factories and government offices, both in Northern and Southern cities, closed. Hundreds of schools remained closed in the South.

Driving conditions throughout the snow and sleet covered sections of the South were hazardous.

Washington shivered as the mercury headed for a low of 6 degrees.

Most rural schools remained closed in Arkansas. No classes were scheduled in many schools in north Georgia, many parts of Virginia, Oklahoma and Tennessee.

In the Northeast, about four inches of fresh snow fell at Silver Creek on the fringe of Lake Erie south of Buffalo.

In the Far West, blizzard conditions were reported in sections of Arizona, including the White Mountains, McCollon Rim and Benson areas. Cold, gusty winds whipped over other sections of the state.

The 13 above maximum temperature in Albuquerque, N.M., yesterday was a record for the lowest daytime high.

Perjury Trial Set

NEW YORK (UPI)—The perjury trial of television quiz contestant Charles Van Doren has been set for next Wednesday.

Van Doren failed to show up for a hearing yesterday on charges he and 10 others lied to a grand jury when they claimed "21" and other shows were not rigged.

Hotel's Calculating Machine Is Stolen

Theft of a calculating machine valued at $300 from the San Anselmo Hotel at 339 San Anselmo Avenue was reported to Hub City police Tuesday by Lester B. Robinson, proprietor. Police Chief Raymond R. Buchignani said the machine was kept in an unlocked cabinet in the hotel lobby.

Greenbrae Group Changing Fees

Greenbrae Property Owners Assn. decided to change its membership fees from $5 the first year and $2 each additional year to $3 each year. The board passed its resolution Tuesday night.

The board set its general meeting for Feb. 12 at 8 p.m. in the multi-purpose room of Greenbrae School.

Clay Returns To Work In West Berlin

BERLIN (UPI)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay returned to work today as President John F. Kennedy's personal representative in Berlin with increased authority to deal with Communist-provoked incidents.

Clay came back to this divided city late last night from a meeting with Kennedy in Washington. A spokesman said he would issue a statement today or tomorrow.

SENIOR AMERICAN

Reports from Washington said Kennedy underscored the authority of his on-the-spot representative here by calling him the "senior American in Berlin." The action appeared to leave Clay clearly responsible for meeting Communist threats to "neutralize" West Berlin.

Maj. Gen. Albert Watson, the U.S. military commandant here, met Clay at the airport last night.

BORDER INCIDENTS

A rash of border incidents was reported today. They said East German police twice hurled tear gas grenades at West German police in the French sector and stoned the windows of a chemical plant near the dividing line.

In one of the grenade incidents the Western patrol retaliated with four grenades and in the other no action was necessary because the wind wafted the tear gas back at the Communists, it was reported.

Beach Overlook Funds Approved

Development work required by the federal government on the new Muir Beach Overlook point was assured Tuesday when Marin County supervisors voted transferal of $4,500 previously set aside for Paradise Park fishing pier improvement to the overlook site for which the money was originally destined.

Public Works Director Marvin W. Brigham said he can build an outlook access road on land already acquired, clear the site and open it to the public before a required federal report next November with the money now available.

Alleged Bargains Warning Issued

Alleged bargains in stainless steel cookware are being offered to Marin County housewives by mail at inflated prices, according to information received by the Better Business Bureau in San Francisco.

More than five companies are said to have been involved and offerings varied according to the firm involved. In one instance the offer is of a 17-piece set of de luxe quality triply-waterless cookware of which it is claimed that it formerly sold on the "home-party-plan" basis for $199.50.

Catch in this is said to be that the set never sold for such a figure and that corresponding sets can be bought at $24 to $27. The sellers claim to have stocks of bankrupt concerns.

Millions Of Americans Suffering As Winter Throws One-Two Punch

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter's longest and most bitter siege of cold weather held a tight grip over most of the eastern two-thirds of the nation today, causing much suffering and inconvenience to millions.

The cold, snowy, icy weather —which has plagued some sections of the country for a week —was blamed for more than 100 deaths.

Of the 104 storm-related fatalities reported in 24 states, 59 were attributed to overexertion in snow shoveling, pushing cars and similar activities. Fourteen persons died from exposure in the freezing and sub-zero weather and 31 were killed in traffic accidents on ice-coated and snow-covered highways and streets.

No general, immediate relief from the cold was indicated. But snow, which hit eastern and southern areas Wednesday, had tapered off in most sections.

But snow fell in Pensacola, in northwest Florida, and in the south, Miami reported a reading of 65.

It was below zero again in the central Rockies, the west central Plains and adjacent areas southward into northern Texas.

The mercury also plunged below zero again in the Upper Mississippi Valley, western Great Lakes region, the Ohio Valley and southward into northern parts of the middle Gulf States.

Temperatures, although in the below-zero range, were moderate over northern sections of the Rockies and Great Plaines as the frigid air penetrated farther into the South.

The icy cold threatened major damage to some vegetable and citrus crops in the Lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas.

The worst weather of the winter season also hit many segments of business and industry. Many factories and government offices, both in Northern and Southern cities, closed. Hundreds of schools remained closed in the South.

Driving conditions throughout the snow and sleet covered sections of the South were hazardous.

Washington shivered as the mercury headed for a low of 6 degrees.

Most rural schools remained closed in Arkansas. No classes were scheduled in many schools in north Georgia, many parts of Virginia, Oklahoma and Tennessee.

In the Northeast, about four inches of fresh snow fell at Silver Creek on the fringe of Lake Erie south of Buffalo.

In the Far West, blizzard conditions were reported in sections of Arizona, including the White Mountains, McCollon Rim and Benson areas. Cold, gusty winds whipped over other sections of the state.

The 13 above maximum temperature in Albuquerque, N.M., yesterday was a record for the lowest daytime high.

Perjury Trial Set

NEW YORK (UPI)—The perjury trial of television quiz contestant Charles Van Doren has been set for next Wednesday.

Van Doren failed to show up for a hearing yesterday on charges he and 10 others lied to a grand jury when they claimed "21" and other shows were not rigged.

Hotel's Calculating Machine Is Stolen

Theft of a calculating machine valued at $300 from the San Anselmo Hotel at 339 San Anselmo Avenue was reported to Hub City police Tuesday by Lester B. Robinson, proprietor. Police Chief Raymond R. Buchignani said the machine was kept in an unlocked cabinet in the hotel lobby.

Greenbrae Group Changing Fees

Greenbrae Property Owners Assn. decided to change its membership fees from $5 the first year and $2 each additional year to $3 each year. The board passed its resolution Tuesday night.

The board set its general meeting for Feb. 12 at 8 p.m. in the multi - purpose room of Greenbrae School.

Clay Returns To Work In West Berlin

BERLIN (UPI)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay returned to work today as President John F. Kennedy's personal representative in Berlin with increased authority to deal with Communist-provoked incidents.

Clay came back to this divided city late last night from a meeting with Kennedy in Washington. A spokesman said he would issue a statement today or tomorrow.

SENIOR AMERICAN

Reports from Washington said Kennedy underscored the authority of his on-the-spot representative here by calling him the "senior American in Berlin." The action appeared to leave Clay clearly responsible for meeting Communist threats to "neutralize" West Berlin.

Maj. Gen. Albert Watson, the U.S. military commandant here, met Clay at the airport last night.

BORDER INCIDENTS

A rash of border incidents was reported today. They said East German police twice hurled tear gas grenades at West German police in the French sector and stoned the windows of a chemical plant near the dividing line.

In one of the grenade incidents the Western patrol retaliated with four grenades and in the other no action was necessary because the wind wafted the tear gas back at the Communists, it was reported.

Medical Society

A panel discussion of "Labor, Medicine and You" will feature a closed session of the Marin Medical Society at 8 p.m. next Tuesday at the Ross Hospital Cafeteria.

Beach Overlook Funds Approved

Development work required by the federal government on the new Muir Beach Overlook point was assured Tuesday when Marin County supervisors voted transferal of $4,500 previously set aside for Paradise Park fishing pier improvement to the overlook site for which the money was originally destined.

Public Works Director Marvin W. Brigham said he can build an outlook access road on land already acquired, clear the site and open it to the public before a required federal report next November with the money now available.

Alleged Bargains Warning Issued

Alleged bargains in stainless steel cookware are being offered to Marin County housewives by mail at inflated prices, according to information received by the Better Business Bureau in San Francisco.

More than five companies are said to have been involved and offerings varied according to the firm involved. In one instance the offer is of a 17-piece set of de luxe quality triply-waterless cookware of which it is claimed that it formerly sold on the "home-party-plan" basis for $199.50.

Catch in this is said to be that the set never sold for such a figure and that corresponding sets can be bought at $24 to $27. The sellers claim to have stocks of bankrupt concerns.

Commuter Congestion Relief Asked

Mill Valley Commuters Club urged the county board of supervisors yesterday to push harder toward relieving the "ever increasing commuter traffic congestion between Marin and San Francisco."

In a letter signed by President Edward J. Boessenecker, the club said traffic on Highway 101 in the past year "has increased so much as to suggest the saturation point is no longer in the vague future but almost upon us."

SLOW LINES

It cited "slow moving lines of automobiles and buses which yesterday stretched bumper-to-bumper across the bridge, today stretch to the Waldo Tunnel and to Spencer Avenue (Sausalito), and frequently as far north as Alto." The Magnitude of the problem has not been grasped by the non-commuting public, the letter assents.

The club said widening of the bridge toll plaza and eliminating the curve on the north end will do much to alleviate the present condition but, with projected population figures for Marin, this is only a stopgap.

SECOND BRIDGE

"A second bridge is essential," the letter continues, "particularly if the Golden Gate Bridge is ruled to be incapable to carry mass transit lines . . .

"In view of the length of time necessary for the designing and construction of such a bridge . . . immediate steps to plan and procure a second bridge may well be mandatory. It seems to us vital that Marin County determine for itself the location and the access routes which will best serve the needs of our county and least damage its natural beauty and its residential areas.

Such planning, the letter continues, must embrace a system of mass transit, be it rail or ferry.

"The need is pressing. The problem is growing," the letter concludes.

Peace People Set Up New Attack Against Fallout Shelters Program

People for Peace last night set battle lines for a new attack on bomb fallout shelters—letters to President John F. Kennedy, Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Rep. Clem Miller (D-Corte Madera).

About 20 persons meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Giles Gibson at 675 Woodbine Lane, Terra Linda, voted to ask President Kennedy to cease atmospheric testing of nuclear bombs, and voice to Brown their opposition to shelters as instruments of survival.

They voted to ask all three what economic plans were being considered in event the world drifts into peace instead of war.

The group also decided to place booths at Lee Brothers Market in Marinwood and Scotty's Market in Terra Linda with an open letter to the Marin County Board of Supervisors that residents may sign. The letter will express opposition to shelters.

Panelists were announced for a public meeting to be held at 8 p.m. Feb. 8 in the multipurpose room of Bernard Hoffman School on "Peace, Our Only Shelter."

Dr. Robert Schutz of Berkeley, former research economist for the Federal Reserve Bank office in San Francisco and former University of California faculty member, will talk on disarmament. He is Washington lobbyist for the Lobby for Peace.

Benjamin Seaver, peace education secretary for the American Friends Service Committee, will discuss "The Armament Race." Dr. Robert Weinerman, radiation specialist for the U.S. Public Health Service, also will talk.

Mrs. Bertram Koel, chairman of People for Peace, said packets of literature are being prepared and may be obtained by writing the group at P.O. Box 242, San Rafael. The group's next meeting will be at 8 p.m. Jan. 24 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Luce, 336 Hickory Lane, Terra Linda.

Chicago Freeways Are Most Crowded

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago area now claims the questionable distinction of having the nation's most crowded stretch of superhighway.

Los Angeles drivers had claimed the record by jamming onto the Hollywood Freeway at the rate of 6,600 vehicles an hour, Payes said.

Industry Group, Redwood Unit Meeting Set

Quarterly executive board meeting of the Redwood Empire Assn. will be held Jan. 19 at Rickey's Rancho Rafael in Ignacio.

The day-long session will begin at 10 a.m. Luncheon will be a joint program with members of the Marin Industrial Development Foundation.

Among items on the agenda for the meeting, according to Jack Craemer of Greenbrae, REA president, are: Date and location of the 1962 convention; election of a treasurer; plans for the year's publicity and advertising program, and reports on the association's beaches and parks study.

"Travel Dollars Are Good Dollars" will be the theme of the meeting.

Larkspur Recreation Commission Gets Work

The Larkspur Recreation Commission no longer has time on its hands.

At a joint meeting with the city council last night—called for the express purpose of finding useful employment for the seven-member commission — five specific tasks were given the group.

They were: (1) Evaluate and make recommendations on the city's present recreation program, which is in the hands of the Larkspur - Corte Madera Joint Recreation Commission; (2) participate in and report on the activities of the County Council of Recreation Commissions; (3) revise and draw up ordinances covering trees, green belts and parks; (4) plan recreation site developments, and (5) plan future planting of trees.

The committee was not dismayed by the prospect of work. "We came here looking for direction," said chairman Peter Krug.

The meeting had been called at request of the commissioners who claimed they had nothing to talk about at their meetings other than Eastman Hall and, possibly, the weather.

As an added incentive last night, the prospect of operating capital was held out to the group.

"I, for one, would probably go along with a request from the commission for money," said Mayor Arthur E. Storhaug, who suggested that the commission submit a budget to the council at budget time. The present recreation tax of four cents per $100 assessed valuation goes to the joint commission.

The recreation commission was inactivated in 1954 when the joint recreation commission was formed. The group came to life again in 1957 when prospects looked bright for state assistance toward building a civic center and harbor development on the creek at the dump on Doherty Drive. About a year ago, the harbor development was all but abandoned as far as state assistance was concerned when it was realized the city was near the bottom of the priority list.

"When our balloon was punctured, we wound up talking about the weather," Krug said.

City Manager Ronald E. Piper told the commission that over three acres of the site would be ready for development next spring. It was agreed that plans for site development would take priority with the commission immediately.

The first activity of the commission would be supervision of the planting of 100 small trees, donated to the city by the Larkspur Woman's Club.

It was also agreed that, to establish better communications, commission and council would meet jointly at least once a year. It was recommended that a commission representative attend council meetings at least once a month, requesting a place on the agenda when pressing matters arose.

Councilmen Lesly A. Daveler and Neil R. Brixon were absent from last night's meeting. Victor Corsini was the only commission member absent. Brixon is council representative on the commission.

Phone Tracer Plan Attracts PT&T Interest

Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. today expressed cautious interest in a new device which General Dynamics Corp. asserts can trace phone calls from kidnapers, crackpots and other undesirable callers.

Whether the phone company would take part in installing the devices in Marin and elsewhere in the Bay Area or would object to its installation, a phone company spokesman could not immediately say.

He explained: "Yesterday was the first we heard about it. We have no idea how it works. Whether the company would object to it would depend on a close study of its effect on the instrument and on the service."

He added, "From what is described, it sounds like a remarkable development."

According to General Dynamics, its device makes is possible to make a locked connection with an anonymous caller even if he hangs up within seconds.

The receiver of an annoying or threatening call pushes a button on his telephone that keeps the calling telephone on the line even if the caller has hung up.

The person receiving the call then can dial police or telephone headquarters without breaking the original connection—and the call thus can be traced.

The unit would cost between $100 and $150 if used as original equipment, said the company, but would cost more if added later.

Municipal Expert To Speak In Hub

John G. Vande Pol, municipal financing consultant from San Francisco, will be the main speaker at the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce installation dinner on Jan. 18.

The installation and dinner is set for 8 p.m. at Buon Gusto Villa in Fairfax.

Richard A. Kientz, new president for 1962, will take over the gavel from outgoing president, John Phillips. Other officers to be installed with Kientz are Patricia Mann, vice president; George Washburn, secretary-manager; and Frank Theron, treasurer.

Robert F. Seeba will be master of ceremonies.

Eugene Ostaggi and Lee Busolo, former members of the San Anselmo Chamber, will be honored guests and will receive engravel plaques. Ostaggi moved out of town, and Busolo resigned because of the pressure of his expanding business.

Colored Garden Slides

Colored slides of Marin County gardens will be shown at a meeting of the Garden Society of Marin in the Chemistry Room, College of Marin, at 8 p.m. Jan. 19.

Commuter Congestion Relief Asked

Mill Valley Commuters Club urged the county board of supervisors yesterday to push harder toward relieving the "ever increasing commuter traffic congestion between Marin and San Francisco."

In a letter signed by President Edward J. Boessenecker, the club said traffic on Highway 101 in the past year "has increased so much as to suggest the saturation point is no longer in the vague future but almost upon us."

SLOW LINES

It cited "slow moving lines of automobiles and buses which yesterday stretched bumper-to-bumper across the bridge, today stretch to the Waldo Tunnel and to Spencer Avenue (Sausalito), and frequently as far north as Alto." The Magnitude of the problem has not been grasped by the non-commuting public, the letter assents.

The club said widening of the bridge toll plaza and eliminating the curve on the north end will do much to alleviate the present condition but, with projected population figures for Marin, this is only a stopgap.

SECOND BRIDGE

"A second bridge is essential," the letter continues, "particularly if the Golden Gate Bridge is ruled to be incapable to carry mass transit lines . . .

"In view of the length of time necessary for the designing and construction of such a bridge . . . immediate steps to plan and procure a second bridge may well be mandatory. It seems to us vital that Marin County determine for itself the location and the access routes which will best serve the needs of our county and least damage its natural beauty and its residential areas.

Such planning, the letter continues, must embrace a system of mass transit, be it rail or ferry.

"The need is pressing. The problem is growing," the letter concludes.

Peace People Set Up New Attack Against Fallout Shelters Program

People for Peace last night set battle lines for a new attack on bomb fallout shelters—letters to President John F. Kennedy, Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Rep. Clem Miller (D-Corte Madera).

About 20 persons meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Giles Gibson at 675 Woodbine Lane, Terra Linda, voted to ask President Kennedy to cease atmospheric testing of nuclear bombs, and voice to Brown their opposition to shelters as instruments of survival.

They voted to ask all three what economic plans were being considered in event the world drifts into peace instead of war.

The group also decided to place booths at Lee Brothers Market in Marinwood and Scotty's Market in Terra Linda with an open letter to the Marin County Board of Supervisors that residents may sign. The letter will express opposition to shelters.

Panelists were announced for a public meeting to be held at 8 p.m. Feb. 8 in the multi-purpose room of Bernard Hoffman School on "Peace, Our Only Shelter."

Dr. Robert Schutz of Berkeley, former research economist for the Federal Reserve Bank office in San Francisco and former University of California faculty member, will talk on disarmament. He is Washington lobbyist for the Lobby for Peace.

Benjamin Seaver, peace education secretary for the American Friends Service Committee, will discuss "The Armament Race." Dr. Robert Weinerman, radiation specialist for the U.S. Public Health Service, also will talk.

Mrs. Bertram Koel, chairman of People for Peace, said packets of literature are being prepared and may be obtained by writing the group at P.O. Box 242, San Rafael. The group's next meeting will be at 8 p.m. Jan. 24 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Luce, 336 Hickory Lane, Terra Linda.

Chicago Freeways Are Most Crowded

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago area now claims the questionable distinction of having the nation's most crowded stretch of superhighway.

Los Angeles drivers had claimed the record by jamming onto the Hollywood Freeway at the rate of 6,600 vehicles an hour, Payes said.

Industry Group, Redwood Unit Meeting Set

Quarterly executive board meeting of the Redwood Empire Assn. will be held Jan. 19 at Rickey's Rancho Rafael in Ignacio.

The day-long session will begin at 10 a.m. Luncheon will be a joint program with members of the Marin Industrial Development Foundation.

Among items on the agenda for the meeting, according to Jack Craemer of Greenbrae, REA president, are: Date and location of the 1962 convention; election of a treasurer; plans for the year's publicity and advertising program, and reports on the association's beaches and parks study.

"Travel Dollars Are Good Dollars" will be the theme of the meeting.

Larkspur Recreation Commission Gets Work

The Larkspur Recreation Commission no longer has time on its hands.

At a joint meeting with the city council last night—called for the express purpose of finding useful employment for the seven-member commission — five specific tasks were given the group.

They were: (1) Evaluate and make recommendations on the city's present recreation program, which is in the hands of the Larkspur - Corte Madera Joint Recreation Commission; (2) participate in and report on the activities of the County Council of Recreation Commissions; (3) revise and draw up ordinances covering trees, green belts and parks; (4) plan recreation site developments, and (5) plan future planting of trees.

The committee was not dismayed by the prospect of work. "We came here looking for direction," said chairman Peter Krug.

The meeting had been called at request of the commissioners who claimed they had nothing to talk about at their meetings other than Eastman Hall and, possibly, the weather.

As an added incentive last night, the prospect of operating capital was held out to the group.

"I, for one, would probably go along with a request from the commission for money," said Mayor Arthur E. Storhaug, who suggested that the commission submit a budget to the council at budget time. The present recreation tax of four cents per $100 assessed valuation goes to the joint commission.

The recreation commission was inactivated in 1954 when the joint recreation commission was formed. The group came to life again in 1957 when prospects looked bright for state assistance toward building a civic center and harbor development on the creek at the dump on Doherty Drive. About a year ago, the harbor development was all but abandoned as far as state assistance was concerned when it was realized the city was near the bottom of the priority list.

"When our balloon was punctured, we wound up talking about the weather," Krug said.

City Manager Ronald E. Piper told the commission that over three acres of the site would be ready for development next spring. It was agreed that plans for site development would take priority with the commission immediately.

The first activity of the commission would be supervision of the planting of 100 small trees, donated to the city by the Larkspur Woman's Club.

It was also agreed that, to establish better communications, commission and council would meet jointly at least once a year. It was recommended that a commission representative attend council meetings at least once a month, requesting a place on the agenda when pressing matters arose.

Councilmen Lesly A. Daveler and Neil R. Brixon were absent from last night's meeting. Victor Corsini was the only commission member absent. Brixon is council representative on the commission.

Phone Tracer Plan Attracts PT&T Interest

Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. today expressed cautious interest in a new device which General Dynamics Corp. asserts can trace phone calls from kidnapers, crackpots and other undesirable callers.

Whether the phone company would take part in installing the devices in Marin and elsewhere in the Bay Area or would object to its installation, a phone company spokesman could not immediately say.

He explained: "Yesterday was the first we heard about it. We have no idea how it works. Whether the company would object to it would depend on a close study of its effect on the instrument and on the service."

He added, "From what is described, it sounds like a remarkable development."

According to General Dynamics, its device makes is possible to make a locked connection with an anonymous caller even if he hangs up within seconds.

The receiver of an annoying or threatening call pushes a button on his telephone that keeps the calling telephone on the line even if the caller has hung up.

The person receiving the call then can dial police or telephone headquarters without breaking the original connection—and the call thus can be traced.

The unit would cost between $100 and $150 if used as original equipment, said the company, but would cost more if added later.

Municipal Expert To Speak In Hub

John G. Vande Pol, municipal financing consultant from San Francisco, will be the main speaker at the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce installation dinner on Jan. 18.

The installation and dinner is set for 8 p.m. at Buon Gusto Villa in Fairfax.

Richard A. Kientz, new president for 1962, will take over the gavel from outgoing president, John Phillips. Other officers to be installed with Kientz are Patricia Mann, vice president; George Washburn, secretary-manager; and Frank Theron, treasurer.

Robert F. Seeba will be master of ceremonies.

Eugene Ostaggi and Lee Busolo, former members of the San Anselmo Chamber, will be honored guests and will receive engravel plaques. Ostaggi moved out of town, and Busolo resigned because of the pressure of his expanding business.

Colored Garden Slides

Colored slides of Marin County gardens will be shown at a meeting of the Garden Society of Marin in the Chemistry Room, College of Marin, at 8 p.m. Jan. 19.

PUC Ask Tunnel Hearing Delay To Finish Probe

The California Public Utilities Commission has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to continue or delay its hearing on abandonment of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad's line north of San Rafael, set for Jan. 25 in San Francisco.

The PUC, in a telegram signed by R. J. Pagalich, secretary, said the delay was needed to complete its independent investigation of the proposed abandonment because the railroad has failed to furnish it with necessary data.

The state agency alleged that the Southern Pacific Co., parent firm of NWP, has not provided requested figures on the amount of traffic to and from points south of San Rafael prior to collapse of the Puerto Suello railroad tunnel last July 20.

Neither, said the PUC, has Southern Pacific permitted PUC engineers to see work papers on which the railroad bases its estimate of over $900,000 as cost of restoring the tunnel.

The telegram requested that the ICC either grant a continued hearing after completion of that scheduled for Jan. 25, or postpone the initial hearing.

Meanwhile, the City of San Rafael today awaited an answer from Northwestern Pacific on its request to be permitted to have a bore made into the tunnel from a hole between the Chula Vista Apartments and Lincoln Avenue for an inside inspection by engineer J. Donovan Jacobs of Greenbrae and his associates.

Nobody has been inside the tunnel since two days after it collapsed under Lincoln Avenue last July 20, carrying a fireman to his death.

Boris H. Lakusta, special counsel for the city in its fight against abandonment of the rail line, reported yesterday he had reached tentative agreement with legal counsel for Southern Pacific Co. on permission for the bore, with railroad engineers as well as Jacobs and his associates to make an inside inspection.

Assemblyman to Run For Congress Seat

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assemblyman Richard T. Hanna (D-Fullerton) has announced he will be a candidate for Congress from the newly-formed 34th district in Orange County.

Hanna, 47, is an attorney. In the assembly for three terms, he has been chairman of the Education Committee since last January, and is former chairman of the Rules Committee.

8-STORY BUILDING FOR SAN RAFAEL?

The possibilities of up to eight-story buildings in downtown San Rafael will be one of the subjects explored tomorrow at a breakfast meeting of the San Rafael Planning Commission.

The discussions, set for 7:30 a.m. at the Griddle Restaurant, follow requests of San Rafael builder Lloyd F. Grandi for authorization to construct a high-rise building in the downtown area for an unnamed client.

City Planner James R. Garrett told commissioners in a recent memorandum that a feasibility study of taller buildings had been undertaken by him and Chief Building Inspector Andrew Thomas.

Garrett said that with the present 50-foot, on four-story, limitation the value of land at Fourth and A streets was about $18.30 per square foot. This dwindles to $3 to $4 per foot at Second and Fourth streets and about $5 per square foot at Fourth Street and Grand Avenue.

Garrett said front footage prices of San Rafael property ran to $2,550 near Fourth and A Streets. This is compared with $5,000 per foot in similarly located property in Sacramento.

Garrett told commissioners he would recommend that downtown district heights be increased to 75 feet, and to 100 feet with a use permit.

The commission will also discuss off-street parking in East San Rafael. Garrett will recommend that ratios of parking places to bedrooms in apartment buildings be changed to prevent future parking problems.

Marin's Peace Delegate Is Leaving For Washington

Frances Steadman of Corte Madera will leave Sunday for Washington, D.C., where she will represent Women for Peace of Marin County, San Francisco and Berkeley at a White House demonstration next Monday.

Mrs. Steadman, of 100 Edison Avenue, will take with her more than 100 petitions demanding peace, signed by more than 2,000 Marin County residents.

At the invitation of Dagmar Wilson, head of Women Strike for Peace in Washington, Mrs. Steadman will be one of a group of women from 21 states who will present the petitions to President Kennedy on Monday.

Following the presentation of petitions to the President and a demonstration at the White House, the women will visit Congress and stage a public meeting.

Monday was selected because it is the opening day of Congress, according to Rembert Kingsley, chairman of a meeting of the Marin group yesterday at the home of Terry Goldblatt at 432 Lovell Avenue, Mill Valley.

The petitions, which appeal simply for immediate talks on disarmament, contain a double column of identical signatures, one half of which will be sent to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Women for Peace groups have been formed in 18 countries, Mrs. Kingsley said. The aim of the loosely organized groups is to seek accord on peaceful negotiations of international disputes and to end nuclear testing.

The next meeting of the Marin group will be at the home of Miriam Rice, 48 Lucky Drive, Corte Madera, on Jan. 24 at 10 a.m.

THE BIG DIG CONTINUES

Excavation of the deep mud of the Safeway Stores site continued today at First and A Streets, San Rafael. Rather than building on piling, Safeway has chosen to excavate and refill the 14-foot deep hole with rock and dirt. The excavation and backfilling will involve moving 40,000 cubic yards of earth by McPhails of San Rafael and Holtzinger Brothers of Corte Madera. The contractor is McDonald, Young and Nelson of Oakland. (Independent-Journal photo)

Engineers, Gate Bridge Directors Will Meet

Three engineers recently appointed as a board of review to survey feasibility of using the Golden Gate Bridge for rapid transit will meet with directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow, Director Matthew A. Graham of San Anselmo reported to a meeting of the building and operating committee today.

Graham said O. H. Ammann of New York, Frank Masters of Harrisburg, Pa., and Nathan Newmark of the University of Illinois engineering department have promised to discuss their assignment with the directors.

Four problems were discussed by the committee and held over with no action taken.

These were a possible geological survey of the toll plaza area in connection with its proposed enlargment; provision of sanitary facilities at Vista Point, state-owned but with no state money available for such facilities; underwater soundings for routine checks on stability of the bridge's north and south piers, and possible installation of a plastic or steel water line under the bridge roadway for fire or other emergency.

KENNEDY

eral aid to public school construction and teachers' salaries. His bill to provide such assistance ran into a wall of religious controversy in the House Rules Committee—the Roman Catholic President proposed no direct help for parochial schools—and traditional hostility of conservative-minded congressmen to federal school aid.

As anticipated, Kennedy precipitated another certain clash by urging Congress to furnish medical care to the aged through the Social Security system.

The president promised "a massive attack to end adult illiteracy" and bills to improve the quality of education. He emphasized federally financed college scholarships and loans for building college facilities.

Kennedy worked past midnight on his message, summoning Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Undersecretary George Ball to the White House for consultation on the final draft.

Kennedy made his strongest pitch for a liberalized trade program to cope with global challenges of "a struggle we did not start, in a world we did not make."

Growth of the European Common Market poses the greatest of all challenges to increasing exports which he said are essential to paying for U.S. commitments abroad. When Britain joins France, West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg, Kennedy said, the Common Market will present a single-tariff trading partner with an economy nearly equaling that of the United States.

Kennedy proposed standby authority to lower income tax rates by a limited percentage and for a limited period, subject to veto by Congress. This, he said, would enable the government "to slow down an economic decline before it has dragged us down."

Kennedy intends to elaborate on both proposals in his economic message later this month, as he will his third antirecession measure — to strengthen, presumably with minimum federal standards, the unemployment compensation system.

College Trustees Meeting Tonight

Sabbatical leave regulations will be taken up by College of Marin trustees tonight at their 8 o'clock meeting in room 61 of the art building on the college campus.

Other items on the agenda include a request for new courses from college President Stephen Epler; a report on the newly formed real estate program and advisory committee; an auditor's report on college finances for the last fiscal year, and a report on a request for national education act funds for a foreign language laboratory.

Delinquency Linked To Handicaps

Juvenile delinquency problems can arise from frustration among handicapped youngsters, Mrs. Frank Keaton said yesterday at a meeting in the new center of the Marin Society for Crippled Children and Adults at 629 Mission Avenue, San Rafael.

Frank J. Keaton as president of the society described how the center was created by conversion of a home, using free labor and materials to provide a composite headquarters for all the society's services.

These services were discussed by Mrs. Edwin Wells, case policy chairman; William Roth and Mrs. Helen Daggett, speech therapists; Mrs. Gertrude Cherry, recreation director and Mrs. John Fitzhenry, mailing chairman.

Volunteer high school students, it was reported, have started typing addresses for 43,500 envelopes to be mailed to Marin residents March 15 as part of the annual Easter Seal campaign. Anyone wishing to join this work may do so at the center from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays during February, it was announced.

Sonoma State Hospital gardener when he killed Grayson.

Wright's first murder was committed after he escaped from Sonoma State Hospital in 1949, kidnaping gardener Paul Zimmerman and his wife. He drove around the area in Zimmerman's car, then shot Zimmerman to death and dumped his injured wife into a ditch.

Last August, the United States Supreme Court stayed Wright's execution after Gov. Edmund G. Brown had refused clemency.

Wright was given three "brain-wave" tests — routine procedure for Death Row inmates, according to prison officials, and made mandatory by Governor Brown — and they showed no damage to his central nervous system which would support legal insanity, according to prison officials.

Yesterday, about 20 pickets, including film figure Sharee North, picketed the State Building in Los Angeles in protest against the execution, identifying themselves as representing Californians representing Californians Against State Executions.

Sentiment On Shelters To Be Asked

San Pedro School Dads Club officers decided last night to check sentiment in East San Rafael toward petitioning the city for community fallout shelters.

This course was suggested at a meeting at San Pedro School by former San Rafael City Manager William Parness, now city manager for Livermore, when a large Atomic Energy Commission installation is located.

Parness said that in Livermore pressure was put on the city council through petitions bearing 3,500 names. The result was preparation of a "pilot plan" providing for seven community shelters, mostly on school grounds, holding 3,000 occupants apiece.

San Rafael Mayor John F. McInnis, present with several other officials in an audience of 75, suggested investigation before putting a request to the city because of evidence of public apathy toward fallout shelters.

Shelters may sometimes be used for dual purposes, Purness pointed out. He suggested that they might be used for cafeterias, auditoriums or classrooms, and that by transferring some existing installations to shelters it would be possible to make new use of above-ground facilities.

The club, it was pointed out today by its president Roland D. Hellman, earlier campaigned for a multi-purpose room for the school and takes special interest in the possibility of winning public support through such dual uses.

Possible formation of an assessment district to build community shelters will be explored by club officers, Hellman said.

THE SCHOOL BELL IS TOLLING FOR COLLEGE ADULT CLASSES

Many College of Marin adult school students who think the semester ended before the Christmas holidays are in for a shock.

Dr. Ellsworth R. Briggs, adult school dean, said he has been "flooded with telephone calls" indicating students were not aware that classes have been meeting since the Christmas holidays.

Last fall the adult school changed from a quarter system to a semester system. Under the old quarter system, classes would end before Christmas.

Briggs reported that a lecture series, "The Semantics of Controversial Issues," scheduled to start last Monday as a College of Marin adult course has been postponed until Feb. 5.

Enrollments are still being accepted for the investments course which deals with stocks and bonds, Briggs said. The class began Monday and will continue through March 19.

New Dixie School Near Completion

Dixie School District trustees last night authorized Supt. Dennie B. Willis to accept the new $295,000 Don Timoteo School as soon as all items are complete.

The trustees inspected the school's 10 classroom, administrative quarters and library, all of which is occupied and operating. Approval was given aside from the lacking details and Willis is to file completion notice when he agrees with the architect and inspector that all is finished.

After review of plans for acoustical treatment of the Hoffman School's multi-use room and finding that the cost estimate was under an authorized $1,000, the trustees told Willis to get quotations, let a contract and hire Arnold Griewe as inspector on the job.

Preliminary design and master plan for a new seventh and eighth grade school at Las Galinas Avenue and Miller Creek, Marinwood, were favorably received and the board asked that the material be given to the teaching staff for criticism.

Willis reported enrollment at 2,710 with overcrowding in the seventh and eighth grades of the Vallecito School and kindergartens of Santa Margarita and Hoffman Schools. He was asked to recommend extra teachers for action Jan. 24.

Employment of Ralph E. Parent of San Anselmo to replace James Stinchcomb, maintenance man injured in a motor accident, was authorized for the remainder of the year.

Intention to operate a summer school this year was reaffirmed and Charles Skutt, Hoffman School principal, was named director.

Eight appointments to the Citizens Advisory Finance Committee were made: James A. Rowen, Mrs. William H. Reilly, Glen Tovani, Robert Busch, Paul Driscoll, Lawrence Punte, John Ready and Phil Royce.

The auditing firm of Dalton, Graupner and Barber recommended increase in the district's general reserve as well as changes in accounting system for student body funds at Vallecito School.

A special session was set for 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday when County Planning Director Mary Summers will review a pupil projection for a planned community in Marinwood in connection with possible need for a third site for a kindergarten-through-sixth-grade school.

READING

a newspaper writer, and a staunch advocate of phonetic teaching of reading, had her explanation of what's wrong. It is the recognition-guess method of reading, known as "look-say."

This method, Mrs. Koch noted, got its start in the 1920s, gradually crowding out the phonetic method previously in use.

"Unfortunately, it soon became the only method in teachers' colleges," said Mrs. Koch. The result is that today's teachers don't know how to teach phonetics.

"The teachers are not to blame," said Mrs. Koch. She put the blame on the textbooks —and the teachers' colleges.

Mrs. Koch, who got aroused over teaching of reading when she found her own children were failing to read, declared:

"A business man, when people criticize his product, tries to please his clientele. The schools are the opposite. They start attacking you and don't answer your arguments."

The Beacon series of texts, published by Ginn and Co., were thrown out in the United States when the "whole word" or "look-say" method came in, said Mrs. Koch. But they are now widely used in England—and English children are taught to read earlier than are those in U.S. schools.

A strong phonics system, declared Mrs. Koch, "gives the child a tool with which he can unlock" the symbols which represent words he already knows through speech. He is then able to largely teach himself. But the present system gives the child whole words before he is taught the alphabet — which, said Mrs. Koch, is obviously backwards.

Dr. Brown also stressed that the phonetic method is necessary at the beginning of the teaching of reading. The present system in some schools of injecting a little phonetics as a sideline may merely confuse the child, she suggested. (In San Rafael schools, for instance, children are taught consonants in the first grade but don't learn pronunciation of vowels until second grade.)

Trying to correct difficulties by teaching phonics later on is largely unsuccessful, said Dr. Brown—"once the person has learned to read by guessing, he'll keep on guessing."

Dr. Brown said many teachers consider phonics "a return to something we have outgrown."

"This is a most amazing blind spot in professional people," she declared. "It's a question of holding onto the gains that have been made—and giving the pupils simpler tools to work with."

Lagunitas Session

Trustees of the Lagunitas School District will meet at 8 p.m. next Tuesday at the school instead of tonight as scheduled, due to conflict of another meeting some wish to attend.

Tam Meeting Set

Tamalpais Valley Sanitary District directors will hold an adjourned meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the firehouse to discuss a change in fee schedules, chairman Richard P. Bovaird said today.

OBITUARIES

John F. Notley Succumbs

John F. Notley, 65, former owner of a hardware store in Boyes Hot Springs, died Tuesday night in a San Francisco hospital. He was a brother of Mrs. John Connelly of San Rafael.

Notley was a former treasurer of the Sonoma Valley Chamber of Commerce and past president and secretary of the Valley of the Moon Lions Club. He was born in Humboldt County and had resided in Boyes Hot Springs since 1950.

He is survived by his wife, Marian; a son, Gaye Le Baron of Santa Rosa; a stepdaughter and stepson, Barbara Trenewan of Salinas and A. J. Ellis of Dramstadt, Germany; four sisters and three brothers, Mrs. Connelly; Mrs. Charles East and Mrs. Leonard Carlson of Healdsburg, Mrs. Frances Wagner of St. Helena, O. L. and Godfrey Notley of San Francisco, and Austin Notley of Eureka.

MRS. BLACKBURN

Funeral services for Mrs. Caroline Williams Blackburn, sister of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Goshen of San Anselmo, were held Tuesday in Petaluma.

Mrs. Blackburn died Monday at her Petaluma home. She was the widow of Frank L. Blackburn, former Sonoma County coroner and public administrator. She was a native of Petaluma.

Her sister is her only immediate survivor.

A. W. BETTS

Mrs. Jean Day's father, who died last Saturday at his Ventura County home, is A. W. Betts of Thousand Oaks. The Independent-Journal erroneously referred to him yesterday as A. W. Vetts.

DR. BRANDNER

Dr. Walter E. Brandner, 61, Petaluma veterinarian and nephew of Mrs. Mary Van Ness of San Rafael, died in a Petaluma hospital yesterday. He never regained consciousness after being injured in an auto accident near Cotati in Sonoma County Jan. 4.

Dr. Brandner, a native of Shields, Kans., operated an animal hospital in Petaluma with his son Dr. Charles E. Brandner.

Besides his wife, Lona O. Brandner and his son and aunt he also is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Blaine St. Clair Loughary of Sunnyvale; two sisters, Mrs. R. A. Becker and Mrs. Theodore Reiser, both of Colorado; a brother, Gilbert Brandner of Sacramento, and six grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the United Church of Christ in Petaluma. Friends may call at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma, until noon Saturday. Entombment will be private in Cypress Hill Mausoleum, Petaluma.

MARK MIKLOS

A 2-year-old Novato boy, who swallowed 40 aspirin tablets early Sunday while his parents were sleeping, died today at Novato General Hospital.

Chief Deputy Coroner William C. Bradley said that Mark Jonathan Miklos, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Herbert Miklos of 815 Reicher Avenue, was undergoing medical treatment for an infection of the middle ear and being given aspirin when he swallowed the 40 tablets.

"On Sunday at 6 a.m., Mr. and Mrs. Miklos were awakened by their 3-year-old daughter, who told them that Mark had eaten the contents of the aspirin bottle," said Bradley.

The parents took the child to the hospital. He was treated and released to home, Bradley said.

When the child returned home, the parents took turns keeping a 24-hour-vigil at his bedside. On Monday morning, they returned him to the hospital, where doctors found he was suffering from "ingestion and pneumonia." He died at 5:30 a.m. today.

ALMA BATEMAN

Mrs. Alma K. Bateman of Greenbrae died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness. She was 75.

A native of San Francisco, Mrs. Bateman had made her home for the past 11 years with her daughter, Mrs. Evelyn B. Meyer, at 120 Almenar Drive.

She is survived by her daughter and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Keaton's mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

MRS. KNOWLAND

OAKLAND (AP)—Funeral services are scheduled tomorrow for Mrs. Joseph R. Knowland Jr., widow of the assistant publisher and general manager of the Oakland Tribune.

An autopsy yesterday failed to show what caused Mrs. Knowland's death, the coroner's office reported.

Excavation of the deep mud of the Safeway Stores site continued today at First and A Streets, San Rafael. Rather than building on piling, Safeway has chosen to excavate and refill the 14-foot deep hole with rock and dirt. The excavation and backfilling will involve moving 40,000 cubic yards of earth by McPhails of San Rafael and Holtzinger Brothers of Corte Madera. The contractor is McDonald, Young and Nelson of Oakland. (Independent-Journal photo)

Engineers, Gate Bridge Directors Will Meet

Three engineers recently appointed as a board of review to survey feasibility of using the Golden Gate Bridge for rapid transit will meet with directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow, Director Matthew A. Graham of San Anselmo reported to a meeting of the building and operating committee today.

Graham said O. H. Ammann of New York, Frank Masters of Harrisburg, Pa., and Nathan Newmark of the University of Illinois engineering department have promised to discuss their assignment with the directors.

Four problems were discussed by the committee and held over with no action taken.

These were a possible geological survey of the toll plaza area in connection with its proposed enlargment; provision of sanitary facilities at Vista Point, state-owned but with no state money available for such facilities; underwater soundings for routine checks on stability of the bridge's north and south piers, and possible installation of a plastic or steel water line under the bridge roadway for fire or other emergency.

eral aid to public school construction and teachers' salaries. His bill to provide such assistance ran into a wall of religious controversy in the House Rules Committee—the Roman Catholic President proposed no direct help for parochial schools—and traditional hostility of conservative-minded congressmen to federal school aid.

As anticipated, Kennedy precipitated another certain clash by urging Congress to furnish medical care to the aged through the Social Security system.

The president promised "a massive attack to end adult illiteracy" and bills to improve the quality of education. He emphasized federally financed college scholarships and loans for building college facilities.

Kennedy worked past midnight on his message, summoning Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Undersecretary George Ball to the White House for consultation on the final draft.

Kennedy made his strongest pitch for a liberalized trade program to cope with global challenges of "a struggle we did not start, in a world we did not make."

Growth of the European Common Market poses the greatest of all challenges to increasing exports which he said are essential to paying for U.S. commitments abroad. When Britain joins France, West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg, Kennedy said, the Common Market will present a single-tariff trading partner with an economy nearly equaling that of the United States.

Kennedy proposed standby authority to lower income tax rates by a limited percentage and for a limited period, subject to veto by Congress. This, he said, would enable the government "to slow down an economic decline before it has dragged us down."

Kennedy intends to elaborate on both proposals in his economic message later this month, as he will his third antirecession measure — to strengthen, presumably with minimum federal standards, the unemployment compensation system.

College Trustees Meeting Tonight

Sabbatical leave regulations will be taken up by College of Marin trustees tonight at their 8 o'clock meeting in room 61 of the art building on the college campus.

Other items on the agenda include a request for new courses from college President Stephen Epler; a report on the newly formed real estate program and advisory committee; an auditor's report on college finances for the last fiscal year, and a report on a request for national education act funds for a foreign language laboratory.

Employment of Ralph E. Parent of San Anselmo to replace James Stinchcomb, maintenance man injured in a motor accident, was authorized for the remainder of the year.

Intention to operate a summer school this year was reaffirmed and Charles Skutt, Hoffman School principal, was named director.

Eight appointments to the Citizens Advisory Finance Committee were made: James A. Rowen, Mrs. William H. Reilly, Glen Tovani, Robert Busch, Paul Driscoll, Lawrence Punte, John Ready and Phil Royce.

The auditing firm of Dalton, Graupner and Barber recommended increase in the district's general reserve as well as changes in accounting system for student body funds at Vallecito School.

A special session was set for 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday when County Planning Director Mary Summers will review a pupil projection for a planned community in Marinwood in connection with possible need for a third site for a kindergarten-through-sixth-grade school.

READING

a newspaper writer, and a staunch advocate of phonetic teaching of reading, had her explanation of what's wrong. It is the recognition-guess method of reading, known as "look-say."

This method, Mrs. Koch noted, got its start in the 1920s, gradually crowding out the phonetic method previously in use.

"Unfortunately, it soon became the only method in teachers' colleges," said Mrs. Koch. The result is that today's teachers don't know how to teach phonetics.

"The teachers are not to blame," said Mrs. Koch. She put the blame on the textbooks —and the teachers' colleges.

Mrs. Koch, who got aroused over teaching of reading when she found her own children were failing to read, declared:

"A business man, when people criticize his product, tries to please his clientele. The schools are the opposite. They start attacking you and don't answer your arguments."

The Beacon series of texts, published by Ginn and Co., were thrown out in the United States when the "whole word" or "look-say" method came in, said Mrs. Koch. But they are now widely used in England—and English children are taught to read earlier than are those in U.S. schools.

A strong phonics system, declared Mrs. Koch, "gives the child a tool with which he can unlock" the symbols which represent words he already knows through speech. He is then able to largely teach himself. But the present system gives the child whole words before he is taught the alphabet — which, said Mrs. Koch, is obviously backwards.

Dr. Brown also stressed that the phonetic method is necessary at the beginning of the teaching of reading. The present system in some schools of injecting a little phonetics as a sideline may merely confuse the child, she suggested. (In San Rafael schools, for instance, children are taught consonants in the first grade but don't learn pronunciation of vowels until second grade.)

Trying to correct difficulties by teaching phonics later on is largely unsuccessful, said Dr. Brown—"once the person has learned to read by guessing, he'll keep on guessing."

Dr. Brown said many teachers consider phonics "a return to something we have outgrown."

"This is a most amazing blind spot in professional people," she declared. "It's a question of holding onto the gains that have been made—and giving the pupils simpler tools to work with."

Lagunitas Session

Trustees of the Lagunitas School District will meet at 8 p.m. next Tuesday at the school instead of tonight as scheduled, due to conflict of another meeting some wish to attend.

Tam Meeting Set

Tamalpais Valley Sanitary District directors will hold an adjourned meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the firehouse to discuss a change in fee schedules, chairman Richard P. Bovaird said today.

OBITUARIES

John F. Notley Succumbs

John F. Notley, 65, former owner of a hardware store in Boyes Hot Springs, died Tuesday night in a San Francisco hospital. He was a brother of Mrs. John Connelly of San Rafael.

Notley was a former treasurer of the Sonoma Valley Chamber of Commerce and past president and secretary of the Valley of the Moon Lions Club. He was born in Humboldt County and had resided in Boyes Hot Springs since 1950.

He is survived by his wife, Marian; a son, Gaye Le Baron of Santa Rosa; a stepdaughter and stepson, Barbara Trenewan of Salinas and A. J. Ellis of Dramstadt, Germany; four sisters and three brothers, Mrs. Connelly; Mrs. Charles East and Mrs. Leonard Carlson of Healdsburg, Mrs. Frances Wagner of St. Helena, O. L. and Godfrey Notley of San Francisco, and Austin Notley of Eureka.

MRS. BLACKBURN

Funeral services for Mrs. Caroline Williams Blackburn, sister of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Goshen of San Anselmo, were held Tuesday in Petaluma.

Mrs. Blackburn died Monday at her Petaluma home. She was the widow of Frank L. Blackburn, former Sonoma County coroner and public administrator. She was a native of Petaluma.

Her sister is her only immediate survivor.

A. W. BETTS

Mrs. Jean Day's father, who died last Saturday at his Ventura County home, is A. W. Betts of Thousand Oaks. The Independent-Journal erroneously referred to him yesterday as A. W. Vetts.

DR. BRANDNER

Dr. Walter E. Brandner, 61, Petaluma veterinarian and nephew of Mrs. Mary Van Ness of San Rafael, died in a Petaluma hospital yesterday. He never regained consciousness after being injured in an auto accident near Cotati in Sonoma County Jan. 4.

Dr. Brandner, a native of Shields, Kans., operated an animal hospital in Petaluma with his son Dr. Charles E. Brandner.

Besides his wife, Lona O. Brandner and his son and aunt he also is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Blaine St. Clair Loughary of Sunnyvale; two sisters, Mrs. R. A. Becker and Mrs. Theodore Reiser, both of Colorado; a brother, Gilbert Brandner of Sacramento, and six grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the United Church of Christ in Petaluma. Friends may call at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma, until noon Saturday. Entombment will be private in Cypress Hill Mausoleum, Petaluma.

MARK MIKLOS

A 2-year-old Novato boy, who swallowed 40 aspirin tablets early Sunday while his parents were sleeping, died today at Novato General Hospital.

Chief Deputy Coroner William C. Bradley said that Mark Jonathan Miklos, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Herbert Miklos of 815 Reicher Avenue, was undergoing medical treatment for an infection of the middle ear and being given aspirin when he swallowed the 40 tablets.

"On Sunday at 6 a.m., Mr. and Mrs. Miklos were awakened by their 3-year-old daughter, who told them that Mark had eaten the contents of the aspirin bottle," said Bradley.

The parents took the child to the hospital. He was treated and released to home, Bradley said.

When the child returned home, the parents took turns keeping a 24-hour-vigil at his bedside. On Monday morning, they returned him to the hospital, where doctors found he was suffering from "ingestion and pneumonia." He died at 5:30 a.m. today.

ALMA BATEMAN

Mrs. Alma K. Bateman of Greenbrae died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness. She was 75.

A native of San Francisco, Mrs. Bateman had made her home for the past 11 years with her daughter, Mrs. Evelyn B. Meyer, at 120 Almenar Drive.

She is survived by her daughter and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Keaton's mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

MRS. KNOWLAND

OAKLAND (AP)—Funeral services are scheduled tomorrow for Mrs. Joseph R. Knowland Jr., widow of the assistant publisher and general manager of the Oakland Tribune.

An autopsy yesterday failed to show what caused Mrs. Knowland's death, the coroner's office reported.

Here Are Some Of Main Points From Kennedy's Message

Economy — It is good. But Congress should approve legislation to retrain workers displaced by machines and train youths for the work force. For business, he wants an 8 per cent tax credit for investment in machinery and equipment.

Anti-recession — He wants authority to lower personal income taxes temporarily in periods of recession. Sources said it could amount to a 25 per cent cut. He wants similar power to speed up such programs as reclamation, flood control, irrigation and construction of urban water and sewer systems in economic crises.

Anti-inflation — He will submit a balanced budget for fiscal 1963 and a bill to give federal employes new pay scales closer to private industry. He wants a postal rate hike and extension of the present excise and corporate rates.

Trade — He will send Congress a five-year trade expansion bill to gradually eliminate tariffs between the United States and the Common Market on items in which they supply 80 per cent of the world's trade. It would permit a gradual reduction of duties up to 50 per cent on some other goods.

Defense — The government expects to get nearly 300 more Polaris and Minutemen missiles this year. The country's military strength has steadily improved in the past year.

Cold War — "Armistice day seems very far away."

Berlin — The threat to Berlin remains, but he believes a solution can be found if only Russia will "recognize the basic rights and interests involved."

United Nations — He asked Congress to approve United States participation in the U.N. bond issue. Officials said he would request permission to buy as much as half of a $200 million (M) issue to keep the world organization solvent.

Latin America — He proposed a special long-term fund of three-billion dollars for the Alliance for Progress program.

Health and Welfare — He said Congress has no more important business remaining from last year than his plan of medical care for the aged under Social Security. He proposed a mass immunization program against children's diseases and promised a new welfare program "stressing services instead of support."

Education — He said he would present a plan to attack adult illiteracy, and urged congressional approval of his school and programs.

NATO — It has increased its military strength and its unity of purpose.

WHIP — Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana has been named Democratic whip in the House, succeeding Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma who have moved up from whip to Democratic Floor Leader. (AP Wirephoto)

Big Immunization Program Is Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President John F. Kennedy asked Congress today for a mass program to immunize the nation's children against such diseases as polio, diptheria, whooping cough and tetanus.

He said in his State of the Union message that the aim was "to take advantage of modern vaccination achievements."

Kennedy did not go into details. But an administration spokesman said the program would involve "the question of federal assistance to the states."

Theft In Church

Lillie Rowena Dunn of 48 Wreden Street, Fairfax, complained to San Rafael police that after she left he purse lying in the office of the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael yesterday some one removed the wallet containing $30 and personal papers and credit cards.

QUESTION OF KENNEDY POPULARITY COMES UP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats and Republicans drew their battle lines in Congress today and immediately began squabbling over whether President John F. Kennedy's popularity will affect the fate of his legislative program.

During yesterday's opening-day amenities, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., pointed to public opinion polls showing Kennedy is popular with 79 per cent of the people.

This, said Mansfield, means "the climate for progressive legislation is good."

But conservative Sen. Barry Goldwater, (R-Ariz.) said "I don't think his popularity will rub off on the session. The people are very concerned about foreign relations and high spending."

New Senate GOP Policy Chairman Wins Praise

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Newly elected Senate GOP policy chairman Bourke B. Hickenlooper won quick praise today from the Republicans who opposed him. They said he was off to a good start in trying to invigorate the party's policy-making operations.

The Iowa Republican, who succeeded the late Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire as policy chief, invited all his GOP colleagues to submit ideas on improving committee activities. He joined others on the 15-member group in plugging for an "active, vigorous operation."

Sens. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) and John S. Cooper (R-Ky.) two members of the liberal bloc, said their support of Sen. Leverett Saltonstall was no reflection on Hickenlooper. The Iowan was elected by a 21-14 vote over Saltonstall, who continues as GOP conference chairman.

Aiken and Cooper said they wanted Republicans around the country to know the liberal or "moderate" cause was not dead.

"This was not a runaway or a rout," Aiken said in an interview. "We had to have a contest, however."

Cooper said one reason he backed Saltonstall against Hickenlooper was "the Goldwater situation." He referred to Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), Senate GOP campaign chairman and chief spokesman for ultra-conservative Republicans.

Boy Plus Matches

An 8-year-old boy was reprimanded by Mill Valley firemen yesterday at 4:30 p.m. after he had started a fire in leaves behind Mill Lane Apartments at Throckmorton Avenue and Creek Lane. Firemen said the Mill Valley boy was playing with matches.

Urban Affairs Cabinet Post Urged By JFK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President John F. Kennedy urged today that the nation's cities be given representation at the cabinet level through creation of a new department of urban affairs and housing.

He told Congress in his State of the Union message that "a strong America depends on its cities—America's glory, and sometimes America's shame."

His administration has stepped up efforts to help urban areas with their whole wide range of problems, the president said, and still more programs are needed.

"And with all this effort under way," he said, "both equity and common sense require that our nation's urban areas —containing three-fourths of our population — sit as equals at the cabinet table."

Kennedy proposed the 11th cabinet post last year, but the House failed to clear the measure for debate. Even backers of the bill are uncertain what the outcome will be this session.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.,) of the Senate government operations committee, said last week that in his opinion the bill has more opposition now than it did last year.

Crops In State

SACRAMENTO (UPI)— Barley hay and cotton account for 70 per cent of the 6,173,200 acres planted to field crops in California, according to the State Department of Agriculture.

What President Said Last January, Now

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

UNITED NATIONS

1961—"We shall help insure that it is properly financed . . . we shall work to see that the integrity of the office of the secretary general is maintained."

1962—Kennedy urged that Congress approve purchase of some of the new U. N. bond issue to keep the organization going.

THE CONGO

1961—"The Congo has been brutally torn by civil strife . . . we shall continue to support the heroic efforts of the United Nations to restore peace and order . . ."

1962 — "Today the hopes have improved for peaceful conciliation within a United Congo."

DEFENSE

1961 — "We must strengthen our military tools . . ." He said there had been a lack of consistent military strategy, and directed a step-up in the Polaris submarine program.

1962—"Our military posture has steadily improved." He announced no specific changes.

LATIN AMERICA

1961— "Communist agents . . . have established a base on Cuba . . ."

1962—He made no specific mention of Cuba, but referred once to "the blight of Communism" which has been "increasingly exposed and isolated in the Americas."

SPACE

1961—He urged Russia to pool its resources with the rest of the world in the conquest of space.

1962—Russia accepted none of his offers, but "our satellites will soon be providing other nations with improved weather observations."

Meeting Postponed

Because of illness among its members, the Lincoln School District board postponed its meeting until 8 p.m. tomorrow in the school. It was scheduled to meet Tuesday night.

McCormack Promises A Fair, Square Deal

WASHINGTON (UPI) —House members figured today that John McCormack himself had given at least part of the answer to the currently popular question: What kind of speaker will this Boston Irishman make?

In accepting election to the nation's second most powerful post yesterday McCormack promised to conduct the office not only fairly and impartially but "without regard to party affiliation" — and that was where members' eyes tended to pop.

But the general feeling in both parties was that the 70-year-old Democrat will try his best to follow just that prescription.

But McCormack left himself a sort of loophole. He noted that as speaker he also was his party's top house figure and that to this extent he still would exercise "political responsibilities."

What most members got out of all this was that McCormack is sensitive to a general feeling that his political knife as Democratic House Leader during all but four of the last 21 years has been about the sharpest in town.

McCormack Promises A Fair, Square Deal

WASHINGTON (UPI) —House members figured today that John McCormack himself had given at least part of the answer to the currently popular question: What kind of speaker will this Boston Irishman make?

In accepting election to the nation's second most powerful post yesterday McCormack promised to conduct the office not only fairly and impartially but "without regard to party affiliation" — and that was where members' eyes tended to pop.

But the general feeling in both parties was that the 70-year-old Democrat will try his best to follow just that prescription.

But McCormack left himself a sort of loophole. He noted that as speaker he also was his party's top house figure and that to this extent he still would exercise "political responsibilities."

What most members got out of all this was that McCormack is sensitive to a general feeling that his political knife as Democratic House Leader during all but four of the last 21 years has been about the sharpest in town.

Four Thailand Students Find They Enjoy Life In Marin

By RALPH CHATOIAN

When one meets the four Thai students who are attending College of Marin, he can only conclude that the people of Thailand must be friendly, good natured and polite.

The four students, two of them brother and sister, are all attending their first semester at College of Marin. Although all four are happy to be in the United States studying, they plan to return home after getting their education.

The students are Prasai Prasatthong-Osoth, Panya Puranabhandu, Kriengsak Songsiridej and his sister Suwapha.

Although Thailand (Siam prior to 1948) is located in the middle of an international hotbed of pro and anti-communism, the students said there is little Communist activity "at home."

They said Communists, when found out by the security police, are quickly rounded up because communism is barred from the nation. The trouble in Thailand, said the students, is the same as in the United States: How to find Communists who work underground.

There are plenty of newspapers in the nation, without censorship, the four Thais assert. The government is modeled on that of England. The religion is primarily Buddhist.

Kriengsak, 24, and Suwapha (who smiles and says "slightly older than my brother" when asked her age) live with Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Manning at 34 Corte Morada, Greenbrae.

Suwapha came to the United States in June, 1960. She was joined by her brother about four months later. The two Thais lived with a sister, Saisamorn, in her Kansas home before coming to Marin.

Kriengsak went to Kansas City College for one semester before transferring to College of Marin. His sister attended business college in Kansas for one year before they both came to Marin last August.

The reason for studying away from home?

Kriengsak said: "I wanted to further my studies abroad. I wanted to travel and learn more. I saved as much money as I could to pay for the costs of coming here. If I run out of money, I would be able to get help from my family."

Both the Songsiridej students were reared in Bangkok, the capitol of Thailand. They attended high school in Bangkok, which has a population of about one and three quarters million.

"Very nice," is Suwapha's simple explanation when asked about the teachers and students at College of Marin. "I believe the people are more friendly here in Marin."

She said when she first arrived in this country the people did not seem friendly, but she admitted it probably only seemed like that because she was not yet accustomed to America.

Prasai, 19, during his stay in Marin, is living with Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Neumeier at 63 Rutherford Avenue, San Anselmo. He, too, was reared in Bangkok.

Prasai came from Thailand six months ago. After a short stay in Washington, D.C., he came to Marin and is now studying engineering at College of Marin.

"The customs may be different in the two countries but the people are just as friendly in both," said Prasai.

The 19-year-old Prasai, who comes from a family of 10 children, said the families in Thailand are larger than in the United States.

"The help we get from America in money, tools and equipment is much appreciated in Thailand," he said.

Panya, also 19, lives with Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Strickler at 20 Jewell Street, San Rafael. He is an engineering major who plans to go to University of California at Berkeley after completing two years at College of Marin.

He was reared in Thonburi, a smaller city across the Chaopraya River from Bangkok. He came to Marin about two years ago and attended San Rafael Military Academy until he enrolled at College of Marin.

"The boys at the military academy were very friendly to me when I went to school there," Panya said.

Panya said he felt most persons in Thailand were not afraid of the Communist threat to their country because of the strength of their prime minister, Field Marshall Sarit Thanarat.

"He is strong. The people in Thailand have faith in him. They don't believe he would ever allow the Communists to increase any power in Thailand," said Panya.

The man the four students thank for finding them homes and helping them adjust is George Duncan, foreign student counselor at the college and a man who speaks five foreign languages.

Two Found Guilty In Pitbulls Case

fendants was charged with three separate counts, a total of 18 possible verdicts had to be voted on by the jury.

The first of 12 ballots taken on the guilt of the two youths on the charge of maiming and wounding an animal belonging to another person was 8 to 4 for convictio, Hawes said.

In effect, the jury found George and Clem guilty of picking up a small black dog in Petaluma on the afternoon of Oct. 25, taking it to their Marinwood ranch, and throwing it in with one or more of their nine pitbulls as a sparring partner.

The dog was found injured in the tack room at the ranch that night by a raiding party of sheriff's and Humane Society officials. It died the following day of head and neck wounds.

The Sequeiras claimed the dog, a pet belonging to Mrs. Laverne Foster of Petaluma, was killed by their two "cow dogs" while running sheep on the Sequeiras' ranch on Old Adobe Road near Petaluma.

The animal was seen near the Petaluma cutoff on Highway 101, on the same day about 4:45 p.m. by S/Sgt. Joseph Flannery of the 78th Field Maintenance Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base. Flannery also testified he saw two men at the same time in a green pickup truck which answered the description of the Sequeira truck. He could not identify George or Clem Sequeira as the men he saw in the truck.

The defense maintained the dog ran from the point at which it was seen to the Sequeria ranch over five miles away across fields, and was caught chasing sheep within about 20 minutes of the time Flannery saw it.

The Foster dog's collar and that of a dog belonging to Mrs. Agnes Donnelly of 40 Wolfe Avenue in San Rafael, which disappeared early in October, were found at the ranch on the night of the raid.

The Donnelly dog collar, the Sequeiras said, was given them by a strange man who tossed it in the back of their truck as they were driving through San Rafael.

The jury began deliberations at 3:35 p.m. yesterday, remaining in the jury room until almost 11 p.m. except when they were taken out for dinner shortly after 7 p.m. and for a short period in the courtroom about 6 p.m. when they asked clarification as to the specific charges.

Driver Drops Wallet, Causes 3-Car Accident

Dropping a wallet on an automobile floor yesterday caused a three-car crash in which two drivers suffered minor injuries.

Going west on Point San Pedro Road near Harbor View Court, East San Rafael, behind two other vehicles at 8:30 a.m., Stanley Bernard White of 25 Dorian Way, San Rafael, stooped to pick up his dropped wallet just as the other cars halted behnd a stationary school bus with flashing lights.

Gordon Charles Jones of 23 Dellwood Court, San Rafael, said he realized White was about to hit his car so he released the brake. The result was that the Jones car, on being struck, shot forward into the rear of a sedan driven by Paul Arvis Miller of 169 Greenwood Avenue, San Rafael.

Veterans Unit In Blood Drive

Members of Marin Barracks 550 of the Veterans of World War I will participate in the World War I statewide blood bank, Chief of Staff Roy Patridge of Larkspur said today.

The Marin veterans decided to join the state group after a presentation of the plan by Patridge.

The Marin Barracks of the group will elect officers for 1962 at its next regular meeting at 8 p.m. Friday in Painters Hall at 701 Mission Avenue, San Rafael.

Marinite Credited In Oil Development

Edward G. Goehr of 12 Culloden Park Road, San Rafael, senior research chemist at California Research Corp.'s Richmond laboratory, is credited with a major part in development of a new type automatic transmission fluid for automobiles.

Result of a long development program in the laboratory, the fluid is said to resist oxidation and sludge formation and to maintain normal characteristics under severe service and high temperature conditions.

SHE'S SURE HE WON'T FORGET

"It's a date!" Joannie Goodrich, 4, poster girl for Monday night's 53-Minute March on Cerebral Palsy, tells Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, honorary campaign chairman. Joannie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Judson Goodrich of Santa Venetia and a pupil at Marindale School for handicapped youngsters, visited the sheriff to check on campaign plans and marked a big X on his desk calendar for Jan. 15. Hundreds of volunteers will "march" on that date in the annual drive for funds conducted by United Cerebral Palsy of Marin. (Ken Molino photo)

Bay Area Traffic Survey Is Urged

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A specialist in urban planning has proposed a detailed and comprehensive survey as a start to prevent the Bay Area from strangling by its own traffic congestion.

John E. Hirten, executive director of the San Francisco Planning and Urban Renewal Assn., said the study should include present and proposed bridges, freeways, airports, rapid transit and even methods of travel still in the dream stage.

Hirten made his proposal yesterday before about 150 state and civil leaders at the opening of a hearing on the Bay Area's transportation problems.

There is a good chance, Hirten said, of obtaining possible two-thirds of the funds needed for the study from the federal government. In order to interest the government, Hirten suggested a committee to decide just how extensive the study should be.

The hearing was called by state Sen. Eugene McAteer (D-San Francisco), who told the group that the auto would soon be useless unless something is done to clear jammed highways.

Wilbur E. Smith, executive director of the Assn. of Bay Area Government, said that not only should all types of transportation be included in future planning, but that such plans must be coordinated with community planning in various counties in the area.

Governor Appoints Vet Board Member

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown today announced the appointment of George G. Sinopoli, a Republican businessman of Fresno, to a four-year term on the California Veterans Board.

Sinopoli, 43, is manager of the Jensen and Pilegard Corporation branch store in Fresno. He will succeed Austin M. Healey of Fresno, whose term expires Jan. 15. The appointment requires Senate confirmation.

Council Approves Harbor Agreement In Mill Valley

The Mill Valley City Council, in a special meeting yesterday authorized Mayor Robert D. Huber and City Manager A. E. Almcrants to sign the $300,000 loan agreement with the state of California for the city's proposed small craft harbor.

This is the last step prior to the expected signing of the agreement Jan. 15 by the small craft harbor commission.

The council also authorized signatures of an amendment to the Almonte Sanitary District agreement. The district, in an unincorporated area, receives service from the Mill Valley sewage treatment plant.

Councilman Joseph E. Sheeks was absent.

Realty Firm Moves

Preferred Realty, Inc., in temporary quarters at 475 Miller Avenue in Mill Valley since the Marin branch was opened Oct. 1, 1961, has moved its office to a permanent location in the Sabella Harbor Building, 581 Redwood Highway. Phil Rosa of Mill Valley is manager.

SHE'S SURE HE WON'T FORGET

"It's a date!" Joannie Goodrich, 4, poster girl for Monday night's 53-Minute March on Cerebral Palsy, tells Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, honorary campaign chairman. Joannie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Judson Goodrich of Santa Venetia and a pupil at Marindale School for handicapped youngsters, visited the sheriff to check on campaign plans and marked a big X on his desk calendar for Jan. 15. Hundreds of volunteers will "march" on that date in the annual drive for funds conducted by United Cerebral Palsy of Marin. (Ken Molino photo)

Bay Area Traffic Survey Is Urged

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A specialist in urban planning has proposed a detailed and comprehensive survey as a start to prevent the Bay Area from strangling by its own traffic congestion.

John E. Hirten, executive director of the San Francisco Planning and Urban Renewal Assn., said the study should include present and proposed bridges, freeways, airports, rapid transit and even methods of travel still in the dream stage.

Hirten made his proposal yesterday before about 150 state and civil leaders at the opening of a hearing on the Bay Area's transportation problems.

There is a good chance, Hirten said, of obtaining possible two-thirds of the funds needed for the study from the federal government. In order to interest the government, Hirten suggested a committee to decide just how extensive the study should be.

The hearing was called by state Sen. Eugene McAteer (D-San Francisco), who told the group that the auto would soon be useless unless something is done to clear jammed highways.

Wilbur E. Smith, executive director of the Assn. of Bay Area Government, said that not only should all types of transportation be included in future planning, but that such plans must be coordinated with community planning in various counties in the area.

Governor Appoints Vet Board Member

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown today announced the appointment of George G. Sinopoli, a Republican businessman of Fresno, to a four-year term on the California Veterans Board.

Sinopoli, 43, is manager of the Jensen and Pilegard Corporation branch store in Fresno. He will succeed Austin M. Healey of Fresno, whose term expires Jan. 15. The appointment requires Senate confirmation.

Council Approves Harbor Agreement In Mill Valley

The Mill Valley City Council, in a special meeting yesterday authorized Mayor Robert D. Huber and City Manager A. E. Almcrants to sign the $300,000 loan agreement with the state of California for the city's proposed small craft harbor.

This is the last step prior to the expected signing of the agreement Jan. 15 by the small craft harbor commission.

The council also authorized signatures of an amendment to the Almonte Sanitary District agreement. The district, in an unincorporated area, receives service from the Mill Valley sewage treatment plant.

Councilman Joseph E. Sheeks was absent.

Realty Firm Moves

Preferred Realty, Inc., in temporary quarters at 475 Miller Avenue in Mill Valley since the Marin branch was opened Oct. 1, 1961, has moved its office to a permanent location in the Sabella Harbor Building, 581 Redwood Highway. Phil Rosa of Mill Valley is manager.

Burglary Victim In Sausalito Distressed By Lack Of Police

Mrs. Sally Clapp Stapp, victim of a daring $20,000 burglary at her Sausalito home Dec. 24, told the Sausalito city council in a letter today she is "more than distressed" over the council's action Tuesday regarding obtaining more police protection.

She charged the council with delay, "brush-offs," and ridicule. She asked if it was necessary to have a murder of a wife or daughter of those in authority before Sausalito is cleaned up.

"No immediate action was taken by the council to provide adequate protection," Mrs. Stapp wrote, "although such had been strongly urged by the chamber of commerce, citizens council, Sausalito Woman's Club, our sheriff, police chief and many, many citizens.

"Instead," she contniued, "the problem was thrown into a committee for study and the council recessed. More delay!"

The council Tuesday authorized addition of one police officer and gave assurance it favors addition of a clerk-typist to permit another officer to be on duty out of the office. It also formed a committee to study other possibilities, including an appeal for police reserves. The committee is to report next Tuesday.

Mrs. Stapp wrote: "Our police said that if I had awakened, seen and could identify the robbers, I undoubtedly would have been murdered. Must we have the murder of a wife or daughter of those in authority before Sausalito is cleaned up?"

Police Chief Howard Goerndt denied today that any of his officers told Mrs Stapp she might have been murdered. Goerndt said he was present when an officer told Mrs. Stapp that if she had awakened she "probably would have been assaulted or harmed."

Mrs. Stapp wrote: "Most of our outstanding civic leaders did not bother to attend the meeting (Tuesday) due to previous 'brush-offs' and ridicule.

She suggested, "perhaps we need a dozen more officers and plain clothes detectives for a week or a month to bring our village back to normalcy."

Mrs. Stapp said today the amount of jewelry, silverware and heirlooms taken while she slept were valued "way over $20,000." She said "they cleaned me out."

Mrs. Webb Fair

Mrs. Blanche Webb of 316 Laurel Place, San Rafael, was reported in fair condition at Marin General Hospital today. Mrs. Webb, 70, was admitted to the hospital Sunday when she complained of difficulty breathing after a fall at her home.

A beautifully shelled sea mollusk known as conch (pronounced conk) abounds in the waters of the Bahamas and is an occasional producer of valuable pearls. One adorns a crown among the crown jewels of Sweden and another was purchased by a London jeweler for $10,000.

Endangered Trawler Gets Help

The sinking of a 56-foot fishing trawler 27 miles west of Point Reyes was narrowly averted last night by quick work of a Coast Guard flying boat.

The seaplane was sent to the rescue of the ship Mary Ann of Eureka last night at 9:45 o'clock after skipper Robert Porter radioed the ship was sinking.

Coast Guardsmen said the seaplane made two passes at the trawler, dropping sealed self-contained pumps. The second drop landed alongside the vessel so Porter and crewman Emery Wilson could begin pumping water that had already covered the engine.

Early today the cutter Taney arrived at the scene and put a second pump aboard the Mary Ann. Seas were reported light to moderate.

"Another 10 minutes and it wouldn't have made it. It was that close." Porter was reported as saying.

The Taney with the Mary Ann in tow was expected to make the Golden Gate by 6 p.m. today. The vessel will be taken to Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco.

Bolinas Votes For Studies

Bolinas-Stinson Union School district trustees last night voted unanimously to be considered in County Committee on School District Organization studies regarding inclusion in a Tomales Unified District.

Clerk Arthur E. Carpenter said the board made no decision as to whether it would enter the proposed district but simply that it wished to explore the matter.

A meeting of the committee is to be held at 8 p.m. Monday at West Marin School to consider the possible reorganization.

Speaking on possible methods of unification last night were Edwin L. Blackmore, county coordinator of rural education, Mrs. Betty Reed of the organization committee, and John Duncan Gray of West Marin School District.

Cost Of Removing Trees Told Novato

Davey Tree Service of San Rafael will remove three pine trees on Novato Boulevard for $656 under a contract awarded last night by the Novato City Council.

Earlier estimates had put the cost at $1,500 for removing the three big dead trees. at 1707, 1826 and 1839 Novato Boulevard. Davey was lowest of four bidders.

The council authorized a test project by the public works department for comparing control of weeds in ditches by spraying and mowing.

The council adjourned to 8 p.m. Tuesday at the community building, to hear a special report on the proposed federally assisted planning project for the city.

In other action, the council:

1. Authorized purchase of 35 shrubs at $3.50 each for the Monte Maria Improvement District.

2. Set Jan. 22 as tentative date for a public meeting on the formation of an assessment district to improve Center Road.

3. Asked the freeway committee of the council and the city planning commission to attend the Jan. 18 public hearing in the community building on possible locations of highway 101 freeway.

4. Named Mayor Wayne Womack and councilman M. E. Silva as delegate and alternate to a special conference, Feb. 1 and 2 in Sacramento on the League of Metropolitan government.

5. Authorized the city administrator to investigate the cost of a map board and clock for the council chambers in the community building at 906 Machin Avenue.

6. Heard a report from the city administrator that the city has issued 309 business licenses for $8,977 in fees.

All-Day Meets Scheduled For Supervisors

Through a cunning device concocted by county counsel, Marin County supervisors will resume all-day sessions Tuesday, after a year of two afternoon sessions weekly.

The ordinance won't become effective for a month, but Clerk George S. Jones told the wigggle around that.

board Tuesday how it can

"Set things up as usual for 2 p.m. Monday," said Jones, reporting for County Counsel E. Warren McGuire. "Then have one or two arrive and declare no quorum present, calling for the next try at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday when the board can run through what it scheduled for Monday afternoon."

This favorably impressed the four board members present and Chairman Walter R. Castro and Supervsor George Ludy said they'd drop in next Monday.

There was no discussion of or apparent reflection on what might happen if ex-Chairman William D. Fusselman, recovering from his current illness and an enthusiast for two afternoon sessions, were to drop in also on Monday afternoon and thus provide a quorum.

Burglary Victim In Sausalito Distressed By Lack Of Police

Mrs. Sally Clapp Stapp, victim of a daring $20,000 burglary at her Sausalito home Dec. 24, told the Sausalito city council in a letter today she is "more than distressed" over the council's action Tuesday regarding obtaining more police protection.

She charged the council with delay, "brush-offs," and ridicule. She asked if it was necessary to have a murder of a wife or daughter of those in authority before Sausalito is cleaned up.

"No immediate action was taken by the council to provide adequate protection," Mrs. Stapp wrote, "although such had been strongly urged by the chamber of commerce, citizens council, Sausalito Woman's Club, our sheriff, police chief and many, many citizens.

"Instead," she contniued, "the problem was thrown into a committee for study and the council recessed. More delay!"

The council Tuesday authorized addition of one police officer and gave assurance it favors addition of a clerk-typist to permit another officer to be on duty out of the office. It also formed a committee to study other possibilities, including an appeal for police reserves. The committee is to report next Tuesday.

Mrs. Stapp wrote: "Our police said that if I had awakened, seen and could identify the robbers, I undoubtedly would have been murdered. Must we have the murder of a wife or daughter of those in authority before Sausalito is cleaned up?"

Police Chief Howard Goerndt denied today that any of his officers told Mrs Stapp she might have been murdered. Goerndt said he was present when an officer told Mrs. Stapp that if she had awakened she "probably would have been assaulted or harmed."

Mrs. Stapp wrote: "Most of our outstanding civic leaders did not bother to attend the meeting (Tuesday) due to previous 'brush-offs' and ridicule.

She suggested, "perhaps we need a dozen more officers and plain clothes detectives for a week or a month to bring our village back to normalcy."

Mrs. Stapp said today the amount of jewelry, silverware and heirlooms taken while she slept were valued "way over $20,000." She said "they cleaned me out."

Mrs. Webb Fair

Mrs. Blanche Webb of 316 Laurel Place, San Rafael, was reported in fair condition at Marin General Hospital today. Mrs. Webb, 70, was admitted to the hospital Sunday when she complained of difficulty breathing after a fall at her home.

A beautifully shelled sea mollusk known as conch (pronounced conk) abounds in the waters of the Bahamas and is an occasional producer of valuable pearls. One adorns a crown among the crown jewels of Sweden and another was purchased by a London jeweler for $10,000.

Endangered Trawler Gets Help

The sinking of a 56-foot fishing trawler 27 miles west of Point Reyes was narrowly averted last night by quick work of a Coast Guard flying boat.

The seaplane was sent to the rescue of the ship Mary Ann of Eureka last night at 9:45 o'clock after skipper Robert Porter radioed the ship was sinking.

Coast Guardsmen said the seaplane made two passes at the trawler, dropping sealed self-contained pumps. The second drop landed alongside the vessel so Porter and crewman Emery Wilson could begin pumping water that had already covered the engine.

Early today the cutter Taney arrived at the scene and put a second pump aboard the Mary Ann. Seas were reported light to moderate.

"Another 10 minutes and it wouldn't have made it. It was that close," Porter was reported as saying.

The Taney with the Mary Ann in tow was expected to make the Golden Gate by 6 p.m. today. The vessel will be taken to Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco.

Bolinas Votes For Studies

Bolinas-Stinson Union School district trustees last night voted unanimously to be considered in County Committee on School District Organization studies regarding inclusion in a Tomales Unified District.

Clerk Arthur E. Carpenter said the board made no decision as to whether it would enter the proposed district but simply that it wished to explore the matter.

A meeting of the committee is to be held at 8 p.m. Monday at West Marin School to consider the possible reorganization.

Speaking on possible methods of unification last night were Edwin L. Blackmore, county coordinator of rural education, Mrs. Betty Reed of the organization committee, and John Duncan Gray of West Marin School District.

Cost Of Removing Trees Told Novato

Davey Tree Service of San Rafael will remove three pine trees on Novato Boulevard for $656 under a contract awarded last night by the Novato City Council.

Earlier estimates had put the cost at $1,500 for removing the three big dead trees. at 1707, 1826 and 1839 Novato Boulevard. Davey was lowest of four bidders.

The council authorized a test project by the public works department for comparing control of weeds in ditches by spraying and mowing.

The council adjourned to 8 p.m. Tuesday at the community building, to hear a special report on the proposed federally assisted planning project for the city.

In other action, the council:

1. Authorized purchase of 35 shrubs at $3.50 each for the Monte Maria Improvement District.

2. Set Jan. 22 as tentative date for a public meeting on the formation of an assessment district to improve Center Road.

3. Asked the freeway committee of the council and the city planning commission to attend the Jan. 18 public hearing in the community building on possible locations of highway 101 freeway.

4. Named Mayor Wayne Womack and councilman M. E. Silva as delegate and alternate to a special conference, Feb. 1 and 2 in Sacramento on the League of Metropolitan government.

5. Authorized the city administrator to investigate the cost of a map board and clock for the council chambers in the community building at 906 Machin Avenue.

6. Heard a report from the city administrator that the city has issued 309 business licenses for $8,977 in fees.

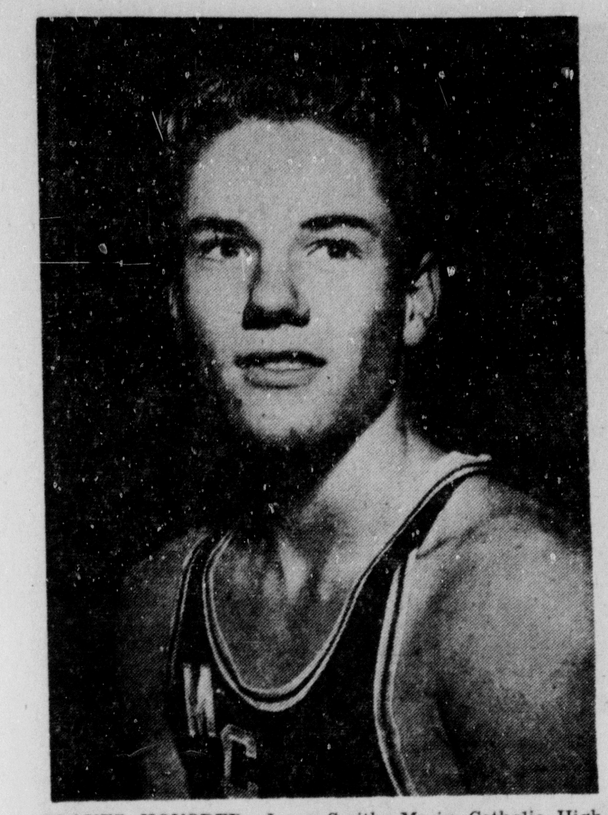
Independent-Journal Sports

Thursday, Jan. 11, 1962 13



PLAYER HONORED—Jerry Smith, Marin Catholic High varsity basketball guard, has been selected "Prep of the Week" by the Independent-Journal. (Independent-Journal photo)

PREP OF THE WEEK

Marin Catholic's Smith Honored

Jerry Smith, 17-year-old Marin Catholic High varsity basketball guard, has been selected Prep of the Week by the Independent-Journal for his stand-out play in his school's defeat of Drake High last Friday.

Smith led the Wildcats to a 37-33 victory over the Pirates, a team that had beaten the Catholics a month earlier for the Marin County Athletic League tournament crown. Smith scored 18 points in Friday's contest, and this season he is his team's leading scorer and one of the county's top prep gunners.

Smith, 5-10, is a three-year varsity letterman in basketball, a sport he has been playing since he was in the second grade at St. Raphael's Parochial School in San Rafael. Smith also played for six years with Catholic Youth Organization teams in Marin and at Marin Catholic was a junior varsity letterman. Baseball is the only other sport Smith plays formally.

He says he "has high hopes" this year for the Wildcats. "It will be close this year, thus the team with the most desire to win the league will." Smith, a senior who averages at least 15 points a game, is also an outstanding defensive player and floor leader.

One of the characteristics of Smith noticed by fans, is a religious gesture of "Crossing" himself often during a contest.

"Some people say it's wrong to do, other say it's good. I guess I just do it out of habit, to calm me down . . . you know a prayer . . . that it will go for you and your team," says Smith.

The Catholic athlete's other love besides sports is animals. It is his ambition to attend either the University of San Francisco, Oregon State College, or Colorado University. If he can gain a scholarship to either of the last two, Smith said he will go into conservation or game management. He said he has been indirectly approached regarding college scholarships.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynden M. Smith of 17 Albion Street, San Rafael.

U.S. Women's Ski Coach Warns Of Overconfidence

GRINDEWALD, Switzerland (AP) — Robert Beattie, head coach of the U. S. women skiers competing here in the 24th international ladies ski races, warned his team of overconfidence today before dispatching them to final drills on the downhill course.

The downhill races tomorrow wind up the ski championships and the U. S. girls are given a good chance of duplicating yesterday's victory in the giant slalom when Linda Myers of Bishop, Calif., took first place.

"It could be a lot better," Beattie said, "and I know we still have much to do until we reach the world events."

Still, most of the European coaches were enthusiastic about the U. S. team which placed three in the top 15 in the giant slalom. They also pointed to Miss Myers' third place finish the day before in the slalom event.

"These U. S. girls may give us a lot of trouble at Chamonix," Hermann Gamon of Austria said, referring to the world championships next month in France.

Miss Myers was timed in 1 minute 33.1 second. Barbara Ferries of Aspen, Colo., finished sixth and Jean Saubert, Lakeview, Ore., placed 13th.

Baltimore Takes Loss In TV Pact With CBS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Baltimore Colts' owner Carroll Rosenbloom believes the new television contract the National Football League signed with the CBS network will force his club to operate in the red during 1962.

"For the past two years our television contract with NBC has kept us in the black," Rosenbloom said last night. "If we had not had the pact we would have operated in the red those two years because of our continually increasing operating costs.

"We will take a beating on the new TV contract," he said, "which means we will operate in the red next season."

The new package TV deal with CBS calls for $9.3 million over the next two seasons. Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the NFL, said the return to each club would be about $326,000 a year. He said the only club losing money on the deal would be Baltimore.

Rosenbloom said he believes the package deal was sold too cheaply.

Bradley Topples Cincy; Top Four Win Some More

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bradley's Braves may be bridesmaids no longer!

Rather, it may be that perennial bride, Cincinnati, who will have to be content with only the bouquet and not the honeymoon trip to the NCAA basketball tournament this year as the Missouri Valley Conference's representative.

The onrushing Braves pushed second-ranked Bearcats and defending collegiate champions another notch from a fifth straight trip to the NCAA tourney last night with a stirring 70-68 overtime victory at Peoria, Ill.

The loss gave Cincy a 3-2 conference record and put the Braves on top with a 2-0 mark.

But four of the nation's top-ranked teams continued their surges. Fifth-ranked Kansas State bounced back after its upset by Colorado Saturday night and trounced Kansas 70-59 in a Big Eight game; sixth-ranked Villanova held off Temple for a 60-53 victory; eighth-ranked Duquesne easily beat Dayton 79-59 and ninth-ranked Bowling Green won over Toledo in a Mid-American Conference battle, 66-60.

Cincinnati, now 11-2 overall, ran into foul trouble in the first half, and it proved costly when 6-foot-9 Paul Hogue fouled out in the overtime session.

Bradley, which has now won eight straight, got two quick buckets from Lavern Tart and one from Chet Walker in the overtime and never fell behind. Joe Strawder topped Bradley with 24 points and All-America Walker added 17. Soph Paul Bonham led the Bearcats with 24.

Elsewhere, Nebraska moved to the top of the Big Eight (2-0) with a 57-56 victory over Oklahoma on Ivan Grupe's go-ahead field goal and clinching foul; Wake Forest used 30 points and 13 rebounds by big Len Chappell to beat North Carolina 91-72 and take over the Atlantic Coast Conference lead. An ACC game between N.C. State and Virginia was postponed until Feb. 8 because of snow conditions.

Jack (The Shot) Foley scored 35 points in Holy Cross' fifth straight victory, 95-58 over Massachusetts; Virginia Military beat The Citadel in a Southern Conference game, 71-69 in overtime; Maryland halted Georgetown (DC) 83-70; Fairfield came on in the second half to beat injury-riddled Fordham 92-86; South Carolina won over Furman 93-84; Miami (Fla.) edged Jacksonville (Fla.) 90-89; La Salle beat Muhlenberg 90-51.

Bob Duffy set a single-game high of 48 points in Colgate's 97-95 victory over Rochester, getting 11 in overtime; Pitt won over Geneva 78-65, Manhattan easily defeated St. Francis (NY) 90-73 and Kentucky Wesleyan upset Evansville, fourth-ranked small college quintet, 87-62.

On the West Coast, Portland won over Gonzaga 68-55.

Commission Will Snoop

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The State Athletic Commission plans to investigate the manner in which heavyweight boxer Eddie Machen was paid for his fight last year with Mike DeJohn in San Francisco.

Executive officer Jack Urch said yesterday questions will be asked about the ranking fighter's finances when the commission meets in San Francisco tomorrow.

Machen was quaranteed a $7,500 purse for the April 10 bout, Urch said.

But, according to the executive officer, sheriff's deputies trying to attach the purse for non-payment of debts were told the sponsoring Coast Counties Enterprises had loaned Machen $6,500 before the fight.

Urch said the commission wants to find out whether the $6,500 was a loan or a salary advance. State law forbids fighters from being paid any part of a purse before a fight.

Disciplinary action against Machen and Coast Counties Enterprises might be taken if the loan turns out to be an illegal salary advance, Urch said.

Food Man May Manage Heavyweight

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Jack Nilon, a food concessionaire and sports enthusiast, said today he wants to manage No. 1 heavyweight boxing contender Sonny Liston and has applied for a manager's license with the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission.

The 41-year-old Nilon, of Ridley Park, Pa., near Philadelphia, here to handle concessions for the Pennsylvania farm show, declined to commit himself to any details of what prompted his action.

But it was learned from authoritative sources, who did not want to be identified by name, that Liston went to Nilon, a close personal friend, and asked him if he would be interested in managing him. Liston would like to replace his present manager, George Katz.

The same sources said that Liston and Nilon discussed the managership thoroughly but came to no definite agreement because there were a few other things to iron out.

Meanwhile, champion Floyd Patterson said in New York he is willing to give Liston a shot at the title "under certain conditions." He said if he fights Liston it would be in the summer, preferably in New York.

"Something may be worked out in the next three of four weeks," said Patterson.

Nilon said he had appeared before the commission last week along with Liston and Katz.

Seals Return Home For Rest

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — San Francisco's Seals return home today for a weekend of rest before a Western Hockey League game with Edmonton in San Francisco Monday night.

The Seals lost to Portland 3-2 last night after losing the lead in the final five minutes. San Francisco opened the scoring on a first-period goal by Buddy Boone and made it 2-0 in the third period when Nick Mickowski scored.

Top Golf Pros Assault San Diego Open

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—The cream of the golfing world opened the assault on par in the first round of the $25,000 San Diego Open golf tournament today.

The favorites are Gary Player, the leading money-winner of 1961, who captured the pro division of the $5,000 pro-amateur tourney yesterday with a seven-under-par 64; Phil Rodgers, the upstart winner of the rich Los Angeles Open; Bob Goalby and Gay Brewer, a couple of men who have been on the hot-shot list lately.

Player, who won only $155 at Los Angeles, recovered his putting stroke yesterday and feels he's ready to make a bid for victory.

"I played well in Los Angeles," said Gary, the pride of South Africa. "But I couldn't putt at all. Now I seem to have recovered the touch and I hope it stays with me."

Rodgers, who had blazed around the rough Rancho course in Los Angeles in a nine-under-par 62 in his final round, took an even-par 71 here yesterday. Goalby and Brewer tied for second yesterday in the pro division with 65's.

On the other hand, Arnold Palmer, one of the all-time greats, was "lucky" to come in with a sad 76. He got that by holding out a tough, over-hill approach shot on the last hole for a par.

One of the men who got a lot of publicity last week in advance of the Los Angeles Open, Jack Nicklaus, is just a face in the crowd here. He won only $33.33 in his first start as a pro, but hopes for a big improvement.

Yesterday he tied with Rodgers at even-par 71.

Player who won more than $64,000 last year (officially) and picked up a reported $100,000 in other monies, said he was happy about winning the $155 in Los Angeles.

"It kept my consecutive finishes-in-the-money streak going," he said. "I've now finished in the money 48 consecutive times and I'd like to shoot at Dow Finsterwald's modern record of 72 consecutive money finishes."

Dr. Cary Middlecoff, the all-time money-winning record holder, shot a fine 67 yesterday, indicating he is returned to form.

PREP OF THE WEEK

Marin Catholic's Smith Honored

Jerry Smith, 17-year-old Marin Catholic High varsity basketball guard, has been selected Prep of the Week by the Independent-Journal for his stand-out play in his school's defeat of Drake High last Friday.

Smith led the Wildcats to a 37-33 victory over the Pirates, a team that had beaten the Catholics a month earlier for the Marin County Athletic League tournament crown. Smith scored 18 points in Friday's contest, and this season he is his team's leading scorer and one of the county's top prep gunners.

Smith, 5-10, is a three-year varsity letterman in basketball, a sport he has been playing since he was in the second grade at St. Raphael's Parochial School in San Rafael. Smith also played for six years with Catholic Youth Organization teams in Marin and at Marin Catholic was a junior varsity letterman. Baseball is the only other sport Smith plays formally.

He says he "has high hopes" this year for the Wildcats. "It will be close this year, thus the team with the most desire to win the league will." Smith, a senior who averages at least 15 points a game, is also an outstanding defensive player and floor leader.

One of the characteristics of Smith noticed by fans, is a religious gesture of "Crossing" himself often during a contest.

"Some people say it's wrong to do, other say it's good. I guess I just do it out of habit, to calm me down . . . you know a prayer . . . that it will go for you and your team," says Smith.

The Catholic athlete's other love besides sports is animals. It is his ambition to attend either the University of San Francisco, Oregon State College, or Colorado University. If he can gain a scholarship to either of the last two, Smith said he will go into conservation or game management. He said he has been indirectly approached regarding college scholarships.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynden M. Smith of 17 Albion Street, San Rafael.

'BAMA GRID COACH LOSS OLD STORY

Bryant, in Chicago to attend meetings of the NCAA, told Sports Editor Benny Marshall of the Birmingham News in a telephone interview he was going to "wait until the smoke clears" before hiring a replacement for Bradshaw.

"We may lose somebody else," he said.

GOOD NEWS

Bryant greeted the news of Bradshaw's appointment with delight.

"Well, wonderful," he said. "I'm really happy for Charley. They couldn't have gotten a better man in my opinion."

The elevation of Bradshaw brings to six the number of men who either played or coached under Bryant to hold head coaching jobs—Paul Dietzel, who left LSU for Army; Charley McClendon, who succeeded Dietzel at LSU; Jim Owens at Washington; J. T. King at Texas Tech, and Bill Elias at Virginia, plus Bradshaw and Claiborne.

Bradshaw, a former Marine who believes in the positive approach, has been picked to revive the sagging football fortunes at University of Kentucky.

"There is no doubt in my mind" that Kentucky football will get better, said Bradshaw. "If it were not so, I wouldn't be here," he said.

Bradshaw, who played football at Kentucky, then was an assistant coach before going to Alabama as an assistant, said he would go after the better students in his recruiting.

TRAMPS OUT

The day of the "tramp athlete" is gone, he said, adding, "You can't win with the dumb ones."

Bradshaw signed a four-year contract. No salary was mentioned,, but Collier was making a reported $17,500 a year when the remaining three years of his contract were bought by the Kentucky athletics board last week.

Bradshaw went to Alabama in 1959 under Paul Bryant, the man for whom he played in 1946-49 at Kentucky.

NCAA May Widen Gap Between AAU, Colleges

CHICAGO (AP) — The power-wielding council of the National Collegiate Athletic Association is expected to open further the break between the colleges and the Amateur Athletic Union today by approving programs for creation of new federations for U.S. track and field and gymnastics.

Council approval, tantamount to acceptance by the NCAA as a whole, would follow endorsement of plans for federations in the two sports by the NCAA's executive committee.

In its endorsement at yesterday's third session of the NCAA convention, the executive committee—NCAA Executive Director Walters Byers reported—felt "these new federations will greatly advance and improve these sports in the United States in all of their phases."

The executive committee acted on recommendations submitted by the National Collegiate Track Coaches Assn., the National Assn. of Gymnastics Coaches and a special committee on AAU-Olympic relations headed by Wilbur Johns, athletic director at UCLA.

The council, policy-making arm of the NCAA, last August approved creation of a U.S. federation in basketball.

All three are steps in the power struggle that has been raging for more than a year between the colleges and the AAU over control of U.S. amateur sports, particularly as they relate to foreign competition including the Olympics.

So serious has the break become that President Kennedy has expressed concern over the situation and the NCAA has asked delay until the first of next month of possible federal intervention.

No structure of the proposed track and gymnastics federation was announced, but the AAU would have representation on both.

"We have proposed equal representation for the AAU with the colleges, high schools, YMCA, and armed forces in basketball," Byers said, indicating the same lines of thought would be followed in track and in gymnastics.

The colleges claim the AAU, which controls the delegation to international groups in these sports and others, dictates policy in regard to international competition in the formation of teams, selection of coaching staffs and related matters. The colleges want more say because they furnish the bulk of the athletes in most sports.

Hot Air Predictions Say S.F. Giants To Be Paper Champs Before Spring

HANLEY

At the rate hot air predictions are pouring from hot stove sessions, Alvin Dark and his Giants will be the 1962 National League paper champions before their first spring workout Feb. 23 at Casa Grande.

From the east Ted Williams is predicting a possible .400 year for Willie Mays. One of the press associations predicted Orlando Cepeda might hit 61 homers. National League president Warren Giles promptly joined the fun, declaring any new records will be asterisked if set in the NL's expanded 162-game schedule.

From Candlestick Park so many promising forecasts are being made about four rookies that the let-down will be faster than a paratrooper without a parachute if none of the four makes the grade.

Three of the four are pitchers, Gaylord Perry, Ron Herbel and Jerry Thomas. The fourth is a little Panamanian shortstop smaller than pint-size. His name is Gil Garrido.

"You should write about these new boys," Walter Mails admonished us. "Why? Because when I took Carl Hubbell and Dark to a luncheon the other day, everyone present wanted to hear about the new players—they knew about our veterans."

WE DIDN'T tell Mails that we did write last October about the three rookie pitchers and that Dark said then he would be mighty pleased if one of them passed the test in spring training. Because Mails is one of the hardest working promotion men we ever met—even though sometimes over-exuberant—here once again is the dope on the trio.

Perry, Herbel and Thomas all are 21 and played their first pro ball for Harlingen in 1958. All are better than six feet, Perry, 6-4, 205; Thomas 6-3, 220; Herbel 6-1, 190. All are righthand throwers.

Perry, a brother of Cleveland's Jim Perry, was 16-10 at Tacoma with a 2.55 ERA last year. Herbel was 16-5 at Tacoma but his ERA wasn't as impressive as Perry's 2.55 or Thomas' 2.40 at Springfield in the Eastern League that is two notches below the AAA rating of Tacoma and the Coast League.

Thomas led the Eastern League in everything, most wins 20-7; best ERA 2.40; most complete games 21; most shutouts 6; most innings pitched 229; most strikeouts 216, and least walks 88. Mighty impressive—but still Class A ball.

ANDY GILBERT, manager of Springfield Giants, should know more about Thomas than anyone in Candlestick Park. So we checked with Andy about him and he had this to say: "Thomas did mow them down last season but you appreciate, of course, that our league doesn't have hitters like the majors. Jerry can fire but this is only his fourth year in pro ball so he still may be a couple of years away from the big time."

Now, what about that other rookie, Garrido? Rosy Ryan, general manager of the Tacoma Giants, thinks he is the best shortstop glove in decades. However, Rosy probably has forgotten he was saying the same things a year ago about Jose Pagan who did a most commendable job for the Giants at short last season while hitting .253. Maybe Garrido, a .250 coast league hitter, can make Pagan move over to second but we doubt it.

Athletes' Pay Going Up, Up, Up

By OSCAR FRALEY

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Pour the vitamins into junior and stand back while he grows because it is increasingly evident today that the monetary payoff on muscles is going to be even more astounding.

Back a few years, in the days of chewing tobacco baseball, as an example, a player who could run down a jackrabbit and hit a ball a country mile was lucky to get a mule as a bonus. This didn't include the reins to drive him home, either.

The answer is that they just didn't know how much the sedentary spectators would pay pay for tickets and/or television.

That latter item still hasn't been analyzed fully. There are those visionaries who dream of the day of pay television and when such comes to pass, Katie bar the vault. But meanwhile the payoff isn't exactly what you would call sneezing Kopeks.

Typical of this dollar downpour was the $9,300,000 contract which the National Football League signed with CBS-TV for the right to televise its games the next two years.

To belabor the point, back in mewling days of pro football, a fellow named Jim Thorpe played for $150 a game. He is, if you'll accept the word of the oldster, only the greatest of them all.

As of right now, a lot of fellows who couldn't carry his war bonnet are averaging $12,500 a year for 14 games as pro gridders. They also get an extra $50 for each exhibition contest, retirement benefits, injury insurance and a first class way of proceeding from one point of conflict to another.

Johnny Unitas, one of the top players, receives $31,000 for the 14-game season. This is only recompense for muscular activity. It is estimated that he more than doubles his take in endorsements, outside employment and what not.

And, it might be added, "Johny U" is not the highest paid athlete in sports. The baseball clouters get up in the $80,000 and $100,000 bracket salary-wise, golf pros can exceed that with a top year, and even Johnnies-come-sudden, like bowlers, are flirting with those brackets.

Saints Beat Pitt In Recorded Game

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—San Francisco's Saints beat the Pittsburgh Rens 102-87 in an American Basketball League game at San Francisco's Cow Palace last night.

ABL officials decided the game should go on the record as the first game of the second-half schedule.

Larry Beck, Ron Horn and Jim Francis each scored 21 points for San Francisco and Ken Sears scored 20 as the Saints coasted to victory.

NEW KENTUCKY COACH—Charlie Bradshaw, center, prepares to sign a four-year contract after he was named as the University of Kentucky's football coach. Shown with Bradshaw are Dr. Frank G. 'BAMA GRID COACH LOSS OLD STORY

And Bryant may lose at least one other assistant —perhaps to his former aide, Bradshaw, at Kentucky.

Bryant, in Chicago to attend meetings of the NCAA, told Sports Editor Benny Marshall of the Birmingham News in a telephone interview he was going to "wait until the smoke clears" before hiring a replacement for Bradshaw.

"We may lose somebody else," he said.

GOOD NEWS

Bryant greeted the news of Bradshaw's appointment with delight.

"Well, wonderful," he said. "I'm really happy for Charley. They couldn't have gotten a better man in my opinion."

The elevation of Bradshaw brings to six the number of men who either played or coached under Bryant to hold head coaching jobs—Paul Dietzel, who left LSU for Army; Charley McClendon, who succeeded Dietzel at LSU; Jim Owens at Washington; J. T. King at Texas Tech, and Bill Elias at Virginia, plus Bradshaw and Claiborne.

Bradshaw, a former Marine who believes in the positive approach, has been picked to revive the sagging football fortunes at University of Kentucky.

"There is no doubt in my mind" that Kentucky football will get better, said Bradshaw. "If it were not so, I wouldn't be here," he said.

Bradshaw, who played football at Kentucky, then was an assistant coach before going to Alabama as an assistant, said he would go after the better students in his recruiting.

TRAMPS OUT

The day of the "tramp athlete" is gone, he said, adding, "You can't win with the dumb ones."

Bradshaw signed a four-year contract. No salary was mentioned,, but Collier was making a reported $17,500 a year when the remaining three years of his contract were bought by the Kentucky athletics board last week.

Bradshaw went to Alabama in 1959 under Paul Bryant, the man for whom he played in 1946-49 at Kentucky.

NCAA May Widen Gap Between AAU, Colleges

CHICAGO (AP) — The power-wielding council of the National Collegiate Athletic Association is expected to open further the break between the colleges and the Amateur Athletic Union today by approving programs for creation of new federations for U.S. track and field and gymnastics.

Council approval, tantamount to acceptance by the NCAA as a whole, would follow endorsement of plans for federations in the two sports by the NCAA's executive committee.

In its endorsement at yesterday's third session of the NCAA convention, the executive committee—NCAA Executive Director Walters Byers reported—felt "these new federations will greatly advance and improve these sports in the United States in all of their phases."

The executive committee acted on recommendations submitted by the National Collegiate Track Coaches Assn., the National Assn. of Gymnastics Coaches and a special committee on AAU-Olympic relations headed by Wilbur Johns, athletic director at UCLA.

The council, policy-making arm of the NCAA, last August approved creation of a U.S. federation in basketball.

All three are steps in the power struggle that has been raging for more than a year between the colleges and the AAU over control of U.S. amateur sports, particularly as they relate to foreign competition including the Olympics.

So serious has the break become that President Kennedy has expressed concern over the situation and the NCAA has asked delay until the first of next month of possible federal intervention.

No structure of the proposed track and gymnastics federation was announced, but the AAU would have representation on both.

"We have proposed equal representation for the AAU with the colleges, high schools, YMCA, and armed forces in basketball," Byers said, indicating the same lines of thought would be followed in track and in gymnastics.

The colleges claim the AAU, which controls the delegation to international groups in these sports and others, dictates policy in regard to international competition in the formation of teams, selection of coaching staffs and related matters. The colleges want more say because they furnish the bulk of the athletes in most sports.

NFL Historian Tells Growth Of Pro Grid

By OSCAR FRALEY

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Back in 1922, the Rochester team of the National Football League was fearful of early December weather at home so it booked a game against a group of All-Americans into the more southerly clime of Washington.

On the day of the game in the capitol there was a light snowfall.

"We've got $87 in the till," the Rochester manager was told. "Will you play for 40 per cent of the net?"

A couple of weeks back, the Green Bay Packers played the New York Giants at Green Bay for the NFL title. Two days before the game it was 15 degrees below zero. The day of the game it was 18 degrees.

TIMES CHANGED

All of which goes to prove how far pro football has come—and it's a journey which was foretold by white-haired man named Leo V. Lyons. The semi-retired Rochester business man, actually one of the founders of the NFL, now is honorary historian of the league which every Sunday plays to capacity crowds.

"Back in 1917," Lyons relates, "I had a team in Rochester on which I played end. I read where the Canton Bulldogs were the 'champions of the world' so I signed to play them."

When Rochester arrived in the Ohio city, the team found a stretcher in front of its bench. Upon inquiry, Ray Witter, a Rochester end who had played for Syracuse, was told:

"Why, we have a guy named Jim Thorpe — and two guys were killed here playing against us last week."

NO JOKE

"It was a gag," says Lyons, "but in a way it was no joke. All we saw of Thorpe was a glimpse as he went past. Name them all and he's still the best, the one and only."

After the game, Lyons talked to Thorpe and suggested formation of a league.

"Someday," he said prophetically, "pro football is going to draw like major league baseball."

The following year, Thorpe wrote to Lyons that there was to be an organization meeting in Canton in July of 1919.

"We met in an automobile agency and didn't have enough chairs," Lyons says. "So Thorpe sat on the running board of a car while we formed the American Football Association with teams from Akron, Dayton, Canton, Columbus and Rochester. Two years later it became the National Football League."

BARGAIN PLAYER

As a result of the meeting, Lyons received a letter from an outfielder for the St. Paul baseball team of the American Association who offered to try out for the Rochester team and, if he made good, to play for $75 a game.

"I already had two Fordham ends and was to pay them $150 a week," Lyons muses. "Oh, yes, the fellow who offered to play for me was George Halas."

The same, it might be explained, who now watches with glee as his Chicago Bears play weekly to capacity crowds.

TALES OF THORPE

But Lyons always reverts to tales of Thorpe.

"I saw him first in 1912 when he beat Syracuse single handed," he recalls. "Ten years later we tied Akron, 13-13. Then Akron beat the Oorang Indians of Larue, O., playing without Thorpe, 66-0. That December the Buffalo All-Americans, one of the greatest teams ever and with players like Lou Little, met Oorang and took quick 6-0 lead. That's when Thorpe went into the game, personally scored 19 points, and the Indians won 19-6. He was it."

Yet, while the players may not be any better than the one-man gang, the gate is something else again. As Lyons predicted to his hero in the long ago.

Greenwald Succeeds Bob Jones As Manager Of Fish-Game Region 3

STEVENS

To the victor belong the spoils, they say. The spoils I have in mind come from meeting and chinning with sportsmen belonging to rod and gun clubs within the confines of 14 counties—from Mendocino on the north to San Luis Obispo on the south.

The victor is the man who placed first in a recent civil service examination for the post of manager of Region 3 of the Department of Fish and Game. Willard Greenwald earned the promotion after 25 years of steadily advancing positions with the Department of Fish and Game.

Greenwald replaces Robert L. (Bob) Jones who stepped into a job as director of the study of possible effects of planned water development on fish and wildlife in the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta and the Bay area.

Here's hoping the new regional manager will be as well accepted by the sportsmen as was genial Bob Jones.

Another appointment (temporary) that should interest us, is that of William C. Dillinger to the important post of top public information officer.

Dillinger has long been in the information branch of the Department of Fish and Game, and should he pass the civil service examination at some future date he will be our conservation program officer.

We wish the man Dillinger replaces, Robert D. Calkins, heaps of success in his appointment (by Governor Brown) as deputy director of the Department of Conservation.

SO, THE amenities taken care of, let's have a quick look see at the fishing situation hither and yon.

Saturday was a humdinger for the lads and lassies who towed hardware back of a moving boat in the Red Rock-California City region, while Sunday was closer to being a dud.

Bait fishing in the upper San Pedro produced fairly well, but the Mission Rock area was just plain ungood.

There are indications that a goodly number of bass have headed for their spawning grounds. Reports from the Delta region, while not actually hot by any means, hold a promise that the fishing we expected from the first of December but didn't get, will be with us through January and February — and probably March. Here's hoping!

APPARENTLY THE denizens of the deep ocean waters off Santa Cruz and Princeton are becoming active. Word from the Stagnaros at Santa Cruz so reports, and mentions a bonza three-day weekend just passed. Lings to 21¾ pounds and beaucoup rockfish.

In case you are curious, the local deep sea fishing trips from the municipal wharf at Santa Cruz will continue the rest of this month on weekends only. The regular daily trips will begin on Feb. 3—weather and tidal conditions permitting.

So-o-o, that's it for today. Be back with you tomorrow.

New Wildlife Films To Be Featured In Marin Monday

Three newly filmed wildlife motion pictures, "The Mountain Lion," "Wild Wings," and "Alaska's Fabulous Rainbows" will be shown Monday at 8 p.m. in the San Rafael High School auditorium.

Photographer and film editor Jim Bond worked with two professional lion hunters in wild country to film "The Mountain Lion."

"Lion hunting gets in your blood," said Bond. "Any day may provide enough excitement to last a long time. Following dogs is hard work and you may go days without hitting a fresh lion track. But when you do get after a big, old 'tom' it's real adventure." Bond said he and his companions were after lions for several zoos, so the films show the animals being taken alive.

"When an old, 175 - pound lion spits in your face and gets mad there's plenty of excitement. It's dangerous business even when everything goes well," he added.

The film "Wild Birds" includes action shots of Canadian Honker geese, various species of ducks, avocet, pelicans, egrets and other water foul. "Alaska's Fabulous Rainbows," includes Bond's shots of "whopping big rainbows in crystal clear streams . . . to please any angler." Bond takes the viewer on a trout fishing tour of the state.

Bond said he has worked two years and assembled 8,000 feet of film which had been edited down to 1,300 feet for two hours of showing.

The event will be sponsored by the Marin Rod and Gun Club. Tickets will be on sale at the auditorium, adults $1.25, and children, 75 cents.

MARIN ROD-GUN CLUB BANQUET SLATED JAN. 27

More than eight hundred men are expected to attend the 35th annual Marin Rod and Gun Club stag banquet Jan. 27, at the Bermuda Palms in San Rafael, announced co-chairmen Gordon Dixon and Leo Ciucci.

The chairmen said ticket sales have been "brisk" for the Saturday event and this year tickets must be purchased before the evening of the banquet. There will be no tickets sold the night of the banquet, they emphasized.

Tickets are available at the Western Sport Shop, the Lincoln Bait Shop, Bianco's Garage, West End Market, Bret Harte Lumber Co., the Independent-Journal, or from secretary Paul Ware, 14 Taylor Street, San Rafael, and Jim's Sport Shop in Novato; also at Free-Minetti Sport Shop in San Francisco.

Dodgers In Need Of Right Handed Relief Pitcher

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Dodgers are still interested in a trade for a right-handed relief pitdnacehheorp E ESCE lief pitcher and hope they can swing a deal before spring practice starts at Vero Beach, Fla., Feb. 25.

"If Ed Roebuck's shoulder holds up, he could be the man we need," says General Manager Buzzie Bavasi.

"Ed thinks his shoulder is OK and he feels he'll be 100 per cent for the 1962 season. We certainly hope so, for we certainly could use that sinker ball of his."

Bavasi said that if Roebuck has a recurrence of arm trouble this spring and a relief pitcher has to be found, the man might come from the Dodger ranks. Willard Hunter and Jack Smith, from Omaha and Atlanta, respectively, have given indication they may be what the dodgers are looking for.

Los Angeles has a fine southpaw relief man in Ron Perranoski and a topflight right-hander in Larry Sherry, both able to go several innings on short notice.

35 Women Vie In Indian Valley's Golf Tournament

Thirty-five women competed yesterday when guest day was observed by the Indian Valley Women's Golf Club. Guests attended from Alameda, Tilden Park, Marin Golf and Country Club, Orinda and Mill Valley.

Low gross for the day was won by Mrs. William May with a low of 86. Mrs. C. B. Coleman had a low net of 91-23-68.

In Class A competition Mrs. Jerry Evans was low with 92-19-73 and Mrs. William Sparrow, 93-19-74. Mrs. Lynn Sumpter with 93-18-75 and Mrs. M. J. Albo, a guest from Tilden, tied for third with a 95-20-75.

In Class B, Mrs. George Nolan scored with 99-23-76, Mrs. Charles Zapelli, 101-24-77, and Mrs. B. R. Wilkie, 102-24-78.

In class C, Mrs. Al Leach was low with 107-36-71, Mrs. William Jonas, 105-32-73 and Mrs. Ernest Korn, 100-26-74 .

NFL Historian Tells Growth Of Pro Grid

By OSCAR FRALEY

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Back in 1922, the Rochester team of the National Football League was fearful of early December weather at home so it booked a game against a group of All-Americans into the more southerly clime of Washington.

On the day of the game in the capitol there was a light snowfall.

"We've got $87 in the till," the Rochester manager was told. "Will you play for 40 per cent of the net?"

A couple of weeks back, the Green Bay Packers played the New York Giants at Green Bay for the NFL title. Two days before the game it was 15 degrees below zero. The day of the game it was 18 degrees.

TIMES CHANGED

All of which goes to prove how far pro football has come—and it's a journey which was foretold by white-haired man named Leo V. Lyons. The semi-retired Rochester business man, actually one of the founders of the NFL, now is honorary historian of the league which every Sunday plays to capacity crowds.

"Back in 1917," Lyons relates, "I had a team in Rochester on which I played end. I read where the Canton Bulldogs were the 'champions of the world' so I signed to play them."

When Rochester arrived in the Ohio city, the team found a stretcher in front of its bench. Upon inquiry, Ray Witter, a Rochester end who had played for Syracuse, was told:

"Why, we have a guy named Jim Thorpe — and two guys were killed here playing against us last week."

NO JOKE

"It was a gag," says Lyons, "but in a way it was no joke. All we saw of Thorpe was a glimpse as he went past. Name them all and he's still the best, the one and only."

After the game, Lyons talked to Thorpe and suggested formation of a league.

"Someday," he said prophetically, "pro football is going to draw like major league baseball."

The following year, Thorpe wrote to Lyons that there was to be an organization meeting in Canton in July of 1919.

"We met in an automobile agency and didn't have enough chairs," Lyons says. "So Thorpe sat on the running board of a car while we formed the American Football Association with teams from Akron, Dayton, Canton, Columbus and Rochester. Two years later it became the National Football League."

BARGAIN PLAYER

As a result of the meeting, Lyons received a letter from an outfielder for the St. Paul baseball team of the American Association who offered to try out for the Rochester team and, if he made good, to play for $75 a game.

"I already had two Fordham ends and was to pay them $150 a week," Lyons muses. "Oh, yes, the fellow who offered to play for me was George Halas."

The same, it might be explained, who now watches with glee as his Chicago Bears play weekly to capacity crowds.

TALES OF THORPE

But Lyons always reverts to tales of Thorpe.

"I saw him first in 1912 when he beat Syracuse single handed," he recalls. "Ten years later we tied Akron, 13-13. Then Akron beat the Oorang Indians of Larue, O., playing without Thorpe, 66-0. That December the Buffalo All-Americans, one of the greatest teams ever and with players like Lou Little, met Oorang and took quick 6-0 lead. That's when Thorpe went into the game, personally scored 19 points, and the Indians won 19-6. He was it."

Yet, while the players may not be any better than the one-man gang, the gate is something else again. As Lyons predicted to his hero in the long ago.

MILL VALLEY GIRL SKI CHAMP

New Wildlife Films To Be Featured In Marin Monday

Three newly filmed wildlife motion pictures, "The Mountain Lion," "Wild Wings," and "Alaska's Fabulous Rainbows" will be shown Monday at 8 p.m. in the San Rafael High School auditorium.

Photographer and film editor Jim Bond worked with two professional lion hunters in wild country to film "The Mountain Lion."

"Lion hunting gets in your blood," said Bond. "Any day may provide enough excitement to last a long time. Following dogs is hard work and you may go days without hitting a fresh lion track. But when you do get after a big, old 'tom' it's real adventure." Bond said he and his companions were after lions for several zoos, so the films show the animals being taken alive.

"When an old, 175 - pound lion spits in your face and gets mad there's plenty of excitement. It's dangerous business even when everything goes well," he added.

The film "Wild Birds" includes action shots of Canadian Honker geese, various species of ducks, avocet, pelicans, egrets and other water foul. "Alaska's Fabulous Rainbows," includes Bond's shots of "whopping big rainbows in crystal clear streams . . . to please any angler." Bond takes the viewer on a trout fishing tour of the state.

Bond said he has worked two years and assembled 8,000 feet of film which had been edited down to 1,300 feet for two hours of showing.

The event will be sponsored by the Marin Rod and Gun Club. Tickets will be on sale at the auditorium, adults $1.25, and children, 75 cents.

MARIN ROD-GUN CLUB BANQUET SLATED JAN. 27

More than eight hundred men are expected to attend the 35th annual Marin Rod and Gun Club stag banquet Jan. 27, at the Bermuda Palms in San Rafael, announced co-chairmen Gordon Dixon and Leo Ciucci.

The chairmen said ticket sales have been "brisk" for the Saturday event and this year tickets must be purchased before the evening of the banquet. There will be no tickets sold the night of the banquet, they emphasized.

Tickets are available at the Western Sport Shop, the Lincoln Bait Shop, Bianco's Garage, West End Market, Bret Harte Lumber Co., the Independent-Journal, or from secretary Paul Ware, 14 Taylor Street, San Rafael, and Jim's Sport Shop in Novato; also at Free-Minetti Sport Shop in San Francisco.

Dodgers In Need Of Right Handed Relief Pitcher

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Dodgers are still interested in a trade for a right-handed relief pitdnacehheorp E ESCE lief pitcher and hope they can swing a deal before spring practice starts at Vero Beach, Fla., Feb. 25.

"If Ed Roebuck's shoulder holds up, he could be the man we need," says General Manager Buzzie Bavasi.

"Ed thinks his shoulder is OK and he feels he'll be 100 per cent for the 1962 season. We certainly hope so, for we certainly could use that sinker ball of his."

Bavasi said that if Roebuck has a recurrence of arm trouble this spring and a relief pitcher has to be found, the man might come from the Dodger ranks. Willard Hunter and Jack Smith, from Omaha and Atlanta, respectively, have given indication they may be what the dodgers are looking for.

Los Angeles has a fine southpaw relief man in Ron Perranoski and a topflight right-hander in Larry Sherry, both able to go several innings on short notice.

The FISHIN' FOOL

STEVENS

To the victor belong the spoils, they say. The spoils I have in mind come from meeting and chinning with sportsmen belonging to rod and gun clubs within the confines of 14 counties—from Mendocino on the north to San Luis Obispo on the south.

The victor is the man who placed first in a recent civil service examination for the post of manager of Region 3 of the Department of Fish and Game. Willard Greenwald earned the promotion after 25 years of steadily advancing positions with the Department of Fish and Game.

Greenwald replaces Robert L. (Bob) Jones who stepped into a job as director of the study of possible effects of planned water development on fish and wildlife in the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta and the Bay area.

Here's hoping the new regional manager will be as well accepted by the sportsmen as was genial Bob Jones.

Another appointment (temporary) that should interest us, is that of William C. Dillinger to the important post of top public information officer.

Dillinger has long been in the information branch of the Department of Fish and Game, and should he pass the civil service examination at some future date he will be our conservation program officer.

We wish the man Dillinger replaces, Robert D. Calkins, heaps of success in his appointment (by Governor Brown) as deputy director of the Department of Conservation.

SO, THE amenities taken care of, let's have a quick look see at the fishing situation hither and yon.

Saturday was a humdinger for the lads and lassies who towed hardware back of a moving boat in the Red Rock-California City region, while Sunday was closer to being a dud.

Bait fishing in the upper San Pedro produced fairly well, but the Mission Rock area was just plain ungood.

There are indications that a goodly number of bass have headed for their spawning grounds. Reports from the Delta region, while not actually hot by any means, hold a promise that the fishing we expected from the first of December but didn't get, will be with us through January and February — and probably March. Here's hoping!

APPARENTLY THE denizens of the deep ocean waters off Santa Cruz and Princeton are becoming active. Word from the Stagnaros at Santa Cruz so reports, and mentions a bonza three-day weekend just passed. Lings to 21¾ pounds and beaucoup rockfish.

In case you are curious, the local deep sea fishing trips from the municipal wharf at Santa Cruz will continue the rest of this month on weekends only. The regular daily trips will begin on Feb. 3—weather and tidal conditions permitting.

So-o-o, that's it for today. Be back with you tomorrow.

TWO NEW JUMPERS

GLADSTONE, N.J. (AP)—The U.S. Equestrian Team has received two fine jumpers, both the gifts of Patrick Butler of St. Paul, Minn. They are Blue Bird, a gray thoroughbred, and Fire One, a registered quarter horse. The later will be returned after the 1964 Olympics.

HURT IN ST LOUIS BLAST

An unidentified employee of the Ralston-Purina Co., at St. Louis, Mo., was one of 30 injured in an explosion at the plant yesterday. Two persons died in the blast which resulted in a general alarm fire. (AP Wirephoto)

11 Die In Explosion In Illinois Coal Mine

HERRIN, Ill. (UPI)—Rescuers probing the smoke and fume-filled tunnels of Blue Blaze Coal Mine No. 2 today found the shattered bodies of 11 men trapped when an explosion tore through the shaft. There were no survivors.

The bodies could not be removed until ventilator fans blew the mine free of carbon monoxide left by the apparent methane gas explosion.

Recovery of the bodies was to be attempted later today.

Relatives of the victims were informed of the outcome of the tragedy by William Orlandi, Illinois state director of mines and minerals.

Orlandi declined to discuss possible causes of the blast. Mine owner Claude Gentry who was attending his own 45th birthday party when news of the blast came last night, said he had "no idea" as to the cause.

But state mine inspector Ray McCluskey theorized the workmen at the coal face may have cut into a trapped pocket of methane gas.

The gas could have been touched off by a miner lighting a cigarette, a spark from a machine or an electric short.

The body of the cage operator was found a few feet from the shaft. The motorman lay about 40 feet away. Bodies of the remaining nine were strewn about the coal face.

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

The people of a city and county deserve and earn the type of government they have, the three and a half million in the nine Bay Area counties are going to have to decide what type of body should deal with their common problems.

This was the central theme of San Rafael Mayor John F. McInnis's talk on "Bay Area Problems" at yesterday's luncheon of the League of Women Voters of Mill Valley.

Sixty-four members attended the luncheon at Tiburon Tommie's restaurant after a morning session that started at 10 o'clock.

California is far ahead of other states in governmental adequacy and efficiency McInnis said, and people in the Bay Area adequately met their problems until after World War II.

"Now we are in a complete and absolute mess," he declared.

Details of the mess, he said, include problems of transportation, water pollution, bridges, rapid transit and planning in connection with recreation and land use. Responsible for the mess is the lack of coordination in dealing with these problems as well as failure to consult people most affected by proposed actions.

As examples of the latter the Mayor named the proposed Golden Gate State Park at the north end of the Golden Gate bridge and the construction of another bridge.

A section of Marin County has been committed to public use by an outside authority—principally because the most forceful unit was the City of San Francisco—and was then acted on by a third agency in Washington, D.C., he charged. And not one person can say how big the park should be.

As for another bridge, McInnis continued, no one of the planning group has talked to the people at the ends of the bridges to see where it should be located.

A notable instance of lack of overall planning he described was the new highway constructed between San Jose and San Francisco with great efficiency by the Division of Highways but without regard to the flow of traffic in the nine counties.

"These are all problems that can have no answer found in a city or county because of the crossing of boundaries many times," he asserted. "I think in some fashion . . . there must be a better tool developed for the transmission of information from the people who are aware of problems to the people who are living in the cities and counties. It isn't enough for the supervisors or councilmen to be aware of them," the Mayor maintained.

He deplored the situation in rapid transit, in which the people who paid for a good study either rejected it, as they did recently in San Mateo, or accepted with tremendous qualifications.

"The solution is somewhere in coordinated action of the entire area," McInnis emphasized.

He then named as types of authorities to perform this function (1) a single body that would be a new form a government over all cities and counties; (2) a nine-county planning commission such as the one he opposed in Sacramento, or (3) a voluntary association of areas to form a clearing house or forum, like the present association of Bay Area governments.

McInnis said he did not favor the first, which he considers "academic and cloud sevenish" because "there are real values in other areas of the present type of local governments that should not be given up for the sake of a single body." Nor did he favor the second, because it would be one more taxing authority, for one reason.

He concluded by saying that though Marin is not yet a member of the association of Bay Area governments, he believes it will be. In this type of organization, he said, there would be opportunity for every government to air its position and substantiate its views and have its day in court.

Orientation Conducted At Hospital

Attending the tour and tea, which was hostessed by the Service League, were Mesdames Berthold Hartmann, Frederick Vogel, Craig Hope, Max Uber, Ottis Yoder, Thomas Sinna, Phil Smith, William Hubenette and Ralph Chatoian.

Also attending were Mesdames William Sullivan and Carl Hawk from Greenbrae; Mrs. W. G. Morrisey III of Ross; Mrs. Anthony Schiavo of Fairfax and Mrs. Franklin Pershina of San Anselmo; Mesdames John Cottle, Russell Seaman and Donald Leister attended from Larkspur and Mesdames Clayton C. Claxton and Bruce R. Morgan of Mill Valley.

Hostesses for the Pink Ladies were Mesdames Hans Fischel, Charles Luchessa, A. A. Hammons and M. J. Pasquinucci.

Kentfield Museum Guild Dinner Set

Members of the Kentfield Guild of the Boyd Natural Science Museum will meet for dinner at Sabella's on Saturday at 6 p.m.

Following dinner the group will attend the Cove Players' production, "Nature's Way," in Mill Valley. Chairman is Mrs. Robert Scoutten, assisted by Mesdames Raymond Dix and Lee Windheim.

Ski Club Trip

For the third year the Belvedere Ski Club will take a trip to Ski Tavern at Mt. Rose, near Reno, Jan. 26. The group, which includes about 76 members, will leave by chartered bus for a three day trip in the snow country.

Mills Club To Hear Educator

The Marin Mills College Alumnae Club is having a special meeting at 8 p.m., Jan. 17, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Barnett Sumski in Greenbrae, when the speaker will be Dr. Ethel Sabin Smith, professor emeritus of psychology and philosophy at Mills College.

Dr. Sabin is well known as the author of "The Dynamics of Aging." Her latest book, "Passports at Seventy," was written after her return from a freighter trip around the world during 1959-60, and she will discuss this book and her travels in Australia.

IS BIKINI BACK AGAIN?

The bikini may come bouncing back this season to challenge the demure, cover-up trend of previous seasons. Girls are wearing bikinis — especially at the fashionable Mediterranean resorts — and the designers are well aware of this.

Rome Opens 'Alta Moda' Showings

Half a dozen Roman houses were opening the high fashion chapter of the spring-summer style previews in the Barberini Palace today.

But the Roman look for 1962 is the main business of the day.

"Keep it moving" seems to be the motto of the Italian designers showing in Rome. Skirts flare out, panels float, light silks have a slightly windswept look.

Hemlines stay in the neighborhood of the knee. The waistline wanders up and down. Sometimes it vanished altogether.

Emilio Parboni, a newcomer to the Rome fashion shows, votes for the drama of capes. Flattering necklines play an important and flattering role in his collection.

Luciani, internationally known for his trimly tailored suits, flares skirts and jackets. He calls this his "sun" collection and tunes his colors accordingly. Orange, in all its clear, warm shades, is his pet color.

Visitors From South America Cause Of Martinelli Reunion

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

South American visitors are bringing about many reunions of the pioneer Martinelli family as here from Salvador are Mr. and Mrs. Ricardo Sagrera (Carmel Bogle) with their seven year old daughter, Teresita.

This is the first time little Teresita has been in the United States and she is fascinated with it and its schools.

The Sagreras arrived before Christmas to see their two sons, Edwin, a senior at the San Rafael Military Academy, and Richard, also a SRMA cadet, and Mrs. Sagrera's family. Mr. and Mrs. Sagrera and their daughter fly back to Brazil Tuesday. He is a banker in Salvador and has a textile factory and retail outlets for it. He is also economic adviser to the president of Salvador.

Mrs. Sagrera is the daughter of Mrs. Earle McNeil (Genevieve Caroline Martinelli) of Novato, sister of Mrs. Albert Cunningham (Betty Bogle) of Kentfield and Mrs. Jean Wright (Jean Boble of Novato) and niece of Judge Jordan L. Martinelli of San Rafael and Ennio Martinelli of San Francisco).

Yesterday Mrs. McNeil gave a luncheon for Mrs. Sagrera attended by many family members. Judge and Mrs. Martinelli entertained at a family dinner and Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham were hosts at the Christmas feast. It was the first time the entire family had been together in 21 years. Over New Year's the Sagrera family went to Lake Tahoe.

A cousin of Mrs. Louis Martini Jr. (Elizabeth Martinelli) of St. Helena entertained at a luncheon last week for Mrs. Sagrera, following a tour of the Louis Martini Winery.

Mrs. McNeil included in her guest list several generations of her family beginning with Mrs. Ulysses Martinelli of Petaluma, widow of her uncle, to Teresita Sagrera and six-year-old Kerry Rippon.

Other guests were Mesdames August Lepori (Alma Martinelli) of Petaluma, Louis Martini Jr., Ennio Martinelli, Frank Rippon (Grace Martinelli) who lives in Novato, and Albert Cunningham.

AT PEACOCK GAP GOLF and Country Club Mrs. Earl W. Burns of San Rafael entertained at a luncheon Tuesday. She is president of the San Rafael Improvement Club and her guests were mostly board members. However, included were two new members, Mesdames Herbert K. Walton Jr. and Alfred N. Thomson. Also present were Mesdames Richard Hardin, Alex Bovee, Florence Donnelly, George Ballantyne, Sanford McLaughlin, Robert Swart, Eleanor Samuelson, Lewis A. Clapp, Sydney Frank, Leslie Turner, Charles Marcus, Donald Murray, Earl W. Dixon, Clarence DeLong, Elie Dalmon and Andrew Ferrier.

THE BAPTISM of the small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Branwell Fanning of the Reedlands Sunday was the occasion for a family reunion at the Fanning home. The paternal grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. D. J. Fanning of Chicago flew from there. Also present were the baby's mother's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Biddle of Morris, Ill. and her mother, Mrs. F. J. Winters of Parkmerced, San Francisco. The baby, Kathleen Natalie, was baptized at St. Hilary's Church with Rev. John Murray officiating. Both godparents, Mrs. John Berg of New Canaan, Conn. and Joseph Adler of Joliet, Ill., were represented by proxies. Dr. and Mrs. Fanning returned home by plane Monday and the Biddles went by train to Los Angeles for a stay there before going back to Illinois.

LEAVING SOON for a cruise to the Orient are Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Scott. Mrs. E. M. Shelton and Mrs. Harold Fletcher, all of Belvedere. They leave aboard the Queen Bear Jan. 22 for Yokohama and will return by ship from there.

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

The people of a city and county deserve and earn the type of government they have, the three and a half million in the nine Bay Area counties are going to have to decide what type of body should deal with their common problems.

This was the central theme of San Rafael Mayor John F. McInnis's talk on "Bay Area Problems" at yesterday's luncheon of the League of Women Voters of Mill Valley.

Sixty-four members attended the luncheon at Tiburon Tommie's restaurant after a morning session that started at 10 o'clock.

California is far ahead of other states in governmental adequacy and efficiency McInnis said, and people in the Bay Area adequately met their problems until after World War II.

"Now we are in a complete and absolute mess," he declared.

Details of the mess, he said, include problems of transportation, water pollution, bridges, rapid transit and planning in connection with recreation and land use. Responsible for the mess is the lack of coordination in dealing with these problems as well as failure to consult people most affected by proposed actions.

As examples of the latter the Mayor named the proposed Golden Gate State Park at the north end of the Golden Gate bridge and the construction of another bridge.

A section of Marin County has been committed to public use by an outside authority—principally because the most forceful unit was the City of San Francisco—and was then acted on by a third agency in Washington, D.C., he charged. And not one person can say how big the park should be.

As for another bridge, McInnis continued, no one of the planning group has talked to the people at the ends of the bridges to see where it should be located.

A notable instance of lack of overall planning he described was the new highway constructed between San Jose and San Francisco with great efficiency by the Division of Highways but without regard to the flow of traffic in the nine counties.

"These are all problems that can have no answer found in a city or county because of the crossing of boundaries many times," he asserted. "I think in some fashion . . . there must be a better tool developed for the transmission of information from the people who are aware of problems to the people who are living in the cities and counties. It isn't enough for the supervisors or councilmen to be aware of them," the Mayor maintained.

He deplored the situation in rapid transit, in which the people who paid for a good study either rejected it, as they did recently in San Mateo, or accepted with tremendous qualifications.

"The solution is somewhere in coordinated action of the entire area," McInnis emphasized.

He then named as types of authorities to perform this function (1) a single body that would be a new form a government over all cities and counties; (2) a nine-county planning commission such as the one he opposed in Sacramento, or (3) a voluntary association of areas to form a clearing house or forum, like the present association of Bay Area governments.

McInnis said he did not favor the first, which he considers "academic and cloud sevenish" because "there are real values in other areas of the present type of local governments that should not be given up for the sake of a single body." Nor did he favor the second, because it would be one more taxing authority, for one reason.

He concluded by saying that though Marin is not yet a member of the association of Bay Area governments, he believes it will be. In this type of organization, he said, there would be opportunity for every government to air its position and substantiate its views and have its day in court.

Attending the tour and tea, which was hostessed by the Service League, were Mesdames Berthold Hartmann, Frederick Vogel, Craig Hope, Max Uber, Ottis Yoder, Thomas Sinna, Phil Smith, William Hubenette and Ralph Chatoian.

Also attending were Mesdames William Sullivan and Carl Hawk from Greenbrae; Mrs. W. G. Morrisey III of Ross; Mrs. Anthony Schiavo of Fairfax and Mrs. Franklin Pershina of San Anselmo; Mesdames John Cottle, Russell Seaman and Donald Leister attended from Larkspur and Mesdames Clayton C. Claxton and Bruce R. Morgan of Mill Valley.

Hostesses for the Pink Ladies were Mesdames Hans Fischel, Charles Luchessa, A. A. Hammons and M. J. Pasquinucci.

Kentfield Museum Guild Dinner Set

Members of the Kentfield Guild of the Boyd Natural Science Museum will meet for dinner at Sabella's on Saturday at 6 p.m.

Following dinner the group will attend the Cove Players' production, "Nature's Way," in Mill Valley. Chairman is Mrs. Robert Scoutten, assisted by Mesdames Raymond Dix and Lee Windheim.

Ski Club Trip

For the third year the Belvedere Ski Club will take a trip to Ski Tavern at Mt. Rose, near Reno, Jan. 26. The group, which includes about 76 members, will leave by chartered bus for a three day trip in the snow country.

Mills Club To Hear Educator

The Marin Mills College Alumnae Club is having a special meeting at 8 p.m., Jan. 17, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Barnett Sumski in Greenbrae, when the speaker will be Dr. Ethel Sabin Smith, professor emeritus of psychology and philosophy at Mills College.

Dr. Sabin is well known as the author of "The Dynamics of Aging." Her latest book, "Passports at Seventy," was written after her return from a freighter trip around the world during 1959-60, and she will discuss this book and her travels in Australia.

IS BIKINI BACK AGAIN?

The bikini may come bouncing back this season to challenge the demure, cover-up trend of previous seasons. Girls are wearing bikinis — especially at the fashionable Mediterranean resorts — and the designers are well aware of this.

Rome Opens 'Alta Moda' Showings

Half a dozen Roman houses were opening the high fashion chapter of the spring-summer style previews in the Barberini Palace today.

But the Roman look for 1962 is the main business of the day.

"Keep it moving" seems to be the motto of the Italian designers showing in Rome. Skirts flare out, panels float, light silks have a slightly windswept look.

Hemlines stay in the neighborhood of the knee. The waistline wanders up and down. Sometimes it vanished altogether.

Emilio Parboni, a newcomer to the Rome fashion shows, votes for the drama of capes. Flattering necklines play an important and flattering role in his collection.

Luciani, internationally known for his trimly tailored suits, flares skirts and jackets. He calls this his "sun" collection and tunes his colors accordingly. Orange, in all its clear, warm shades, is his pet color.

Milliner Sees Bridal Fashions As 'Bound By Phony Tradition'

Most modern brides who walk down the aisle look "dreadful" in wedding fashions that "should have gone out with the horse and carriage," says a noted New York milliner.

"I went to some 50 weddings in a year and a half," said the milliner, who goes by the name of William J. "It was pretty dreadful. I went to observe the fashions and to see what, if anything, should be changed or improved upon."

Weddings should be the most beautiful time in a woman's life, and everything associated with them should have dignity, he said in a recent interview.

But neither bridal dresses nor the hairdos worn by brides impart this dignity, he contended.

"We must do away with the nipped-in waist, the huge full skirt, the massive train, the layers of tulle—the whole cumbersome dress," said William J.

In its stead, he suggested substituting "terrifically simple dresses that make a girl feel exciting." These dresses would be made of either dull satin or crepe, would be "almost comfortable" and would have ankle-length skirts instead of yards of unwieldy material around the feet.

"Please," he said, "no sweetheart necklines or any of that junk. And no tricks, no fancy drapes and no-seed-pearl embroidery."

HINT OF TRAIN

For the very formal wedding, William J. suggests a bride with the barest suggestion of a train —"A small softness that comes out from the end of the skirt."

He also suggests very long white gloves, bridal bouquets that look natural, casual hairdos and headdresses that look more like hats.

During his round of weddings, William J. came to the conclusion that "the bridal consultant is the number one monster, and the hairdresser is monster number two."

Consultants, he said, have very little fashion sense and are bound by "phony tradition."

As for hair dressers, he said they "get everybody upset and shouldn't be allowed at the wedding."

TOO FUSSY

In reaction, Maggie Fisk, a bridal consultant, agreed that too many brides are fussily dressed, but she placed the blame on the brides themselves and on their mothers.

"We feel that manufacturers are putting too many beads and sequins on things, but if it's what the customers want, what are you going to do?" she asked. (AP)

IN THE PINK

Pale pink ribbon lace, combined with matching pink organza makes a dainty evening costume for spring, 1962, from the collection of Rudolf, Inc. The short-sleeved, brief bolero jacket makes delicate covering for the organza bodice, draped close to the body.

Christine Godtfredsen To Be Bride Of Richard J. Janda

At a recent open house, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey C. Godtfredsen announced the engagement of their daughter, Christine, to Richard John Janda of Pennsylvania.

Chris was graduated from San Rafael High School where she was a member of Ra Ravas and attended the College of Marin. She is presently studying at the Academy of Art in San Francisco and is employed by the California State Automobile Assn. The bride-elect is a Past Honored Queen of Bethel 48, International Order of Job's Daughters and is the sister of Carl Godtfredsen.

Dick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Janda of Huntingdon Valley, Pa. and the brother of Eileen Janda.

The future bridegroom was graduated from Pennsylvania State University, where he was president of Delta Upsilon fraternity. He is currently doing graduate work in geology at the University of California.

The couple plans a wedding in June.

SEATTLE IS the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Robert Grady (Susan Ann Fay) who were married at St. Sebastian's Church in Greenbrae. Keith is attending Seattle University. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grady and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur V. Fay, all of San Rafael. (Du Charme photo)

Miss McLean To Be Wed On April 29

The engagement of Patricia McLean and Roger Piazza of San Francisco has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. McLean of San Rafael.

The bride-elect is a 1961 graduate of San Rafael High School and is employed in San Francisco. She is the sister of Joanne McLean.

Roger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Piazza of San Francisco. He was graduated from Westmoor High School and is employed by United Airlines and is a student at the University of California Extension.

The couple plans to be married April 29.

Italian Stylists Warring

A small civil war smouldering in the Italian fashion industry has split the designers into two groups. One group shows in the Barberini Palace in Rome, the other in the Pitti Palace in Florence.

The Fontana Sisters, who dress princesses and movie stars, have decided to cold-shoulder both palaces. They will show "at home" in their Piazza di Espagna salon and promised a flowing line that follows the natural shape of the body.

The showings of fashions in Rome are underway this week.

On Saturday, the scene shifts to Florence, where 15 high fashion houses and 31 boutiques — the people who make the famous beach clothes, casuals and knits — will present their collections.

Italian-designed clothes are popular throughout the world and style ideas travel from Via Veneto to Main Street in less time than it takes a husband to say "it costs too much . . . "

The key to the success story of Italy's fashion industry is the knack for flattering, feminine fashions.

"A woman is not a clothes' hanger," said Renato Balestra, a young Roman designer.

Summing up his own fashion philosophy, Balestra said: "A dress is only important for what it does for a woman."

Balestra predicted the fashions this spring and summer will have "happy colors that make a woman look better and feel better, with a soft, easy silhouette and hemlines that just cover the knee."

He said women did not want "stiff, complicated styles that hamper freedom of movement." As for longer skirts, "women won't stand for them."

Home Furnishings Selected To Illustrate Good Design

By VIVIAN BROWN

NEW YORK (AP)—Forty-three home furnishings designs were selected for American Institute of Interior Designers awards for 1962.

The designs were chosen from more than 650 entries to emphasize good design available to the consumer, and to serve as a source of encouragement to designers of furniture, fabrics, floor coverings, wall coverings and decorative accessories.

Fabrics designed by Indian students at the University of Arizona include a handsome sand-colored rayon with white Navajo ponies by Van Tsihnohjinnie and a hand-dyed silk with cactus flowers by Bahah-Zhonie.

Other awards include "giant cloth" upholstery fabric selected for its new texture. The cloth designed by Robert Webb of Pasadent looks like a large-stitch knitted fabric. A rope cloth for wall use by the same designer achieved honors also for the use of an existing fiber in a wall covering.

Among the furniture designs were popular metal and wood combinations. One was a sideboard in walnut and pollard oak with a bronze base in the new "Northwest Look." The piece designed by Winsor White of Grand Rapids has a bronze base, coinciding with the trend to collaborate wood and metal.

Decorative accessories chosen included a clear plastic doorknob with a bubbled core, an aluminum solf-contained garden fountain and architectural cylinder planters.

An award for research and development cited a colorful window and patio screening, an innovation for the home. The screening made from coated Fiberglas yarns is available in white, yellow, coral, beige, green and aqua and was designed for use in patios, windows, doors and porch screening. It has all the advantages of conventional screening.

Party Series To Precede Performance

A series of parties will be held tomorrow night before the champagne preview of the Tiburon Cove Players performance of "Nature's Way" which will be presented at the American Legion Hall in Mill Valley.

Entertaining in Mill Valley will be Maj. and Mrs. David Vail, whose guests will include Messrs. and Mesdames Randolph Grieg, Robert Baldwin, Perry Brown, Richard Stewart, William Hollenbeck and John Vail and Nancy Kops. Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Lentz of Mill Valley will have as guests Messrs. and Mesdames Richard Baker, Alfred Almcrants, Gerald London, Robert Glessing, Walter Louden, John Donhoff, Ronald Monk, John Harvey, Frank David, Marlin Michel, Earl Currey, Fred Morrill, Ralph Skippen and William Andrews.

In Belvedere Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Rauscher will entertain Messrs. and Mesdames Donald Fairweather, William Main and Henry Smith.

Milliner Sees Bridal Fashions As 'Bound By Phony Tradition'

Most modern brides who walk down the aisle look "dreadful" in wedding fashions that "should have gone out with the horse and carriage," says a noted New York milliner.

"I went to some 50 weddings in a year and a half," said the milliner, who goes by the name of William J. "It was pretty dreadful. I went to observe the fashions and to see what, if anything, should be changed or improved upon."

Weddings should be the most beautiful time in a woman's life, and everything associated with them should have dignity, he said in a recent interview.

But neither bridal dresses nor the hairdos worn by brides impart this dignity, he contended.

"We must do away with the nipped-in waist, the huge full skirt, the massive train, the layers of tulle—the whole cumbersome dress," said William J.

In its stead, he suggested substituting "terrifically simple dresses that make a girl feel exciting." These dresses would be made of either dull satin or crepe, would be "almost comfortable" and would have ankle-length skirts instead of yards of unwieldy material around the feet.

"Please," he said, "no sweetheart necklines or any of that junk. And no tricks, no fancy drapes and no-seed-pearl embroidery."

HINT OF TRAIN

For the very formal wedding, William J. suggests a bride with the barest suggestion of a train —"A small softness that comes out from the end of the skirt."

He also suggests very long white gloves, bridal bouquets that look natural, casual hairdos and headdresses that look more like hats.

During his round of weddings, William J. came to the conclusion that "the bridal consultant is the number one monster, and the hairdresser is monster number two."

Consultants, he said, have very little fashion sense and are bound by "phony tradition."

As for hair dressers, he said they "get everybody upset and shouldn't be allowed at the wedding."

TOO FUSSY

In reaction, Maggie Fisk, a bridal consultant, agreed that too many brides are fussily dressed, but she placed the blame on the brides themselves and on their mothers.

"We feel that manufacturers are putting too many beads and sequins on things, but if it's what the customers want, what are you going to do?" she asked. (AP)

Christine Godtfredsen To Be Bride Of Richard J. Janda

At a recent open house, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey C. Godtfredsen announced the engagement of their daughter, Christine, to Richard John Janda of Pennsylvania.

Chris was graduated from San Rafael High School where she was a member of Ra Ravas and attended the College of Marin. She is presently studying at the Academy of Art in San Francisco and is employed by the California State Automobile Assn. The bride-elect is a Past Honored Queen of Bethel 48, International Order of Job's Daughters and is the sister of Carl Godtfredsen.

Dick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Janda of Huntingdon Valley, Pa. and the brother of Eileen Janda.

The future bridegroom was graduated from Pennsylvania State University, where he was president of Delta Upsilon fraternity. He is currently doing graduate work in geology at the University of California.

The couple plans a wedding in June.

Steps Toward Weight Reduction

Statistics show that 95 per cent of overweight people simply eat too much. If you are one of the 45 million heavyweights in the nation today, these steps should start you toward becoming straight and narrow—and staying that way.

First, weigh. Don't be afraid to face the scale. This precision instrument will be your biggest morale booster and severest critic.

Consult your physician. Only your doctor has the knowledge to decide how much, how fast, and what diet will help you lose weight. Physical condition, amount of overweight and individual living habits must determine the safest plan for you.

Determine ideal weight. Only a physician can tell you—on the basis of your weight, bone structure, and muscular development — what you should weigh. But, because no two people are alike, he will try to judge the point at which you will look and feel your best.

Know yourself. Most people merely continue with poor eating habits developed in early years. Others console themselves by munching when they are lonely or are worried about money, family, job or social standing.

Count your calories. A calorie is the amount of energy the system receives from a given amount of food. The body absorbs the energy it needs and ingeniously stores surplus in the form of fat. Paring down this needless reserve and making sure it doesn't pile up again are the only effective weight reduction steps.

Retrain the appetite. Appetite is not hunger. Natural desire to eat can become channeled into an artificial food craving. Learn to fell well-fed without in-between meal snacks.

Eat balanced meals. Fats, sugar, starches and protein all supply energy for the human body and perform their own function within the internal motor. As with a car, too lean a mixture of fuel is harmful. It's the proper balance of nutritional calories that keeps you trim.

Improve eating habits. Skipping a meal doesn't save calories; instead the strain on your nerves will make you eat twice as much next time. You will also receive greater satisfaction from less food if you eat slowly.

Exercise in moderation. Exercise will not actually remove pounds, but even simple walking will improve muscle tone and circulation, and relax tension in any healthy adult.

Weigh regularly. Plan a weigh-in session once a week, checking at the same time of day — and preferably on the same day of the week. You'll show up lightest if you take a reading before breakfast. Whether the needle climbs or falls, this regular check will provide incentive to keep down the calories.

Sandra Thomas, Ronald Marder To Wed In June

The engagement of Sandra Louise Thomas and Ronald Marder was announced at a buffet dinner New Year's eve by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Thomas of Novato.

The bride-elect is head majorette, treasurer of the student body and was football queen candidate in 1961 at Novato High School, where she will graduate this spring. She has two sisters, Linda and Randa who also reside in Novato. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Thomas of Sausalito and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Cuneo of Corte Madera.

The future bridgeroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Marder, also of Novato. His brothers, Kenny, Les and Gary reside at home. Mrs. M. E. Marder and the late Mr. Marder of Kentfield and Mrs. G. A. Winters and the late Mr. Winters of San Francisco are Ronald's grandparents.

The future benedict played basketball and baseball while attending Novato High School where he graduated in 1959. Following six months at College of Marin, he is at present serving with the U.S. Air Force.

Plans have been made by the couple for a June 23 wedding.

THE PARENTS' CORNER

By RICHMOND BARBOUR, Ph. D
Guidance Counselor

Children Who Are Lazy About Housekeeping Are Normal, But . . .

Are your children lazy when it comes to doing housework? Then they're normal. Normal, but irritating. Right?

I wish there was an easy way to teach children to keep their rooms clean, wash the dishes peacefully, and generally do their share of the jobs. But there isn't any. Remember, children are born savages. Dirt doesn't bother them a bit, nor mess, nor confusion. We have to civilize 'em. It isn't easy.

What can you do? I suggest you start early, with regular chores. Your 5-year-old can empty the wastebaskets. Your 7-year-old can sort out clothes for washing. Give each child something. Make it a task which is his alone, so you can hold him responsible. If children share a job they argue endlessly.

Don't weaken. Often it would be easier to do the work yourself. But if you do, your children will learn nothing. They'll be all the lazier. It is better for them if you're inflexible.

Should you use rewards? Many folks do. They pay the child who does the dishes a dime. Or the one who mows the lawn a fifty-cent piece. It is a questionable system. I believe your youngsters should do their share of the work simply because they're members of the family. Use rewards when they exceed the call of duty. But not for routine chores.

Will your children ever catch on? The answer is yet. Eventually the habit of helping with the housework becomes second nature. They'll do their jobs without being reminded. When does this stage arrive? Usually when they're 17 or 18. Then you can relax.

READERS' FORUM

(Q) "My husband helps me with the housework, and always washes the dishes after dinner. He is the only husband on the block to do such things. The other men say he is henpecked. Is it wrong for a man to help his wife" —Mrs. V.L.R.

(A) No, it is not. Your neighbors should help their wives, too. Let your husband know how much you appreciate him.

Teens Divided On Credit Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Even some teenagers aren't sure that their own charge accounts are the thing to have.

University of Massachusetts Extension people recently interviewed 52 girls and their parents in nine cities. These researchers found that only one out of three girls felt that a charge account would be a valuable experience in learning to handle money. Another third said "it depends" on an individual's judgement and on her willingness to accept the responsibility.

The rest thought parental concern should be necessary. Parents, apparently thinking of bills they might have to pay, were even more cautious. Their reasons were several. A teenager lacks the ability to decide what she needs and what's a luxury.

Sir Francis Drake Dance Set Jan. 20

"Circus Maxmus" a Sir Francis Drake High School dance, will be given Jan. 20 at 9 p.m. in the girls gym.

The dance, which will have a Roman theme, is sponsored by the Latin Club, under the direction of Jan Horvath, chairman. "The Chord Lords" will provide the entertainment.

Split-Level Look For Apartments

CHICAGO (UPI) — Furniture designers are giving more attention to the split-level look in the one-room apartment.

Designers use platforms, balconies and even daisies in various ways calculated to add architectural interest to the one-room apartment and make it appear roomier by separating areas of activity.

Designer Ronnie Brahms sought to make maximum use of all space in the room by adding a balcony deck and tucking storage units and a foam rubber trundle couch under the overhanging deck. The couch could be rolled out of sight under the deck or pulled out into the room for extra seating when needed.

Margaret Gordon Dana used a platform to divide the room into a raised music and conversation area and sunken library or reading nook. She used a built-in foam rubber couch as a room divider between the two levels.

Jacob Bachstein created a Japanese look in a split-level room by the use of a dias to set aside a separate area for relaxing. Furniture for the dias was a loveseat sofa and roomy coffee table, flanked with plump floor cushions for extra seating.

Several designers used dramatic contrasts in tiled flooring to emphasize the different levels in the room. Even more striking was a chrome-plated steel spiral staircase used by one designer to connect a miniature balcony with the main floor, and call attention to the two levels.

Steps Toward Weight Reduction

Statistics show that 95 per cent of overweight people simply eat too much. If you are one of the 45 million heavyweights in the nation today, these steps should start you toward becoming straight and narrow—and staying that way.

First, weigh. Don't be afraid to face the scale. This precision instrument will be your biggest morale booster and severest critic.

Consult your physician. Only your doctor has the knowledge to decide how much, how fast, and what diet will help you lose weight. Physical condition, amount of overweight and individual living habits must determine the safest plan for you.

Determine ideal weight. Only a physician can tell you—on the basis of your weight, bone structure, and muscular development — what you should weigh. But, because no two people are alike, he will try to judge the point at which you will look and feel your best.

Know yourself. Most people merely continue with poor eating habits developed in early years. Others console themselves by munching when they are lonely or are worried about money, family, job or social standing.

Count your calories. A calorie is the amount of energy the system receives from a given amount of food. The body absorbs the energy it needs and ingeniously stores surplus in the form of fat. Paring down this needless reserve and making sure it doesn't pile up again are the only effective weight reduction steps.

Retrain the appetite. Appetite is not hunger. Natural desire to eat can become channeled into an artificial food craving. Learn to fell well-fed without in-between meal snacks.

Eat balanced meals. Fats, sugar, starches and protein all supply energy for the human body and perform their own function within the internal motor. As with a car, too lean a mixture of fuel is harmful. It's the proper balance of nutritional calories that keeps you trim.

Improve eating habits. Skipping a meal doesn't save calories; instead the strain on your nerves will make you eat twice as much next time. You will also receive greater satisfaction from less food if you eat slowly.

Exercise in moderation. Exercise will not actually remove pounds, but even simple walking will improve muscle tone and circulation, and relax tension in any healthy adult.

Weigh regularly. Plan a weigh-in session once a week, checking at the same time of day — and preferably on the same day of the week. You'll show up lightest if you take a reading before breakfast. Whether the needle climbs or falls, this regular check will provide incentive to keep down the calories.

Sandra Thomas, Ronald Marder To Wed In June

The engagement of Sandra Louise Thomas and Ronald Marder was announced at a buffet dinner New Year's eve by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Thomas of Novato.

The bride-elect is head majorette, treasurer of the student body and was football queen candidate in 1961 at Novato High School, where she will graduate this spring. She has two sisters, Linda and Randa who also reside in Novato. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Thomas of Sausalito and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Cuneo of Corte Madera.

The future bridgeroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Marder, also of Novato. His brothers, Kenny, Les and Gary reside at home. Mrs. M. E. Marder and the late Mr. Marder of Kentfield and Mrs. G. A. Winters and the late Mr. Winters of San Francisco are Ronald's grandparents.

The future benedict played basketball and baseball while attending Novato High School where he graduated in 1959. Following six months at College of Marin, he is at present serving with the U.S. Air Force.

Plans have been made by the couple for a June 23 wedding.

Guidance Counselor

Children Who Are Lazy About Housekeeping Are Normal, But . . .

Are your children lazy when it comes to doing housework? Then they're normal. Normal, but irritating. Right?

I wish there was an easy way to teach children to keep their rooms clean, wash the dishes peacefully, and generally do their share of the jobs. But there isn't any. Remember, children are born savages. Dirt doesn't bother them a bit, nor mess, nor confusion. We have to civilize 'em. It isn't easy.

What can you do? I suggest you start early, with regular chores. Your 5-year-old can empty the wastebaskets. Your 7-year-old can sort out clothes for washing. Give each child something. Make it a task which is his alone, so you can hold him responsible. If children share a job they argue endlessly.

Don't weaken. Often it would be easier to do the work yourself. But if you do, your children will learn nothing. They'll be all the lazier. It is better for them if you're inflexible.

Should you use rewards? Many folks do. They pay the child who does the dishes a dime. Or the one who mows the lawn a fifty-cent piece. It is a questionable system. I believe your youngsters should do their share of the work simply because they're members of the family. Use rewards when they exceed the call of duty. But not for routine chores.

Will your children ever catch on? The answer is yet. Eventually the habit of helping with the housework becomes second nature. They'll do their jobs without being reminded. When does this stage arrive? Usually when they're 17 or 18. Then you can relax.

Teens Divided On Credit Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Even some teenagers aren't sure that their own charge accounts are the thing to have.

University of Massachusetts Extension people recently interviewed 52 girls and their parents in nine cities. These researchers found that only one out of three girls felt that a charge account would be a valuable experience in learning to handle money. Another third said "it depends" on an individual's judgement and on her willingness to accept the responsibility.

The rest thought parental concern should be necessary. Parents, apparently thinking of bills they might have to pay, were even more cautious. Their reasons were several. A teenager lacks the ability to decide what she needs and what's a luxury.

Radical Left May Threaten As Much As Radical Right

A major crime that the "radical right" stands accused of these days is voicing the belief that the nation is endangered not only by communist pressures from without but also by socialist pressures from within.

"If socialism (i. e., the ownership by the state of all significant means of production) is to preserve democracy, it must be brought about step by step in a way which will not disrupt the fabric of custom, law, and mutual confidence upon which personal rights depend.

"That is, the transition must be piecemeal; it must be parliamentary; it must respect civil liberties and due process of law . . . There seems no inherent obstacle to the gradual advance of socialism in the United States through a series of New Deals . . .

"Government ownership and control can take many forms. The independent public corporation, in the manner of TVA, is one; state and municipal ownership; the techniques of the cooperatives can be expanded; even the resources of regulation have not been fully tapped . . .

"Socialism, then, appears quite practicable within this frame of reference, as a long-term proposition. Its gradual advance might well preserve order and law, keep enough internal checks and discontinuities to guarantee a measure of freedom, and evolve new and real forms for the expression of democracy. The active agents in effecting the transition will probably be, not the working class, but some combination of lawyers, business and labor managers, politicians and intellectuals, in the manner of the first New Deal, or of the Labor government in Britain . . .

"In England the business classes have had the aristocracy, and now the Socialists, to protect them . . .

"But the American business community continues to resist the radical democracy, like a drowning man thrashing out at his rescuer. In so doing, it may destroy the possibility of a peaceful transition to socialism."

If Presidential adviser Schlessinger's concluding sentence means anything, it appears to indicate that if Americans who believe in the free enterprise system don't stop resisting the peaceful transition to socialism, they are going to get socialism rammed violently down their throats.

Unless Professor Schlessinger has radically altered his views—and there is no indication that he has—there would seem to be more danger at the moment from the "radical left" than the "radical right." Certainly the former are currently in positions of far greater influence.

'READY TO SOLVE ALL OUR BURNING PROBLEMS!'

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

HALF-CENTURY RECORD QUICKLY SPOILED

After driving an automobile for 50 years without a single accident, a man in Los Angeles broke his record in a matter of minutes—and in a big way.

After parking his car, the 72-year-old man had hardly stepped out when a defective brake loosened and the automobile started to move.

It continued down the street for 85 feet, smashed through 2 chain-link fences, rolled down a 22-foot embankment, righted itself, crossed a street, went through 3 more fences, broke a clothes line and finally came to rest in a vacant lot.

The helpless driver held on to the side of the car at the start of the topsy-turvy escapade but was knocked off unhurt when the auto passed between 2 trees.

No matter how good your record may be, take nothing for granted. A slight oversight can cause the achievement of a lifetime to be quickly lost.

Too much is at stake for time and for eternity to let down for even a moment.

(Psalm 140:3)

Protect me against my weaknesses, O Lord.

HAL BOYLE'S COLUMN

All the world is a desperate kindergarten.

The goal of most children is a simple one—to be grown up. Or they think it is their goal.

Not too long ago I asked my 8-year-old daughter what her greatest ambition was?

"To be a teen-ager," she replied.

My mind reeled at the thought of anyone picking being a teen-ager as an ideal existence, but I asked her why.

"Because no one tells a teen-ager what to do," my daughter replied. "Teen-agers are their own boss."

Well, there was a modicum of truth in her observation. Certainly there never has been a generation in which teen-agers have rebelled more successfully against parental authority. But in the world the teen-ager must face a few years later many are waiting to tell him what to do. And unless he is extarordinarily strong and fierce, they will make him do it, too.

THIS IS ONE of the great but usually unmentioned tragedies of life—the discovery of the child upon gaining physical maturity that being a so-called adult does not mean he can now at last have his own way.

It only means he is a prisoner of more demands and responsibilities on another level.

DEEP WITHIN us, most of us grownups never really grow up. We cherish a hidden resentment because adulthood hasn't solved all our woes and given us endless freedom, but instead has saddled us with fresh obligations and denied the total fulfillment of new desires.

We remain children betrayed, and inside us we go on throwing tantrums as we once did as younger and smaller children when our purposes were frustrated or our wishes blocked.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Supervisor Behr Lauds Fusselman

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

It was enjoyable to read the column of my friend, Randy Gould, which speculates on the future relationships between myself and our senior supervisor, Mr. William Fusselman.

There is no reason to doubt that Mr. Fusselman and I will enjoy a cordial relationship during our period together on the Board of Supervisors. From the first time I took my seat, Mr. Fusselman has extended me every courtesy and has been most cordial and helpful ever since. I trust he will continue to lend me the background of his long experience in office in the future. I feel confident that I speak for myself and Mr. Fusselman in saying that neither of us desire to indulge in any feud of any kind, which would be in the worst interests of county government. If on occasion we may voice our views strongly, this is the natural result of each being equally sincere in holding his own view on any given subject.

While I disagree with Mr. Fusselman on some matters of policy which are important, this does not mean I do not respect his viewpoint nor will it mean we will necessarily find ourselves voting opposite to each other more often than either of us will be voting against or with any of the other three Supervisors on the Board.

From my brief time on the Board I can say sincerely that I have the highest regard for all my colleagues and the humility to realize that the experience of each of them far exceeds mine. In terms of predictions it may well be there will be no majority or minority bloc on the present board. Should this be so, I hope you will agree that this will be in the best interests of county government.

Praise For All Who Helped After Fire

Independent-Journal:

Saturday evening, Jan .6, a severe fire occurred in the professional building at 711 D Street, San Rafael. As an early observer at the medical center, I thought everything would be lost. It was not, because of the efficient and heroic action of our fire department, which was aided by the close cooperation of our police department. Due to their efforts the center is in operation today. This achievement was also aided by the authorities and work crews of the PG&E Co. and the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., who were instrumental in restoring services. Mayor John McGinnis was on the scene to help in an administrative way.

Mr. Andrew A. Thomas, chief building inspector in San Rafael, came down on Sunday and checked out the building for Mr. Leo Strauss, member of the board of directors of the center, who worked all night with clean up crews to bring the center back into a functional state. Needless to say, we want to express our sincere appreciation to Fire Chief Vance Trivett, and his men, Police Chief Charles Chiesa, and his men, the Pacific Telephone Co. and the PG&E Co. for a job remarkably well done.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

From Des Moines comes the story of the beautiful and restless young wife of an elderly Wall Street millionaire who perked up considerably when the millionaire's dashing nephew came for a week of fishing and golf at their Palm Beach estate. After dinner the second night, the husband fell asleep over his copy of The Wall Street Journal and the wife cuddled up to the nephew. "Pull a hair out of his head," she whispered, "and if he doesn't wake up, I'll let you kiss me."

The trick worked so neatly and the kissing was so enjoyable that the nephew was in the act of pulling out the elderly husband's seventh hair when said husband bounded to his feet in a rage. "Confound it all, Jack," he roared to his nephew, "kiss your imbecile aunt all you please, but I'm darned if you'll use my head for a scoreboard!"

Warns British Member of Parliament M. Edman: "Censorship is like an appendix. When inert it is useless; when active it is extremely dangerous."

School Superintendents Ought To Get 1-Year, Not 4-Year Contracts

THE DECIDEDLY unusual situation which has developed in Novato over a school superintendent's contract points up a practice which may bear only indirectly on the problem there.

Under California law, each school district has a board of five trustees. These trustees are elected to four-year terms (in most districts, the terms were three years until new legislation changed them in 1960). In each even-numbered year, either two or three of the trustee positions in each district come up for election.

LET'S SUPPOSE that three of the five trustee posts in a district are up for election. There is some dissatisfaction. Candidates who are critical of the way the district's schools are operating win election—for four years.

Suppose these new trustees find, after taking their seats on the board, that the things to which they object are being done by the superintendent rather than by the board itself. Two courses are open to them: serve notice on the superintendent to follow board policies, or look for a new superintendent.

Because the superintendent has wide powers in operation of the schools, and because the line between what is "policy" and what is "administration" is never very clear, these trustees—a majority of the board—may decide the latter course is preferable.

However, they may then find that the superintendent has just received a four-year contract renewal — although his former contract has not yet expired.

THIS OCCURS because of a rather odd provision of the Education Code which says that a superintendent must be notified by Dec. 31 if the board does not plan to renew his contract expiring the next June 30.

Thus the board majority, taking office in May, finds it can do nothing about the superintendent's contract until nearly four years have elapsed. This means that these trustees have to wait almost their entire terms before they can get a new superintendent.

The people, who expected the board members to correct certain faults with the schools, naturally are somewhat disillusioned when nothing happens—because the things to which they object are being continued by the superintendent.

It is not unusual for one or more of the "reform" trustees to resign in disgust long before completion of the four-year term. Generally he will not state his real reason for resigning, because of an understandable but unfortunate aversion to "washing the district's dirty linen in public."

UNTIL THIS YEAR, the replacement would be named by the county superintendent. He could be expected to try to pick a person whose philosophies of education matched his own — though that might be contrary to the philosophy desired in the district where the vacancy occurred.

Under a new law now in effect, the remaining district trustees pick the new member. If the board is divided, the choice may be expected to be a compromise. And when the time for notifying the superintendent that his contract will not be renewed finally arrives, this compromise selection—who was never elected—may prefer to let things go along as they are.

In this way, the elected trustees—and through them, the people—may be thwarted in the tremendously important function of employing administrators who can do the job the people (who pay their salaries) want done.

THE OBVIOUS solution would be to make superintendents' contracts renewable every year, as are those of teachers. And, because of the importance of their jobs and the premium pay they receive, it would seem desirable to keep superintendents exempted from the tenure provisions which protect teachers from dismissal after a probationary period.

If this solution is suggested to school trustees, the usual reply is that good superintendents cannot be hired on one-year contracts.

If this is true, it is because school trustees have made it so. If, through their state association, they would agree to offer only one-year contracts to administrators, this difficulty would disappear.

The people would thus get back a little of the control of the schools to which they would seem to be entitled for paying the bills.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Governorship Gives Rockefeller Chance To Demonstrate Abilities

WASHINGTON — Nelson Rockefeller's annual message to the New York state legislature—delivered in person and televised live like a President of the United States—shows what an incomparable asset it is for a politician-with-a-future to be operating from the chair of chief executive of a chief American state.

Two other nationally minded Republican leaders, Richard Nixon and George Romney, must note Mr. Rockefeller's performance with envy and anticipation. Each has his eye on being elected governor before the year is out—Mr. Nixon in California and Mr. Romney in Michigan. They can now see fresh evidence of how powerful a major governorship is in projecting a political image to the nation.

GOV. ROCKEFELLER could do more than just talk about how nice it is to have a balanced budget; he could report how in his administration a balanced budget had been achieved for three consecutive years.

Gov. Rockefeller could do more than tell the country how desirable it is to reduce the government debt in times of prosperity; he could demonstrate how he had reduced New York state's debt and increased its financial reserves at the same time.

He could show how New York state has been able to reduce its rate of unemployment below the national average, how it has achieved 450,000 new private-industry jobs in three years, how over this same period is has increased state aid to public schools by more than 50 per cent, how New York state is doing more than the Federal government to curtail racial discrimination, how the state has pioneered in constructive social legislation.

NO BETTER POLITICAL sermon can be preached than sound government practiced.

This was Nelson Rockefeller's theme in his "State in the Union" message. He did not have to argue it very much. All he had to do was to report it and demonstrate, as he did, that he is still looking forward, not backward.

The stronger position of the performer over the advocate must be very appealing to Mr. Nixon and Mr. Romney who themselves are disposed to be performers, not just talkers. This is why each of them is interested in a governorship. If they can win their elections, they will find California and Michigan ideal laboratories in which to prove what they can do. These are large, complex, politically powerful states with social and economic problems the whole country has to meet.

IN THE COURSE of his message, which I found both progressive and practical, Gov. Rockefeller made two particularly valuable observations.

One is that in our Federal system the state should not sit back and wait for the Federal government to act; it should be a leader and an innovator. In other words, when a state government neglects its state responsibilities, it is inviting Federal power to come in and fill the vacuum. As Mr. Rockefeller puts it, "states' rights can only be preserved by meeting states' responsibilities."

Mr. Rockefeller also suggests an end to the loose use of "liberal" and "conservative" as argumentative labels. He says:

"We should not be misled by labels — for example, whether a given piece of legislation carries, for some people, the label of 'liberal' or 'conservative.' Our only concern must be: does it truly serve the general welfare?

"Similarly, vital economic decisions must not be made in the false terms of choosing between 'pro-labor' or 'pro-business' programs. The implied conflict is grossly misleading."

This is wise counsel based on experience. In the end what will count most for Gov. Rockefeller is not what he says but what he does in practicing his don't-label-me philosophy of humane government based on fiscal integrity, social welfare based on freedom of competitive enterprise, and racial justice based on human dignity.

Radical Left May Threaten As Much As Radical Right

A major crime that the "radical right" stands accused of these days is voicing the belief that the nation is endangered not only by communist pressures from without but also by socialist pressures from within.

"If socialism (i. e., the ownership by the state of all significant means of production) is to preserve democracy, it must be brought about step by step in a way which will not disrupt the fabric of custom, law, and mutual confidence upon which personal rights depend.

"That is, the transition must be piecemeal; it must be parliamentary; it must respect civil liberties and due process of law . . . There seems no inherent obstacle to the gradual advance of socialism in the United States through a series of New Deals . . .

"Government ownership and control can take many forms. The independent public corporation, in the manner of TVA, is one; state and municipal ownership; the techniques of the cooperatives can be expanded; even the resources of regulation have not been fully tapped . . .

"Socialism, then, appears quite practicable within this frame of reference, as a long-term proposition. Its gradual advance might well preserve order and law, keep enough internal checks and discontinuities to guarantee a measure of freedom, and evolve new and real forms for the expression of democracy. The active agents in effecting the transition will probably be, not the working class, but some combination of lawyers, business and labor managers, politicians and intellectuals, in the manner of the first New Deal, or of the Labor government in Britain . . .

"In England the business classes have had the aristocracy, and now the Socialists, to protect them . . .

"But the American business community continues to resist the radical democracy, like a drowning man thrashing out at his rescuer. In so doing, it may destroy the possibility of a peaceful transition to socialism."

If Presidential adviser Schlessinger's concluding sentence means anything, it appears to indicate that if Americans who believe in the free enterprise system don't stop resisting the peaceful transition to socialism, they are going to get socialism rammed violently down their throats.

Unless Professor Schlessinger has radically altered his views—and there is no indication that he has—there would seem to be more danger at the moment from the "radical left" than the "radical right." Certainly the former are currently in positions of far greater influence. —James Dorais.

'READY TO SOLVE ALL OUR BURNING PROBLEMS!'

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

HALF-CENTURY RECORD QUICKLY SPOILED

After driving an automobile for 50 years without a single accident, a man in Los Angeles broke his record in a matter of minutes—and in a big way.

After parking his car, the 72-year-old man had hardly stepped out when a defective brake loosened and the automobile started to move.

It continued down the street for 85 feet, smashed through 2 chain-link fences, rolled down a 22-foot embankment, righted itself, crossed a street, went through 3 more fences, broke a clothes line and finally came to rest in a vacant lot.

The helpless driver held on to the side of the car at the start of the topsy-turvy escapade but was knocked off unhurt when the auto passed between 2 trees.

No matter how good your record may be, take nothing for granted. A slight oversight can cause the achievement of a lifetime to be quickly lost.

Too much is at stake for time and for eternity to let down for even a moment.

(Psalm 140:3)

Protect me against my weaknesses, O Lord.

HAL BOYLE'S COLUMN

All the world is a desperate kindergarten.

Once one understands how few people every truly grow up in this life, most of its mysteries stand explained.

What puzzles most children about adults is that they often don't act like adults — or at least as children believe adults ought to act.

They fail to realize that a grown-up ordinarily differs from a child chiefly in the fact that he is bigger, less trusting and an abler hypocrite at hiding his true feelings.

The goal of most children is a simple one—to be grown up. Or they think it is their goal.

Not too long ago I asked my 8-year-old daughter what her greatest ambition was?

"To be a teen-ager," she replied.

My mind reeled at the thought of anyone picking being a teen-ager as an ideal existence, but I asked her why.

"Because no one tells a teen-ager what to do," my daughter replied. "Teen-agers are their own boss."

Well, there was a modicum of truth in her observation. Certainly there never has been a generation in which teen-agers have rebelled more successfully against parental authority. But in the world the teen-ager must face a few years later many are waiting to tell him what to do. And unless he is extarordinarily strong and fierce, they will make him do it, too.

THIS IS ONE of the great but usually unmentioned tragedies of life—the discovery of the child upon gaining physical maturity that being a so-called adult does not mean he can now at last have his own way.

It only means he is a prisoner of more demands and responsibilities on another level.

DEEP WITHIN us, most of us grownups never really grow up. We cherish a hidden resentment because adulthood hasn't solved all our woes and given us endless freedom, but instead has saddled us with fresh obligations and denied the total fulfillment of new desires.

We remain children betrayed, and inside us we go on throwing tantrums as we once did as younger and smaller children when our purposes were frustrated or our wishes blocked.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Supervisor Behr Lauds Fusselman

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

It was enjoyable to read the column of my friend, Randy Gould, which speculates on the future relationships between myself and our senior supervisor, Mr. William Fusselman.

There is no reason to doubt that Mr. Fusselman and I will enjoy a cordial relationship during our period together on the Board of Supervisors. From the first time I took my seat, Mr. Fusselman has extended me every courtesy and has been most cordial and helpful ever since. I trust he will continue to lend me the background of his long experience in office in the future. I feel confident that I speak for myself and Mr. Fusselman in saying that neither of us desire to indulge in any feud of any kind, which would be in the worst interests of county government. If on occasion we may voice our views strongly, this is the natural result of each being equally sincere in holding his own view on any given subject.

While I disagree with Mr. Fusselman on some matters of policy which are important, this does not mean I do not respect his viewpoint nor will it mean we will necessarily find ourselves voting opposite to each other more often than either of us will be voting against or with any of the other three Supervisors on the Board.

From my brief time on the Board I can say sincerely that I have the highest regard for all my colleagues and the humility to realize that the experience of each of them far exceeds mine. In terms of predictions it may well be there will be no majority or minority bloc on the present board. Should this be so, I hope you will agree that this will be in the best interests of county government.

Praise For All Who Helped After Fire

Independent-Journal:

Saturday evening, Jan .6, a severe fire occurred in the professional building at 711 D Street, San Rafael. As an early observer at the medical center, I thought everything would be lost. It was not, because of the efficient and heroic action of our fire department, which was aided by the close cooperation of our police department. Due to their efforts the center is in operation today. This achievement was also aided by the authorities and work crews of the PG&E Co. and the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., who were instrumental in restoring services. Mayor John McGinnis was on the scene to help in an administrative way.

Mr. Andrew A. Thomas, chief building inspector in San Rafael, came down on Sunday and checked out the building for Mr. Leo Strauss, member of the board of directors of the center, who worked all night with clean up crews to bring the center back into a functional state. Needless to say, we want to express our sincere appreciation to Fire Chief Vance Trivett, and his men, Police Chief Charles Chiesa, and his men, the Pacific Telephone Co. and the PG&E Co. for a job remarkably well done.

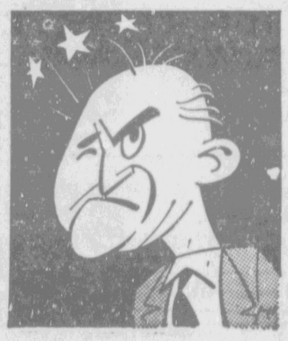
TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

From Des Moines comes the story of the beautiful and restless young wife of an elderly Wall Street millionaire who perked up considerably when the millionaire's dashing nephew came for a week of fishing and golf at their Palm Beach estate. After dinner the second night, the husband fell asleep over his copy of The Wall Street Journal and the wife cuddled up to the nephew. "Pull a hair out of his head," she whispered, "and if he doesn't wake up, I'll let you kiss me."



The trick worked so neatly and the kissing was so enjoyable that the nephew was in the act of pulling out the elderly husband's seventh hair when said husband bounded to his feet in a rage. "Confound it all, Jack," he roared to his nephew, "kiss your imbecile aunt all you please, but I'm darned if you'll use my head for a scoreboard!"

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Governorship Gives Rockefeller Chance To Demonstrate Abilities

WASHINGTON — Nelson Rockefeller's annual message to the New York state legislature—delivered in person and televised live like a President of the United States—shows what an incomparable asset it is for a politician-with-a-future to be operating from the chair of chief executive of a chief American state.

Two other nationally minded Republican leaders, Richard Nixon and George Romney, must note Mr. Rockefeller's performance with envy and anticipation. Each has his eye on being elected governor before the year is out—Mr. Nixon in California and Mr. Romney in Michigan. They can now see fresh evidence of how powerful a major governorship is in projecting a political image to the nation.

GOV. ROCKEFELLER could do more than just talk about how nice it is to have a balanced budget; he could report how in his administration a balanced budget had been achieved for three consecutive years.

Gov. Rockefeller could do more than tell the country how desirable it is to reduce the government debt in times of prosperity; he could demonstrate how he had reduced New York state's debt and increased its financial reserves at the same time.

He could show how New York state has been able to reduce its rate of unemployment below the national average, how it has achieved 450,000 new private-industry jobs in three years, how over this same period is has increased state aid to public schools by more than 50 per cent, how New York state is doing more than the Federal government to curtail racial discrimination, how the state has pioneered in constructive social legislation.

NO BETTER POLITICAL sermon can be preached than sound government practiced.

This was Nelson Rockefeller's theme in his "State in the Union" message. He did not have to argue it very much. All he had to do was to report it and demonstrate, as he did, that he is still looking forward, not backward.

The stronger position of the performer over the advocate must be very appealing to Mr. Nixon and Mr. Romney who themselves are disposed to be performers, not just talkers. This is why each of them is interested in a governorship. If they can win their elections, they will find California and Michigan ideal laboratories in which to prove what they can do. These are large, complex, politically powerful states with social and economic problems the whole country has to meet.

IN THE COURSE of his message, which I found both progressive and practical, Gov. Rockefeller made two particularly valuable observations.

One is that in our Federal system the state should not sit back and wait for the Federal government to act; it should be a leader and an innovator. In other words, when a state government neglects its state responsibilities, it is inviting Federal power to come in and fill the vacuum. As Mr. Rockefeller puts it, "states' rights can only be preserved by meeting states' responsibilities."

Mr. Rockefeller also suggests an end to the loose use of "liberal" and "conservative" as argumentative labels. He says:

"We should not be misled by labels — for example, whether a given piece of legislation carries, for some people, the label of 'liberal' or 'conservative.' Our only concern must be: does it truly serve the general welfare?

"Similarly, vital economic decisions must not be made in the false terms of choosing between 'pro-labor' or 'pro-business' programs. The implied conflict is grossly misleading."

This is wise counsel based on experience. In the end what will count most for Gov. Rockefeller is not what he says but what he does in practicing his don't-label-me philosophy of humane government based on fiscal integrity, social welfare based on freedom of competitive enterprise, and racial justice based on human dignity.

IJ REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

School Superintendents Ought To Get 1-Year, Not 4-Year Contracts

THE DECIDEDLY unusual situation which has developed in Novato over a school superintendent's contract points up a practice which may bear only indirectly on the problem there.

This is the practice of granting four-year contracts to district administrators.

Under California law, each school district has a board of five trustees. These trustees are elected to four-year terms (in most districts, the terms were three years until new legislation changed them in 1960). In each even-numbered year, either two or three of the trustee positions in each district come up for election.

If the people are dissatisfied with anything in their public schools, their only ready remedy is at the polls.

LET'S SUPPOSE that three of the five trustee posts in a district are up for election. There is some dissatisfaction. Candidates who are critical of the way the district's schools are operating win election—for four years.

Suppose these new trustees find, after taking their seats on the board, that the things to which they object are being done by the superintendent rather than by the board itself. Two courses are open to them: serve notice on the superintendent to follow board policies, or look for a new superintendent.

Because the superintendent has wide powers in operation of the schools, and because the line between what is "policy" and what is "administration" is never very clear, these trustees—a majority of the board—may decide the latter course is preferable.

However, they may then find that the superintendent has just received a four-year contract renewal — although his former contract has not yet expired.

THIS OCCURS because of a rather odd provision of the Education Code which says that a superintendent must be notified by Dec. 31 if the board does not plan to renew his contract expiring the next June 30.

Thus the board majority, taking office in May, finds it can do nothing about the superintendent's contract until nearly four years have elapsed. This means that these trustees have to wait almost their entire terms before they can get a new superintendent.

The people, who expected the board members to correct certain faults with the schools, naturally are somewhat disillusioned when nothing happens—because the things to which they object are being continued by the superintendent.

It is not unusual for one or more of the "reform" trustees to resign in disgust long before completion of the four-year term. Generally he will not state his real reason for resigning, because of an understandable but unfortunate aversion to "washing the district's dirty linen in public."

UNTIL THIS YEAR, the replacement would be named by the county superintendent. He could be expected to try to pick a person whose philosophies of education matched his own — though that might be contrary to the philosophy desired in the district where the vacancy occurred.

Under a new law now in effect, the remaining district trustees pick the new member. If the board is divided, the choice may be expected to be a compromise. And when the time for notifying the superintendent that his contract will not be renewed finally arrives, this compromise selection—who was never elected—may prefer to let things go along as they are.

In this way, the elected trustees—and through them, the people—may be thwarted in the tremendously important function of employing administrators who can do the job the people (who pay their salaries) want done.

THE OBVIOUS solution would be to make superintendents' contracts renewable every year, as are those of teachers. And, because of the importance of their jobs and the premium pay they receive, it would seem desirable to keep superintendents exempted from the tenure provisions which protect teachers from dismissal after a probationary period.

If this solution is suggested to school trustees, the usual reply is that good superintendents cannot be hired on one-year contracts.

If this is true, it is because school trustees have made it so. If, through their state association, they would agree to offer only one-year contracts to administrators, this difficulty would disappear.

The people would thus get back a little of the control of the schools to which they would seem to be entitled for paying the bills.

'Man And Civilization' Symposium Slated For U.C. Medical Center

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Man—what he's like, what he does and how he can improve—will be the subject of a symposium on "Man and Civilization: Control of the Mind" at the University of California Medical Center Jan. 26-29.

The first symposium on "Control of the Mind" was held at the medical center last year. The program committee for the 1962 conference said last year's meeting "awakened such an interest as to call for further multidisciplinary examination of the many factors that influence our thought."

The 1962 symposium will emphasize "innate individual potentialities, and factors that encourage or restrict their development and expression," the committee said.

Faculty members from five countries will participate in the symposium. Among the discussion topics will be "Individual Potentialities," "Conformity and Diversity," "Creative Expression" and "The Individual and the Communuity."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

A Good Bridge Player Thinks —And Thinks All The Time

A bridge player's mind is a busy little thing. Clicking and whirring, it considers all the evidence even while its owner seems to be staring at the tall blonde in the green dress. The outcome is a well-played bridge hand or a date for next Tuesday, as the case may be.

Opening lead — ◇ Q

Forget about Tuesday, and play this hand at four hearts. You win the first trick and lead the king of hearts to force out the ace.

Somewhat to your surprise, East produces the ace of hearts. He returns a diamond, and you get your mind on the game. "Let's see the last trick again," you request, and they oblige.

You nod in agreement, but you're thinking of the number nine. Your busy little mind is spinning like crazy.

RECOLLECTIONS: You recall that West and East both passed to begin with. Then West made a vulnerable takeout double of one heart. Why would he want to get back into the auction when the hand almost surely belonged to the other side?

The answer is clear: West has good distribution to make up for his lack of high cards. West would like his distribution only if he had a singleton (or void) in the bid suit.

You have come to the correct conclusion. You win the diamond return, lead a club to dummy's ace and return a trump. East plays low, and you try a finesse with the eight of hearts.

♠ K Q 8 3
♦ Q J 10 9
♣ Q J 8 4

What do you say?

Answer: Pass. You would be willing to encourage partner to bid either black suit, but you cannot afford to double for a takeout because he might respond in hearts. If the hand is a misfit, let the opponents struggle with it.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

1. That, pursuant to the provisions of the Annexation of Uninhabited Territory Act of 1939, a petition signed by owners of not less than one-fourth of the land in the hereinafter described territory, by area and by assessed value as shown on the last equalized assessment roll of the County of Marin, was filed with the Council of the City of San Rafael on January 2nd, 1962, requesting annexation of the hereinafter described territory to said City.

2. That the territory which the petitioners request be annexed to the City of San Rafael and which said City and its Council propose to annex, is situate in the County of Marin, State of California, hereby designated "SAN PEDRO SCHOOL ANNEXATION," and described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the Northeasterly line of San Pedro Road, said point bearing N 55° 07' W 100.00 feet and N 34° 53' E 60.00 feet from the most Easterly corner of Lot 132, Block 10, as shown upon that certain map entitled, "Map of Uplands, Beautiful Villa Sites overlooking San Francisco Bay, near San Rafael, Cal.," filed November 20, 1908 in Book 3 of Maps, at Page 4, Marin County Records; thence along said Northeasterly line of San Pedro Road and along the Corporate Limit Line of the City of San Rafael N 55° 07' W 822.59 feet and S 82° 11' W 163.33 feet; thence leaving said Northeasterly line and Corporate Limit Line S 7° 49' E 60.00 feet to the most Northeasterly corner of Lot 114 as shown on said map; thence S 27° 41' W 164.85 feet and S 1° 35' E 84.75 feet to a point on the Easterly line of Hillside Avenue as shown on said map, said point bearing S 19° 02' E 37.92 feet from the most Southerly corner of said Lot 114; thence Southeasterly along the Northeasterly line of said Hillside Avenue to a point thereon which bears S 34° 53' W from the point of beginning; thence leaving said Northeasterly line of said Hillside Avenue N 34° 53' E 505 feet, more or less, to the point of beginning.

3. That the County Boundary Commission of Marin County, California, did in session duly assembled on Monday, October 16th, 1961, consider the proposed annexation boundaries of said "SAN PEDRO SCHOOL ANNEXATION," as above described. and as submitted to said Commission by the proponents of said annexation.

4. That if said territory is annexed it shall become part of the school district of the City of San Rafael.

5. That Monday, February 5th, 1962, at the hour of 8 o'clock, in the Council Chambers in the City Hall in the City of San Rafael, County of Marin, California, is hereby fixed as the time and place when and where any person owning real property within the uninhabited territory above described and proposed to be annexed to the City of San Rafael, and having any objections to the proposed annexation, may appear before the Council of the City of San Rafael and show cause why such uninhabited territory should not be so annexed to the City of San Rafael. The protest must be in writing, may be filed at any time before the hour set for hearing objections to the proposed annexation, and shall state the name or names of the owner or owners of property affected and the description and area of such property, in general terms.

6. The City Clerk of the City of San Rafael is hereby authorized and directed to cause a copy of this resolution to be published at least twice, but not oftener than once a week, in the Independent-Journal, a newspaper of general circulation published in said City of San Rafael, the city to which it is proposed to annex the aforesaid territory, said publication to be complete at least twenty (20) days prior to the date set for hearing.

7. The City Clerk is directed to cause written notice to be given to such other persons as may be legally entitled thereto, in the manner required by law.

I, W. L. MORGAN, Clerk of the City of San Rafael, hereby certify that the foregoing resolution was duly and regularly introduced and adopted at a Regular meeting of the Council of said City held on Tuesday, the 2nd day of January, 1962, by the following vote, to-wit:

RESOLUTION NO. 3778 N.S.
RESOLUTION OF THE CITY OF MILL VALLEY GIVING NOTICE OF PROPOSED "CAPPS-CASCADE ANNEXATION

WHEREAS, the City of Mill Valley desires to annex the territory more particularly described in Exhibit A attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference, and

WHEREAS, said proposed annexation has been submitted to and approved by the Boundary Commission of the County of Marin, State of California.

NOW THEREFORE, IT IS HEREBY RESOLVED, ORDERED AND DECLARED as follows:

1) The City Council of the City of Mill Valley does hereby give notice of the proposed annexation to said City of that certain territory more particularly described in Exhibit A, attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference. Annexation proceedings will be conducted pursuant to the Annexation of Uninhabited Territory Act of 1939.

2) The proceedings for the annexation of said territory have been initiated by the City Council of the City of Mill Valley on its own motion and the reasons why it desires such annexation are as follows:

a) Said territory, because of its location, topography and other features, should be subjected to the same planning and zoning considerations which are applied by the City of Mill Valley to immediately adjacent incorporated territory.

3) Said annexation shall be designated as the "CAPPS-CASCADE ANNEXATION".

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT ON THE 21st day of February, 1962, at 8 o'clock P.M., or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in the Council Chambers, City Hall, Mill Valley, California, the City Council of the City of Mill Valley will meet to hear written protests against the annexation made by any person owning real property within said territory proposed for annexation.

4) That the City Clerk be, and he is hereby directed to cause a copy of this Resolution to be published in the manner prescribed by Section 35311 of the Government Code of the State of California, and said Clerk is further directed to cause such other notices of the proposed annexation to be given as may be required by said section.

Adopted at a regular meeting of the City Council of the City of Mill Valley this 3rd day of January, 1962.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

A Good Bridge Player Thinks —And Thinks All The Time

A bridge player's mind is a busy little thing. Clicking and whirring, it considers all the evidence even while its owner seems to be staring at the tall blonde in the green dress. The outcome is a well-played bridge hand or a date for next Tuesday, as the case may be.

Opening lead — ◇ Q

Forget about Tuesday, and play this hand at four hearts. You win the first trick and lead the king of hearts to force out the ace.

Somewhat to your surprise, East produces the ace of hearts. He returns a diamond, and you get your mind on the game. "Let's see the last trick again," you request, and they oblige.

You nod in agreement, but you're thinking of the number nine. Your busy little mind is spinning like crazy.

RECOLLECTIONS: You recall that West and East both passed to begin with. Then West made a vulnerable takeout double of one heart. Why would he want to get back into the auction when the hand almost surely belonged to the other side?

The answer is clear: West has good distribution to make up for his lack of high cards. West would like his distribution only if he had a singleton (or void) in the bid suit.

You have come to the correct conclusion. You win the diamond return, lead a club to dummy's ace and return a trump. East plays low, and you try a finesse with the eight of hearts.

You make your contract, winning the rubber. Now you can get up from the table and see what's doing next Tuesday.

♠ K Q 8 3
♦ Q J 10 9
♣ Q J 8 4

What do you say?

Answer: Pass. You would be willing to encourage partner to bid either black suit, but you cannot afford to double for a takeout because he might respond in hearts. If the hand is a misfit, let the opponents struggle with it.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

RESOLUTION NO. 2557
RESOLUTION GIVING NOTICE OF PROPOSED ANNEXATION TO CITY OF SAN RAFAEL OF UNINHABITED TERRITORY DESCRIBED HEREIN AND DESIGNATED "SAN PEDRO SCHOOL ANNEXATION," AND GIVING NOTICE OF TIME AND PLACE FOR HEARING OF PROTESTS THERETO.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SAN RAFAEL:

1. That, pursuant to the provisions of the Annexation of Uninhabited Territory Act of 1939, a petition signed by owners of not less than one-fourth of the land in the hereinafter described territory, by area and by assessed value as shown on the last equalized assessment roll of the County of Marin, was filed with the Council of the City of San Rafael on January 2nd, 1962, requesting annexation of the hereinafter described territory to said City.

2. That the territory which the petitioners request be annexed to the City of San Rafael and which said City and its Council propose to annex, is situate in the County of Marin, State of California, hereby designated "SAN PEDRO SCHOOL ANNEXATION," and described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the Northeasterly line of San Pedro Road, said point bearing N 55° 07' W 100.00 feet and N 34° 53' E 60.00 feet from the most Easterly corner of Lot 132, Block 10, as shown upon that certain map entitled, "Map of Uplands, Beautiful Villa Sites overlooking San Francisco Bay, near San Rafael, Cal.," filed November 20, 1908 in Book 3 of Maps, at Page 4, Marin County Records; thence along said Northeasterly line of San Pedro Road and along the Corporate Limit Line of the City of San Rafael N 55° 07' W 522.59 feet and S 82° 11' W 163.33 feet; thence leaving said Northeasterly line and Corporate Limit Line S 7° 49' E 60.00 feet to the most Northeasterly corner of Lot 114 as shown on said map; thence S 27° 41' W 164.85 feet and S 1° 35' E 84.75 feet to a point on the Easterly line of Hillside Avenue as shown on said map, said point bearing S 19° 02' E 37.92 feet from the most Southerly corner of said Lot 114; thence Southeasterly along the Northeasterly line of said Hillside Avenue to a point thereon which bears S 34° 53' W from the point of beginning; thence leaving said Northeasterly line of said Hillside Avenue N 34° 53' E 505 feet, more or less, to the point of beginning.

3. That the County Boundary Commission of Marin County, California, did in session duly assembled on Monday, October 16th, 1961, consider the proposed annexation boundaries of said "SAN PEDRO SCHOOL ANNEXATION," as above described, and as submitted to said Commission by the proponents of said annexation.

4. That if said territory is annexed it shall become part of the school district of the City of San Rafael.

5. That Monday, February 5th, 1962, at the hour of 8 o'clock, in the Council Chambers in the City Hall in the City of San Rafael, County of Marin, California, is hereby fixed as the time and place when and where any person owning real property within the uninhabited territory above described and proposed to be annexed to the City of San Rafael, and having any objections to the proposed annexation, may appear before the Council of the City of San Rafael and show cause why such uninhabited territory should not be so annexed to the City of San Rafael. The protest must be in writing, may be filed at any time before the hour set for hearing objections to the proposed annexation, and shall state the name or names of the owner or owners of property affected and the description and area of such property, in general terms.

6. The City Clerk of the City of San Rafael is hereby authorized and directed to cause a copy of this resolution to be published at least twice, but not oftener than once a week, in the Independent-Journal, a newspaper of general circulation published in said City of San Rafael, the city to which it is proposed to annex the aforesaid territory, said publication to be complete at least twenty (20) days prior to the date set for hearing.

7. The City Clerk is directed to cause written notice to be given to such other persons as may be legally entitled thereto, in the manner required by law.

I, W. L. MORGAN, Clerk of the City of San Rafael, hereby certify that the foregoing resolution was duly and regularly introduced and adopted at a Regular meeting of the Council of said City held on Tuesday, the 2nd day of January, 1962, by the following vote, to-wit:

If you're looking for the best possible transportation for not too much money then this is IT. We sold it new to local couple in 1953 and they've put only 48,000 actual miles on the care. This is fantastically low mileage considering the car is eight years old. Not a mark of wear anywhere on this car. Original seats and mats 4-dr. Special sedan with gas - saving standard transmission. We'll even tell you who owned it so you can verify the low mileage.

If you're looking for the best possible transportation for not too much money then this is IT. We sold it new to local couple in 1953 and they've put only 48,000 actual miles on the care. This is fantastically low mileage considering the car is eight years old. Not a mark of wear anywhere on this car. Original seats and mats 4-dr. Special sedan with gas-saving standard transmission. We'll even tell you who owned it so you can verify the low mileage.

Demo Convention Deadline Monday

Monday will be the deadline for naming of delegates to the Marin - Sonoma Assembly District's Democratic pre-primary endorsing convention Feb. 17 in Petaluma, Joseph Murphy of Santa Rosa, convention chairman, said today.

The date was set by joint ruling by the Marin - Sonoma Democratic Councils of Clubs, he pointed out. He urged all Democratic club presidents and membership chairmen in both counties to bring as large delegations as possible.

The official convention call to delegates will be sent Feb. 1, he said. About 750 from both counties are expected to vote their preference for a Democratic Party Assembly candidate to run this year.

Catholic Lecture Set For Jan. 18

The second talk in a series of lectures and films on Roman Catholic doctrine will be on the subject, "The Church of Christ," at 8 p.m. Jan. 18 in Star of the Sea Church Hall in Sausalito.

The Rev. Walter Anthony, Paulist missionary priest, also will show a film, "Prayer."

The lectures to be held every Thusrday evening for three months are open to the public and there is no cost or obligation.

MARIN BUSINESS And INDUSTRY

(A Thrice-Weekly Column)
By HARRY CRAFT

New Nearly-New Clothing Shop In San Rafael Called 'Encore'

Encore of Marin, recently opened at 349 Third Street, San Rafael, is described by co-owner Mrs. Dorothy Kendall as "not a rummage shop" but handling nearly new clothing taken on consignment, in first class condition and not outmoded.

Mrs. Kendall who is associated with Mrs. Helen Anderson (both of San Rafael) in the project, says they have established many sources in San Francisco and on the Peninsula for recently styled articles for both men and women, enabling purchaser to keep up their wardrobes at moderate cost.

It is a "first" business venture of this kind for Mrs. Kendall. Mrs. Anderson previously conducted a similar operation in Rochester, N.Y.

UP IN SMOKE. A record of 528 billion U. S. cigarettes were puffed last year—4 per cent above the 1960 total. Smokers paid close to seven billion dollars for their pleasure, of which almost 45 per cent went into federal, state and local excise taxes. Consumption of cigars and cigarillos was the highest since 1923 in spite of any possible "crimp" in good Havanas. Bigger sales records are expected for 1962.

It is noteworthy, however, that "the rate of tobacco chewing is declining."

AND IN MARIN. Lawrence L. Landy of 543 Tamarack Drive, San Rafael, has been notified by New York headquarters of the National Assn. of Tobacco Distributors that he is grand prize winner in an annual sales competition of 5,000 leading American tobacco salesmen.

It's the first time a Westerner has won the top award which happens to be a $1,000 government bond and a trip for Mrs. Landy and himself to the annual NATD convention next April in Miami Beach.

IMPORT of Opel Rekord sedans and Caravan station wagons for sale by Buick dealers is being resumed in 1962. Cars are built by the German manufacturing unit of General Motors, Adam Opel A.G., at Tusselheim. Four-cylinder engines developing 64 horsepower, all-steel body, roof luggage rack and many American car "standards" are featured.

Sales manager Don Collins of Stenstrom Buick, San Rafael, is not sure at this point how far his firm will go to push sales—it's doing right well with Buick Specials—but does say interested parties will be given attention.

MOTORCRAFT. "Nontraveling residents" of San Quentin are getting vicarious kicks out of "European Holiday," a colored travelogue motion picture about motoring on the Continent sent by Rootes Motors, manufacturer of Hillman and Sunbeam cars . . . Renault predicts probable reduction of tariffs on imports into the U.S. during 1962 will be passed along to American buyers in substantial reductions . . . Volvo forecasts our imported car sales this year will run in excess of 400,000 . . . Over 70 million motor vehicles of all types are now in use in the USA. You can picture that number as eight lines of cars bumper to bumper from here to New York . . . Chrysler is still holding fast to the possibilities of the gas turbine engine and experimenting with Plymouths; hopes to have them in use soon.

Ross Studies Setbacks

Variances from zoning setback and lot size ordinances and the matter of street name changes comprise the agenda for a meeting of the Ross Town Council at 8 p.m. today in the town hall.

CHILLY FASHIONS — Face covers and scarves made their bow yesterday in usually blase Chicago as daytime temperatures hit their lowest point in 65 years with an official high of 6 degrees below zero. The young man is a school safety patrol captain; the woman is a downtown shopper and the gentleman is a school crossing patrolman. More cold and gale winds were forecast for today. (AP Wirephoto)

Demo Convention Deadline Monday

Monday will be the deadline for naming of delegates to the Marin - Sonoma Assembly District's Democratic pre-primary endorsing convention Feb. 17 in Petaluma, Joseph Murphy of Santa Rosa, convention chairman, said today.

The date was set by joint ruling by the Marin - Sonoma Democratic Councils of Clubs, he pointed out. He urged all Democratic club presidents and membership chairmen in both counties to bring as large delegations as possible.

The official convention call to delegates will be sent Feb. 1, he said. About 750 from both counties are expected to vote their preference for a Democratic Party Assembly candidate to run this year.

Catholic Lecture Set For Jan. 18

The second talk in a series of lectures and films on Roman Catholic doctrine will be on the subject, "The Church of Christ," at 8 p.m. Jan. 18 in Star of the Sea Church Hall in Sausalito.

The Rev. Walter Anthony, Paulist missionary priest, also will show a film, "Prayer."

The lectures to be held every Thusrday evening for three months are open to the public and there is no cost or obligation.

MARIN BUSINESS And INDUSTRY

(A Thrice-Weekly Column)

New Nearly-New Clothing Shop In San Rafael Called 'Encore'

Encore of Marin, recently opened at 349 Third Street, San Rafael, is described by co-owner Mrs. Dorothy Kendall as "not a rummage shop" but handling nearly new clothing taken on consignment, in first class condition and not outmoded.

Mrs. Kendall who is associated with Mrs. Helen Anderson (both of San Rafael) in the project, says they have established many sources in San Francisco and on the Peninsula for recently styled articles for both men and women, enabling purchaser to keep up their wardrobes at moderate cost.

It is a "first" business venture of this kind for Mrs. Kendall. Mrs. Anderson previously conducted a similar operation in Rochester, N.Y.

UP IN SMOKE. A record of 528 billion U. S. cigarettes were puffed last year—4 per cent above the 1960 total. Smokers paid close to seven billion dollars for their pleasure, of which almost 45 per cent went into federal, state and local excise taxes. Consumption of cigars and cigarillos was the highest since 1923 in spite of any possible "crimp" in good Havanas. Bigger sales records are expected for 1962.

It is noteworthy, however, that "the rate of tobacco chewing is declining."

AND IN MARIN. Lawrence L. Landy of 543 Tamarack Drive, San Rafael, has been notified by New York headquarters of the National Assn. of Tobacco Distributors that he is grand prize winner in an annual sales competition of 5,000 leading American tobacco salesmen.

It's the first time a Westerner has won the top award which happens to be a $1,000 government bond and a trip for Mrs. Landy and himself to the annual NATD convention next April in Miami Beach.

IMPORT of Opel Rekord sedans and Caravan station wagons for sale by Buick dealers is being resumed in 1962. Cars are built by the German manufacturing unit of General Motors, Adam Opel A.G., at Tusselheim. Four-cylinder engines developing 64 horsepower, all-steel body, roof luggage rack and many American car "standards" are featured.

Sales manager Don Collins of Stenstrom Buick, San Rafael, is not sure at this point how far his firm will go to push sales—it's doing right well with Buick Specials—but does say interested parties will be given attention.

MOTORCRAFT. "Nontraveling residents" of San Quentin are getting vicarious kicks out of "European Holiday," a colored travelogue motion picture about motoring on the Continent sent by Rootes Motors, manufacturer of Hillman and Sunbeam cars . . . Renault predicts probable reduction of tariffs on imports into the U.S. during 1962 will be passed along to American buyers in substantial reductions . . . Volvo forecasts our imported car sales this year will run in excess of 400,000 . . . Over 70 million motor vehicles of all types are now in use in the USA. You can picture that number as eight lines of cars bumper to bumper from here to New York . . . Chrysler is still holding fast to the possibilities of the gas turbine engine and experimenting with Plymouths; hopes to have them in use soon.

HEADED FOR SMITHSONIAN

Fulton (Jack) Irwin (left), pioneer aviator from Bolinas teamed up his small car and small plane yesterday to take the last known model of his Irwin Meteorplane to San Carlos Airport, where a group will restore it for shipment to the Smithsonian Institution. The pre-depression plane was known as "The World's First Light Plane." Thousands were manufactured by Irwin in a plant near Sacramento. Visitors Bureau Formed In Marin

Formation of the Marin County Visitors Bureau as a successor to the former visitors bureau of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce was announced today by Esther M. Dearth, chairman of the new group.

A survey made in the county last summer showed "emphatically the desirability of a countywide body, independent of any one civic or business group which embraced all the interested civic and business organizations in the county," she said.

An interim steering committee was named. It consists of Maybelle Culpepper, Larkspur realty broker; Pat Dailey, Marin County Central Labor Council; Mrs. Dearth, Northwestern Savings and Loan Assn.; Frank George, Redwood Travel Advisors; Allen Oddie, San Rafael realty broker; Ray Schultze, San Rafael Insurance broker, and Shaun Wilshire, Wilshire Towers Motel and Restaurant.

Mrs. Dearth said it is contemplated the board of directors of the new bureau will number about 20 and will include representatives of all chambers of commerce in the county.

Plans call for a salaried manager, a permanent office and a budget large enough to "accomplish the job of properly publicizing the county and its attractions," Mrs. Dearth said.

She said the budget would be intended to "inventory existing and stimulate new visitor facilities, promote conventions in the county and insure that Marin will receive a greater share of the millions spent by convention groups in the Bay Area."

She said:

"A forceful, imaginative program which we plan will attract greater support on a countywide basis and will result in millions of dollars being spent in Marin each year.

"This will be felt in greater employment opportunities, increased facilities for visitor and Bay Area resident use and eventually more residents lured here by beauty and attractions enjoyed while they were visitors."

Planners Say More Parking Before Approval

The Larkspur Planning Commission pushed back an architectural drawing for a drug store and two adjoining offices because of lack of parking spaces Tuesday night.

Applying for architectural supervision were Dr. and Mrs. Russell J. Merret of Kentfield. They hope to build the drug store and offices next to the present medical building on Magnolia Avenue near the Old Garden Spot Nursery property. Architect is Felix M. Warburg of San Rafael.

The planners said they would want 43 parking spaces instead of the planned 34 before they would approve the plans.

KENNEDY TO SPEAK AT U.C. DURING MARCH

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy has accepted an invitation to speak at the University of California at Berkeley the week of March 19, the White House has announced.

The president will receive an honorary degree.

The exact date still is to be fixed.

The invitation to him was extended by Clark Kerr, president of the university, and the Board of Regents.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara also will receive an honorary degree at the same time.

Aid To Retarded Installation Set

Dante Bagnani of 48 Glenair Drive, San Rafael, will be installed as president of Marin Aid to Retarded Children at 8 p.m. next Monday at a "meet the teacher" meeting of the society at MARC-Marin Work Training Center on the campus of San Rafael High School.

Others to be installed include Mrs. Irene St. John, first vice president; Mrs. Robert Durenberger, second vice president; Mrs. Morey Quilici, third vice president; Mrs. H. D. Harrington, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. J. Kubon, recording secretary; and Mrs. Fay Blair, treasurer.

Daryl Hopkins, county director of special education, will introduce the following teachers to demonstrate teaching and explain special techniques: Mrs. Lillian Anderson, Mrs. Pat Wolf, Mrs. Kathleen Williams and Robert Holczer. Plans for future Marin County classes will be outlined.

State's School CD Plans Not Uniform

SACRAMENTO (CNS) About two-thirds of California's public schools have written civil defense protection plans for students but the California Disaster Office, following a survey, concluded there is a lack of uniformity and direction in planning throughout the state.

The CDO, in a list of 12 general recommendations, said written plans for periodic civil defense drills should be made mandatory for all schools.

The survey covered 4912 of the state's 5775 public schools, kindergarten through 14th grade. It represented about 85 per cent of the schools but the total enrollment involved was 3,262,893, or about 95 per cent of the total enrollment in the state.

Most of the CDO recommendations concerned directing schools to set up plans, including a recommendation that the department of education publish a guide on school civil defense planning and that county-wide school civil defense planning advisory committees be set up for public and private schools.

The CDO also called for requirements that all schools have adequate warning systems and that shelter areas be designated by specially trained architects and engineers. It called for a survey of private and parochial schools.

The survey showed that 3273 of the 4912 schools answering questionaires had written civil defense plans, or 67 per cent. However, the CDO said only about half of those which had written plans sent back a copy, even though a copy was requested.

The study showed 43 per cent of the schools had advised parents of the plans and the same percentage had coordinated their plans with those of city or county civil defense organizations.

Fifteen per cent of the schools said they had designated fallout shelters, although CDO estimted this figure probably was too high. The survey showed 18 per cent of the schools had marked blast shelter areas within the school.

A total of 39 per cent of the schools answering said that evacuation or dispersal was part of their school plan.

Only 19 per cent indicated they had battery-operated radios to receive conelrad instructions.

Measles Again Lead Disease List

Measles leaped back into the lead as the most prevalent communicable disease in Marin on the basis of new cases reported lest week to the county health department.

Fourteen new measles cases were reported, scattered in Fairfax, Kentfield, San Anselmo, Mill Valley and Novato.

Only three new cases of mumps were reported. Measles and mumps have never been missing from the weekly communicable disease report for several years.

Streptococci infections continued prevalent, with 13 new cases reported. Other communicable diseases reported included a case of rheumatic fever in Novato, and five cases of gonorrhea.

Cole Job Seekers' Deadline Jan. 15

Jan. 15 is the deadline day for North Marinites to apply to the county board of education for appointment to it as successor to Theodore V. Cole.

The board must appoint someone to fill out the term of Cole, who resigned. The Independent-Journal reported in error on Jan. 3 that the board had extended the deadline for applicants to Feb. 15.
